W. C. T. U. AT ANNUAL MEETING PRAISES THE UNION GOVERNMENT

Mrs. Wright in Biennial Address Objects To Cigarettes Being Sent To Soldiers — War Work and War Sacrifice Urged As First Consideration.

Ottawa, June 20 — Quoting Lloyd George's recent message to the labor men of the Mother Country that "you must go on, or go under," Mrs. Gordon Wright, President of the Dominion W. C. T. U., in her biennial address to the delegates Wednesday, repeated that appeal, urging the temperance women to be on guard for all reforms that make for the uplift of humanity.

The fact that prohibitive measures for the liquor traffic had been enacted throughout Canada was no reason why this organization should cease its activity, Mrs. Wright said. There is and always will be plenty to do.

Continuing, Mrs. Wright said war work and war sacrifice must be the first consideration of the W. C. T. U., and with "our brothers, fathers and husbands, we must face the tyrant enemy, until suppressed."

Mrs. Wright warmly praised the Union Government for its prompt action in suppressing the liquor traffic. She again expressed her deep regret that England has not yet seen fit to bring in similar legislation.

"We, the women of Canada, protest against our sons being debauched and degraded by liquor and its consequences," she said, "when we have given our best and bravest to help the Motherland in her fight for right, and we white ribbon mothers are not asking too much when we say that such an undesirable alternative as the wet canteen should not be handed our boys when they cross the seas."

Mrs. Wright deplored the fact that so many women in Canada still send cigarettes and tobacco overseas for the soldier, and she quoted an officer in a training camp stating that the men Workers; Miss Jean Hamilton, was hindering the boys in their training.

"When will the women of Canada realize the great destruction they are bringing the soldiers by sending them cigarettes?" she asked. "Too long has our government been inert in regard to this practice."

Mrs. A. L. Powers reported for Nova Scotia; Mrs. L. R. Hetherington for New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island.

White, of the Boston Community Centres; Miss Mary E. SEVEN DAYS' LEAVE IS MELODRAMA OF TIMELY INTEREST

Large Audience At Imperial Last Evening Witness War Play—Exciting and Amusing, With An Appeal To Patriotism.

It is small wonder that with the appeal of timeliness the play "Seven Days' Leave" which was produced at the Imperial last evening has had such a long run in London. It is a melodrama of the war and carries the audience through the intricacies of a German spy plot to the unmasking of the foreigners and the successful conclusion of two love affairs.

As a one dollar and a half performance the production does not come up to one's expectations. The lines are very fine in many places and several of the insinuations amusing. Scenery and effects are good, especially the pretty gardens and the cloud effect from the deck of the cruiser.

The play is set in a small village in England with the Lady Mary as the centre of the social life, the vicar and his household as her friends, and the exciting circumstances which war brings to them, including the actions of two spies who pose as Belgians.

An extraordinary situation arises in the fact that the Duke's son and the cook's son meet as respectively private and officer both dining at the same house, and both loving the same girl. The cook's son wins her and the private takes his defeat like the good sport he has proved himself to be. He also takes the officer's sultana cake which that good woman, the vicar's cook made for her son "Cornelius."

It is all very exciting and very much like seeing a Phillips Oppenheim novel come to life, to the accompaniment of big guns. Only Mr. Oppenheim's heroes don't make speeches about their patriotism.

The play differs from many others in that there is no one star part, but several important roles are in the cast.

By all odds the best acting was shown by Eleanor Gnito, who as the woman spy gave a fine performance of her hateful part. Her scorn for the weakness of her fellow conspirator shown in the third act was excellently enacted, and in that she had her best opportunity of the evening.

Miss Leon Courtney as Kitty made a vivacious ingenue.

Miss Lilian Lee Anderson as the Lady Mary was good in places, but failed to come up to the possibilities of the part.

As the vicar's cook Maud Williams had a good English accent, and was responsible for many of the laughs in the play.

As Cornelius Keys, the cook's son, John Winthrop interpreted well the officer risen from the ranks and was very funny in his reception of the news of his good fortune. W. L. Meehan (Terry) has a pleasing stage presence and looks well in uniform. He had an Irish brogue that was there at times. He was at his best in the third act. His portrayal of a man overcome with drink was not convincing, and one would hardly think his best friends would have been deceived. Alfred Britton as Stephen Darrell is evidently an experienced actor, and was the dignified self-sacrificing English gentleman to the life. As "Lord Arthur," the private, Jack Norton had a splendid English accent and was most satisfactory. Frank Holland who was seen as Col. Sharrow of the British Secret Service had a wonderful speech in the second act which he gave in a way above criticism "Carry on" is a gem. As the vicar H. M. Merriman spoke with a State of Maine accent which rather marred the realism of the character though otherwise his performance was a competent one.

"The menace of the submarine" in Act III. was left to the imagination.

Special mention must be made of the music furnished by the Imperial orchestra which was very fine indeed and added much to the enjoyment of the performance. There will be a matinee today and another performance this evening.
