

U. N. B. DEADLOCK STILL CONTINUES.

All the Resident Students Gone, and Their Quarters Vacant.

Dean Thought the Students Were Making Too Much Noise at a Dinner in One of the Rooms, and Broke in Door—Dr. Scott Issues Ultimatum, and War is On.

Fredericton, March 15.—(Special)—The eleven university students who resided in the college residence, vacated their quarters on Saturday afternoon and are at present in boarding houses in different parts of the city.

This movement on the part of the students is the result of an event which occurred some time previously. About two weeks ago the resident students held a supper in MacNaughton and Dible's room, and passed the rest of the evening in a social way.

After the many apologies had been dispensed with the boys started singing college songs. In the midst of the singing a female knock was heard at the door. Not wishing to be interrupted in their enjoyment and not knowing who the intruder might be, they proceeded with their songs. A very loud knocking then occurred, followed immediately by the breaking in of the door and Doctor Scott's entrance into the room.

The dean asked for an explanation which, not being forthcoming, he ordered all with the exception of Dible and MacNaughton to leave the room. This order was not complied with, and Doctor Scott withdrew. The singing was continued as if nothing had happened, and the students remained in their several rooms, all vowing the affair a jolly good one.

The next morning the occupants of the room were requested to interview Doctor Scott, and an explanation or an apology was demanded. On going to the dean's position in which they were placed it appears that an explanation could not be given, and that an apology was not forthcoming.

The dean brought the matter up at a meeting of the faculty, which advised that the occupants of the room be immediately expelled from the university. Dible and MacNaughton were then informed by Doctor Scott that unless an explanation or apology were immediately forthcoming they would expect their rooms to be vacated by the following night.

The resident students held several interviews with the dean, but no reconciliation was effected. They then turned to Chancellor Harrison, who called another meeting of the faculty, at which a communication from the students was read, and their willingness to abide by Doctor Scott's decision.

The board recommended that the matter be held in abeyance until a meeting of the university senate should be called, and Doctor Scott followed its advice. The senate convened last Tuesday, and a letter was received from the dean stating that the occupants of the room who occupied the room were by no means in the matter. The dean attended this meeting and the senate decided to uphold the dean's action.

The members of the senate apparently not wishing to deal with the matter left it entirely to Doctor Scott's hands, with full power to act. The occupants of the room were informed on the following day by letter that the matter would be considered open for settlement until 6 o'clock that evening. Not doing this, however, they would be expected to leave the residence on the following day.

They interviewed Doctor Scott, who wished them to state that they had no responsibility in the affair and disapproved of the students' conduct. Otherwise an apology would be necessary and would be expected before 6 o'clock. This being made known to the other students, a delegation was sent by them to Doctor Scott, who informed them that if Dible and MacNaughton stated to him that the non-opening of the door and the singing of the songs were disrespectful the matter would be settled.

This delegation was sent without the knowledge of the occupants of the room, and when the result of the interview was told. At the earnest request of the other resident students they went to the dean and made the required acknowledgments. It would appear, however, that Doctor Scott changed his mind in regard to this agreement, as he demanded an apology for the refusal to open the door, their statement at their first interview that they had nothing to say by way of explanation, and by not answering his questions when he entered their room.

The apologies were not given and the students vacated their room, in accordance with Doctor Scott's request. The remaining resident students, feeling that they were more to blame than those who occupied the rooms, and believing that the dean had not kept his agreement, have also left.

The residency contains at present seven rooms, all of which were occupied before the recent trouble. Originally there were thirteen, but six of these are used by Doctor Scott. A scheme for a new residence has often been projected, but the finances of the university have not hitherto been in a state to warrant such an expenditure.

SMITH IS HOME.

The He Mormon Kisses His Five Wives and Some of the Young 'Uns.

Four-minute Embrace With One of the Mrs. Smiths—A Warm Reception—Says the Senators Are Good Fellows.

Salt Lake, Utah, March 15.—With a wonderful family reunion, Joseph F. Smith, president of the Mormon church, was welcomed home today on his return from the Smoot inquiry at Washington.

His five wives were not at the depot to meet him, but they awaited his coming at the famous beehive house, where also some thirty-two of his children had gathered to receive their father.

President Smith kissed Mrs. Julia Smith warmly, and his embrace with Mrs. Edna Sampson Smith, sister of Julia, lasted four minutes. Then he greeted his other wives fondly, and kissed a few of the younger children. For about three hours there was a private family gathering in the Beehive, from which all but the immediate members of the president's five families were excluded. After that time the wives separated to their various homes, where they were later called upon by President Smith, who paid a formal visit to each.

In the meantime the quorum of the twelve apostles, all that are present in the city, the council of seventy, were waiting for the president on important business, the nature of which is kept secret.

Mr. Smith, in an interview, said his visit to the national capital had been productive of great pleasure. He said the senators were a lot of good fellows, and that the press had treated him fairly. He declined to discuss the merits of the Smoot case.

THE FISH MARKET.

Dry Fish Still Very Scarce and High, and Consumption Has Fallen Off.

The scarcity of dry fish, to which reference was made in The Telegraph a few days ago, still continues, and doubtless the supply will be short for some time yet. The last sale of dry cod was at $1.33 per quintal, ex-voiced.

The high price, however, has greatly curtailed consumption, and the dealers therefore are not greatly worried over the situation. When the price goes above a reasonable figure the demand simply falls off, as the people can do without the dry fish. There has as yet been no advance in pickled fish.

As is usual at this season of the year, some haddock are being imported from the states for curing purposes.

The dealers in hard dried fish, such as are sold in the southern markets, have been doing a good business for some time past. The price has been high in the West Indies and South America. Some shipments go from here, but more from Halifax, and the Halifax dealers therefore must have made a good thing out of the business.

Yesterday's Halifax Chronicle says: "The market here has become very much firmer since the Chronicle's last report, and fish is pretty scarce here now. The fishing is very strong and active for cod, and it is fully anticipated that supplies will be exhausted in six weeks. There have been heavy shipments to the American markets for Porto Rico and San Juan. All lines of dry fish have advanced from forty to fifty cents in the past two weeks, and the last sale of bank fish was $3.40 for the run, ex-voiced. Lunenburg bank fish is now obtainable. The Lunenburg men who held their Nova Scotia bank fish here last winter are doing so, and the firm stand taken by the majority of the dealers here last autumn and winter has been fully warranted by results. Nova Scotia bank are pretty well exhausted, and the Newfoundland and Gaspe, while plentiful will be pretty good stock before the season is over."

Three-year-old Fernon colt, "Dr. Fernon," was sold last week by C. H. Crocker, of Wilnot (N. S.) to Chas. Bowley, of the same place, for the round sum of $1,100. He was bred by S. B. Neely, of the St. James Hotel, on his farm at Meadowdale, this county.

CANCER A Constitutional Disease

Recent scientific progress has shown that there is a hereditary condition of the blood that favors the growth of Cancer, just as there are certain atmospheric conditions that favor the growth of our constitutional diseases. It is the condition of the blood that determines whether a person will be afflicted with Cancer or not.

That we have been successful in curing this disease is proven by the fact that we have cured all parts of the Dominion. Send 6¢ in stamps for our "Cancer Hereditary and Curable" Dept. 6, St. John's, B. N. B., B. N. B., B. N. B.

INQUEST INTO THE CARLETON COUNTY SHOOTING CASE.

Evidence of Several Witnesses Taken Thursday at Bath, N. B.

Bath, N. B., March 17.—(Special)—The rooms in the Exchange hotel where Corporal O'Rourke opened his inquiry into the death of Miss Gee, was crowded this afternoon, when the taking of evidence was begun. The witnesses add of the circumstances attending the shooting of the girl by her cousin George, and details of the case. The only thing new was in the evidence of Crawford Gee, who said George threatened to kill her in the house.

Five of the Gee family were on the stand—William, William and John, and two of the three who sign his name. The fifth was Mrs. Alex. deCherrier, sister of the murdered girl. Doctor Hoos, of Bath, was called to testify.

F. B. Carvell, of Wood-look, represented the crown. The inquest was adjourned until tomorrow morning.

Wood-look, N. B., March 17.—George Gee has dictated two letters to his father and a kinsman. He asks that they come and help him. Action in this case is deferred pending the result of the coroner's inquest. The preliminary inquiry will immediately follow, and on the fourth Tuesday of next month will take place. J. C. Barclay will look after the interests of the prisoner.
