IRON AGE
POTATO DIGGERS

answer the farmers' big questions: How can I get my potatoes out quickly with less help and fewer horses? How can I have my tubers ready for a high-price market safely put away before freezing?

The IRON AGE Digger rolls the potatoes out in long rows ready to gather, clear of dirt, weeds and tops. It turns short into next row, or can be backed.

The staunch, powerful, and dependable No. 155 shown here will take care of the heaviest conditions. Made by specialists in potato machinery—in business over 22 years.

ship to distribute the improved varieties of wheat, rice, cotton and sugar cane, she can do much more. She has the agricultural population and land and if trained demonstrators could go among this great people, India could make a quicker and larger food response than any other country on earth. In view of the probable shortage in all countries affected by the war, is it not good sense and good religion for America to largely increase the number of American agricultural missionaries at this time?

"I have been on tour nearly all the time since annual meeting in October. In November I took a five-day railroad journey to Coonoor in South India to attend the National Missionary Council (The Edinburgh continuation committee) as convener of the committee on Agriculture and Industry. What amazed and gladdened me, was the complete revolution in Missionary thinking on this subject. It is now recognized as part of the liberating Gospel Jesus brought into the world to do men good. I am now conferring with missionary bodies all over India with a view to establish in each language and climatic area a school for training mission leadership in rural education. This will do more to help India to help herself than anything else I know. In December I sat as a member of the Board of Agriculture at Poona, a Government body. It was inspiring to see the way these men, each one carrying great burdens, assumed greater in order that India may do its best to furnish food and fibre to the allies. The rest of my time was taken up with work in Gwalior and Bikaner. Allahabad saw very little of me. I realize this can only go on as a war measure until other men can come out better prepared than I am for these great tasks. I just got home for the closing examinations and will spend most of the hot weather at my desk getting caught up on work that ought to have been done long ago. My colleagues have been even busier than I without the inspiration of meeting so many other men, and it is wonderful how God sent men of the proper training and out-look to help us to carry on here.

"The leper asylum grows both in number and interest. It has been a good year there, excellent gardens and crops. Many of these poor folk reflecting Christ and witnessing for Him in a way that humbles me, and makes me grateful for anything I can do to ease their pain and comfort them in their distress."

Gossip.

The manager of Flintstone Farm, Mass., writes as follows regarding recent sales they have made:

"We have recently sold to Clark Wright, of Middlefield, Mass., an excellent herd bull prospect, sired by Glenside Dairy King, the sire of 5 young animals that sold in the late May sale for an average of nearly $1,500 each, whose dam was Mamie's Minnie, with a 3-year average of 15,610 lbs., and whose sire was Imp. Royal Darlington. The calf's dam, Glenside Roan Fern, is producing well on official test. She is a daughter of General Clay, with 30 Record-of-Merit daughters, and of Fern's Model, with records of from 8,000 lbs. to 10,000 lbs., is full sister to Fern of Conococheague, that has a record of nearly 12,000 lbs. We have sold to Wellington Smith, of Lee, Mass., three exceptionally good Berkshire sows, all bred to our senior herd boar, Sensational Lord Premier 2nd. We have also sold to J. M. Deely, of Lee, Mass., a sow bred to our junior herd boar, Highwood Rival 250th, that was farrowed September 5 of last year and that now weighs over 400 lbs. We believe this mating will produce some exceptional pigs."

Watch Yourself Go By.

Just stand aside and watch yourself go by: Think of yourself as "he" instead of "I". Pick flaws; find fault; forget the man is you. And strive to make your estimate ring true. The faults of others then will dwarf and shrink. Love's chain grows stronger by one mighty link. When you with "he" as substitute for "I" Have stood aside and watched yourself go by.—Tennessee Extension Review.
