QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. Miscellaneous.

SALE OF CATTLE.

A sold eight cattle to B for (as A understood) $450, to be delivered ten miles, A accepting $10 on sale. B understands purchasing price of cattle to be $4.50 per hundredweight, a price A would not consider by full value.

1. Can B compel A to deliver cattle, to be weighed, at $4.50 per hundredweight, the only point of difference being a misunderstanding of price, A maintaining the price to be $450 lump sum, B's contention being that the price was $4.50 per cwt., live weight?

2. How should A proceed?
Ontario. INQUIRER.

Ans.—1. We think not, unless B has satisfactory corroborative evidence available to support his contention.
2. He should return the $10; unless he on his part is in a position to adduce effective corroborative testimony, in which case he should tender delivery of the cattle. He would then be in a position to proceed by action, if necessary, for the balance of price.

SICKLY CHERRY TREES.

Have a number of cherry trees that have done well every year up till last year. They had a good crop of cherries, but only grew to be one-half size, not worth picking, and no good if they were picked. Could you tell me the cause, and what to do for them?

SUBSCRIBER.

Ans.—The crop of half-grown cherries produced by your trees indicates that the trees are suffering from lack of nourishment in some way. This might be due to drought or injury of some kind to the trees; but it is most likely it is due to a weakening of the trees through winter injury. It is quite probable that the trees are suffering from what is commonly known as "Black Heart," that is, the interior wood of the tree is dead and black, which is really the result of winter injury, and may result in the ultimate death of the trees. If they do not recover and bear well this year, they might as well be taken out and replaced with healthy trees.

CADDIS WORM.

Being a constant reader of your paper, can you inform me what the insect is which I enclose. The goose was in good health in the morning, and laid, and went to the creek in the afternoon, and by night was dead. On opening, we found two or three insects in the feed-pipe, with some grass. The mouth and bill turned a dark purple. We could not find anything else wrong, but think it was this insect. We lost a lot of goslings last spring, which died very suddenly. Where the insect was found, the feed-pipe was inflamed.
F. W. A.

Ans.—I submitted the contents of the small package contained in letter from your subscriber to Arthur Gilson, which he describes as follows:

"The object submitted is one of the well-known cases of a caddis worm. These cases are found sometimes very commonly in clear streams and ponds. There is considerable variety in the size and shape of these larval cases. To some are fastened small pebbles and grains of sand, such as are attached to the one you submit; others have sticking to them small bits of twigs, or even pine needles. The caddis worm, of course, lives inside of the case. The head, with the mouth-parts, and the thorax, with the long, strong legs, are the only parts that protrude from the case. These worms crawl slowly about in the water, searching for food, which consists of bits of vegetable matter."

I would not like to say whether these worms were the direct cause of death or not, but the color of mouth and bill point to suffocation.
