

A. (oon't) could be of some help to the war, and help at home. After I got through basic training, things got tough at home, my people tried to get me out because I was under age when I joined up.

Q. Tell the court what happened after you completed your basic training, did you immediately proceed to an advanced training centre?

A. No, I didn't, I had a bit of trouble at Cornwall, I was held over in another platoon doing fatigue work.

Q. After you left there were you sent to an advanced training centre?

A. It was after that I went to Ottawa where, the Adjutant at Cornwall, told me I was to be discharged.

Q. How long were you in Ottawa?

A. Approximately four months.

Q. While there did you take training?

A. No, Sir, I was on fatigues.

Q. Where did you go after leaving Ottawa?

A. Well, Sir, one evening they told us we were going on draft, we were sent to Camp Ipperwash.

Q. For what purpose?

A. Advanced training.

Q. Did you take advanced training at Camp Ipperwash?

A. I got there and started training and I was sent to Chatham for basic training.

Q. Did you take your training at No. 12 C.I.(B) T.C., at Chatham?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. Was there anything else bothering you at that time?

A. Yes, there was trouble..... getting back to Ottawa, which happened while I was in Ottawa.
