VOL. L.

No. 4.

ILLUSTRATION AND DESCRIPTION OF A HANDSOME DOUBLE-BREADED ETON JACKET.

FIGURE No. 157 B.—This illustrates a Ladies' jacket or coat. The pattern, which is No. 9403 and co's 1s. or 25 cents, is in nine sizes for ladies from thirty to forty-six inches, bust measure, and may be seen in four views on page 389 of this issue.

This stylish top garment is pictured made of whipcord and trimmed with Astrakhan bands and buttons. The back is narrow at the waist and seamless at the center and a close adjustment is accomplished by under-arm and side-back gores and single bust darts. The fronts are lapped and closed in double-breasted style and above the closing they are reversed in large, pointed lapels. The high collar is slashed to form four square tabs that flare stylishly, and the jacket is in tabs below the waist. The two-seam sleeves are laid in five box-plaits at the top. If preferred, the collar and jacket may be plain instead of in tabs.

A variety of changes may be made by having chemisettes of different colors; and such goods as chevrot, serge, broadcloth and fancy suitings will be chosen for the jacket, with fur, Astrakhan or braid for garniture. Many of the newest and smartest of the Autumn jackets are in the Eton style and the garnitures are almost as varied as the materials of which the jackets are made. Young ladies are especially pleased with the double-breasted Eton because of its jaunty effect and admirable adaptability to youthful figures. A handsome street toilette recently completed, embraced a seven-gored skirt with fan back and the double-breasted Eton jacket. Broadcloth of a rich dahlia hue was the material and gray Astrakhan provided decoration. Chemisettes of changeable taffeta silk will be pretty with the mode. For example, a yellow silk chemisette will be effective with a brown broadcloth suit and lavender or white will be pleasing and refined with black, while gayer tones of silk may be used with toilettes of gray, green or bronze cloth.

Astrakhan borders the felt hat, and ribbon and plumes arranged artistically adorn it; flowers are placed at the back, where the hat is turned up.
