"Then you could probably find out by telephone where the Blair family get their mail."
"Easy!"
"And perhaps what newspapers they take."
"H'm! Yes, I guess so."
"Try it as soon as you get back."
"Back from where?"
"Back from the medical officer's place. I think he must have returned by this time."
"You want to see Tim Breed?"
"No; just his records. Burial permits, I suppose, are a matter of public record."
"Yes. All you've got to do is to go and ask for 'em. You won't need me."
"Regrettable as his bad taste is," said Kent with a solemn face, "I fear that Doctor Breed doesn't regard me with that confidence and esteem which one reads of in illuminated resolutions."
"And you want me as an accelerator, eh?" smiled the lawyer. "All right. It's the Jane Doe permit you're after, I suppose."
"Which?"
"Jane Doe. They buried the corpse from Lonesome Cove under that name. Unidentified dead, you know."
"Of course! Of course!" assented Kent.
"If you're looking for anything queer in the official paper you won't find it."
"You've examined it yourself?"
"Yes."
"Good! Nevertheless I'd like to see the record."
Together they went to the medical officer's quarters. Doctor Breed had come in fifteen minutes before. Without preliminary, Lawyer Bain said:
"I want to see that Jane Doe certificate again."
"Aren't you afraid of wearin' out the ink on it, Adam?" retorted the other with a furtive grin.
"And I," said Chester Kent in his suavest manner, "venture to trouble you to show me the certificate in the case of Wilfred Blair."
Something like a spasm shook the linaments of Doctor Breed's meager face. "Blair!" he repeated. "How did you know—" He stopped short.
"How did I know that Wilfred Blair is dead?" Kent finished for him. "Why, there has been time enough, hasn't there?"
The physician's hands clawed nervously at his straggling hair.
"Time enough?" he murmured.
"Time enough? I'm only just back from the Blair place myself."
"News travels faster than a horse," observed Kent.
"It don't travel as fast as all that," retorted the medical officer, and shut his teeth on the sentence

Spring is Almost Here
The "Big Four" Farmers are Ready
Each Spring, the "Big Four" farmers have proved that they were ready. Full acreage—well plowed and well seeded—was the proof. Another Spring will soon be here. Again the "Big Four" farmers know that they are ready.
Big Four Tractors are producing results all over the world. There are more Big Fours in successful operation than any other four cylinder tractor made. The first four cylinder tractor ever built was a Big Four. Every Big Four represents the combined force of these "year after year" results. We know the Big Four is the very best tractor built. Ask us to prove it.
