SAFETY
 To children, parents and motorists: Morningstar Dr. Malton has become a collective thoroughfare. The drive from Dunranken to Corliss claims one life, seven accidents in six months, a threatened driver and an inverted car.

"Those ticketed are usually within 10 blocks of home," said Mississauga Chief McGill. "Roads cannot be used as a playground. It is a frustrating affair and I wonder if safety should be taught at all," he added.

A homeowner in the area suggests burning Elmer the Safety Elephant flags, end police giving talks on safety in schools: take down speed limit signs in residential areas and replace them with stop signs every 50 feet.

Children too young to walk to the park, should be kept home to play in the yard and kept off the roads.

BLISTERS
 However tempting it may be, tops on friction blisters should not be removed, especially within the first 48 hours. Leaving the top intact reduces pain. A drainage 24 to 36 hours after blister formation, combined with leaving the top intact, results in the least discomfort.
