

CITY COUNCIL APPROVES THE KINDERGARTEN DELEGATION

Commissioners Receive Favorable—Would Mean Increase in Taxation

A delegation from the Free Kindergarten Association met the city commissioners yesterday afternoon and urged on them the need of having the kindergarten work under the control of the school trustees. It was asked that the commissioners approve the memorial that is now before the government asking that the kindergarten work in St. John be a part of the public school system. After the delegation had retired the memorial with an amendment stipulating that the board of school trustees with the approval of the council incorporate kindergarten work in connection with the school system, provided the government brought down the necessary legislation was approved.

The delegation was composed of the following: Mrs. Holman, Mrs. William Angus, Mrs. Wm. Allison, Mrs. Flagg, Mrs. W. C. Matthews, W. P. Hatheway, R. T. Hayes, Dr. Manning and R. G. Murray.

Mrs. Holman introduced the subject, and after reading the memorial that was sent to the government asking the members of the commission to approve of it by a resolution.

Mayor Frink asked what the cost would be to the city? Dr. Manning said that the cost was hard to get at. If kindergarten training were adopted for all parts of the city the cost would be quite large, but he thought that the same plan in vogue in connection with the manual training might be adopted and only a few schools opened at first. He pointed out that among the poorer people both mothers and fathers had to go out to work during the day. The younger children were placed in the day nursery, but after a child was four years of age and before it was six, the only place for it was on the street. He thought it would be a good investment on the part of the city to help to educate these younger children.

More Schools Needed. The school buildings at present were very much crowded and the trustees hardly knew what to do. More school buildings besides Douglas avenue were needed. If the buildings were erected provision, if the authority were secured, might be made in them for the kindergarten class. Authority to use the buildings for this purpose was necessary.

Mrs. Matthews pointed out that it cost no more to have a kindergarten department than it did for a first class primary class.

Mrs. Holman explained that the cost of the kindergarten department was $600 per year each, and for this amount 40 children were trained.

R. T. Hayes had found that the kindergarten had appealed to him, and he thought it was better to start the children right rather than to care for them afterwards. The expenditure would pay. Unfortunately boys and girls, who attended the public schools, were compelled to leave too soon, and he thought that in the kindergarten they would start their training earlier.

Dr. Manning thought that the estimate formerly submitted to the commissioners might have been the outside figure.

Mayor Frink thought that the town was growing and that schools were needed on the outskirts. It seemed to be the tendency to rather centralize the new school buildings. He believed that if the buildings were placed in the outlying districts that the people would be attracted to reside near them.

Commissioner McLaughlin referred to the fact that the present school buildings were not large enough for the new course at present. It would mean a new or two out of the present buildings, and this would make it necessary for a couple more buildings to be constructed. He believed that if the scheme passed that the tax payers in all parts of the city would be willing to vote on it till he had an estimate of the cost.

R. G. Murray told of the fine progress made by the kindergarten at the Marsh Bridge, and he thought that $600 was a small item, and this would be reduced under the economical direction of the school trustees.

Mayor Frink said that the statement had been made that there was a large area in some of the school buildings that was not used. These were the exhibition halls. The trustees said that these were essential, but he did not know.

Dr. Manning said that these rooms were on the top floors and that pupils could hardly be placed in them.

Means Increased Labor. Commissioner Schofield thought it was a question for the commissioners whether they could raise the extra money required. The taxes would have to be raised, and there had always been difficulty in getting the citizens to increase the amounts they were to pay. Five thousand dollars a year in taxes would mean an increase of $250,000 in assessment.

Mr. McLaughlin thought that the commissioners should have something to say about the resolution approving the memorial, provided the council was first asked for its approval of the amounts to be spent, was passed unanimously.

ON THE ARCTIC EXPEDITION

Wonderful Pictures of the Frozen North, at The Imperial.

For the first time in the history of motion pictures St. John people were carried to the icy wastes of the Arctic circle at the Imperial Theatre yesterday and there saw many of the wondrous things told about in the narratives of famous explorers. The pictures were taken during the hunting expedition of the millionaire sportsman, Harry Whitney of New York, who is a familiar character to a circle of friends in St. John, some of whom he had while en route to the scenes of the exploration of adventure.

The Arctic pictures, which will be concluded today, are three reels in length and among other interesting things show the steamer "Neptun" crashing through ice-floes and fields of solid ice, bear chases and struggles with polar bears on these ice-floes; capturing seals, lassoing bears for New York parks steaming through mountainous seas in Arctic waters, rescuing the crew of the sailing ship "Algerine," trading with the Eskimo people, transporting camp paraphernalia by dog sledges, etc. The whole 3,000 feet takes the watcher into an entirely new land altogether, gives him or her new thrills (and chills) and disseminates some good, wholesome knowledge of an inhospitable land of which much has been read but little seen.

"The Convict's Story," is a Kaleid in which that excellent actor, Carlyle Blackwell, is prominently featured. It is a society crime-story, well mounted and finely carried out, consuming two reels in the telling of it. With some of those ludicrous animated cartoons and an interesting tour in Budapest, Hungary, the Imperial's pictures offer much that rivets the attention. Mr. Fleming's illustrated ballad, "The Curse of an Aching Heart," is a brief return to a one-time popular form of entertainment and the ballad is of the type that a great many people enjoy.

Much is expected of the Imperial's Wednesday-Thursday picture entitled "The Fire to Portunus, or the Sunkin Village." In this picture of St. John, a monstrous diabolical mine is purposely blown up and as a consequence a whole village covering a large area is absolutely engulfed. It is a wondrous picture and thrilling in the extreme.

PALE ANAEMIC GIRLS Find New Health Through Dr. Williams' Pink Pills For Pale People.

There must be no guesswork in the treatment of pale, anaemic girls. One of your daughter is languid, has a pale, sallow complexion, is short of breath, especially on going upstairs; if she has paleness of the heart, a poor appetite, or a tendency to faint, she has anaemia—delay in treatment may even result in consumption, that most hopeless of diseases. When the blood is poor and watery, there is only one certain cure—that is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, coupled with nourishing food and gentle outdoor exercise. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make new blood, which flows through the veins, stimulates the nerves, increases the appetite, gives brightness to the eye, a glow of health to the cheek, and makes weak, despondent girls full of healthy activity. The case of Miss J. L. Lassalle, Sorel, Que., is typical of the cures made by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She says: "I was weak and all run down. My face was pale and covered with pimples. My lips were pale. I suffered from pains in all my limbs, which would at times be swollen. I was hardly ever free from headaches, and I found work about the house a burden, as the least effort left me fatigued and breathless. I had no appetite, and notwithstanding that I was constantly doctoring I seemed to be getting worse all the time. One day my mother said that she thought I ought to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I decided to do so. I soon discovered that I had found the right medicine, and after using nine boxes I was once more enjoying the best of health, and I have not been unwell since."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CHILDREN'S EFFORTS TO SAVE HOME

Ask New York Paper to Find Work for Mother so Home Won't Be Broken up—Parents from St. John.

(New York Times, Mar. 22.) In a room on the top floor of a dilapidated tenement in upper Second avenue two little girls have cared for a younger brother and sister, watched the unceasing efforts of their mother to get work, and have realized that the slender resources of the family were disappearing fast. After their mother went out yesterday to seek employment they held a conference and May, 13 years old, wrote this letter to The New York Times:

Dear Mr. Editor: I want you to see if you won't try to get our mama to get work. We are four children and we have no money only our mama to work for us. I am thirteen years old and have two sisters and our little baby brother 18 months old. Mama does days work but hasn't only 2 days now and she is sick from worrying for she has kept us now for 2 years and if she don't get work soon we don't know what to do. The rent is due. Maybe somebody would see the ad and send mama to work and we would be so happy. Mama does days work washing, ironing or cleaning, so won't you please Mr. Editor try and get our mama a work so we won't have to break up our little home that mama tries so hard to keep. She must have work next week, or we won't know what to do so please kind sir do try and I will thank you and my sister will thank you. So hoping you will please be kind to us and put it in your paper I thank you. I remain, Your little friend, MAY.

The name of the family is withheld at the request of the two little girls. The mother who had been working for her desire to give their mother more work as a birthday present.

"Mother, what they had done, Monday," said one of the little girls, and she added that the mother had had an "awful time." The girls refused an offer of money for their work, and as May explained, "It isn't that bad yet, for mama has made her money go as far as she could, and we still have 85 cents in the house, and get our money."

The great trouble ahead, which the two girls look forward to with dread, is rent day. On the first of the month the mother must pay the rent, and she said that the mother had had an "awful time." The girls refused an offer of money for their work, and as May explained, "It isn't that bad yet, for mama has made her money go as far as she could, and we still have 85 cents in the house, and get our money."

The two little girls asked that their names be withheld, for, as one said, "We ain't charity yet." If any person have work for a mother who is struggling against great odds, they will make the two little girls happy by sending a letter to Box M 22 Times Annex.

UNIQUE THEATRE HAS AN EXCELLENT BILL

Special Photo Play "From Out the Storm," Proves a Feature of Exceptional Merit.

The special photo-play "From Out the Storm" as presented at the Unique yesterday proved a feature of exceptional merit. Other pictures rounded out a fine offering. The large crowds at each show expressed their approval of the bill presented and many expressed their determination to again view the film stories before they left St. John.

The fall down the mine shaft was a dramatic feature of unusual worth and showed that the film producers must have gone to great expense in producing this before the camera. The buffalo hunt was vivid in the extreme, while the cattle stealing had all the thrills of the wild and woolly west. Indian raids in which real Redskins attack the homestead with a great storm in the vigor of action.

The fall down the mine shaft was also a realistic scene and caused a catch in the breath of the spectators. The other part of the programme wound up with a comedy sketch of a pleasing incident in the entertainment. The musical numbers were specially good and helped to make the pictures thoroughly enjoyable.

The plans formulated for this evening year ensure an active season for the club and with the enthusiasm and interest which marked the annual meeting ensure a successful carrying out of the club's plans for the year.
