QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Veterinary.

SWELLING ON COW.

I have a cow which seemed in perfect health, and quite suddenly a swelling came on her left side, behind her front leg. It is about a foot long, extending back to the milk-vein; it is quite hard and thick. Could you tell me what is the matter with the cow, and what to do for it?
A. H.
Ans.—Apply twice daily to the enlargement the following liniment: One ounce each of spirits of ammonia, spirits of turpentine and spirits of camphor, mixed with five ounces of water. V.

COW WITH NETTLE RASH.

A pure-bred Jersey cow was not milked at her usual time, and very shortly afterwards her skin became completely covered with patches resembling mosquito bites, but much larger; her ears swelled; she swelled over the eyes; skin thickened in places; her ears drooped, and she did not feel well. Please explain the cause, and give means of prevention.
J. Y.

Ans.—Your cow has probably suffered from an attack of a skin disease commonly known as nettle rash. Give her 1½ pounds of Epsom salts, then get 1½ ounces of nitrate of potash, divide into six powders, and give a powder night and morning till done. V.

COLT'S KNEES ENLARGED.

Colt, one month old, has small lumps on the front knees, and appears stiff when running. His navel healed without any trouble. Have been rubbing liniment on the knees, and he seems to be getting somewhat better, although lumps remain. Is there hope of a permanent recovery? Kindly suggest treatment.
A. M. M.

Ans.—Get 2 drams each of biniodide of mercury and iodide of potassium and mix them with 4 ounces of water. Clip the hair off the enlargements and apply just a little (just enough to nicely moisten the parts) once a day. If the skin gets sore, withhold the liniment for a day or two. The lumps will probably yield to treatment, and your colt will be all right before he is a year old. V.

STRANGULATION AND BLOAT.

1. What are the post-mortem symptoms of a horse killed by strangulation?
2. Also of a horse which died of bloating?
P. A. L.

Ans.—1. In the case of a horse being quickly choked to death with a rope, or in any other manner, the lungs will be a pale color, and the left side of the heart will be empty, but the right side enlarged with dark-colored blood. If the choking takes place more slowly, the heart and blood vessels will be full of blood, and the lungs appear engorged, congested and black. A post-mortem held after from 8 to 11 hours after death, could not be depended on, as great changes would take place during that time.

2. It is a question if bloating is ever the direct cause of death in a horse. Some complication usually causes death, such as inflammation or rupture of the intestines or stomach, as the case may be, or rupture of the diaphragm, which causes suffocation. V.

TRADE TOPIC.

COMFORT FOR STOCKMEN.—Between now and the date for closing entries to the Central Canada Exhibition, September 6th, it will be worth while for all live-stock men, whose aim is to develop their business, to secure a copy of the Ottawa Fair prize list and study it carefully. As last year the exhibits in horses and cattle outnumbered previous years, so does the coming Exhibition promise to be a record-breaker. Accommodation is ample to meet the requirement of a bigger entry list. The horse stables, if they were stretched out in a straight line, would be half a mile long. Sleeping room is provided for 325 attendants. Ample evidence is afforded already that the larger appropriation for prizes in the live-stock and poultry branches will be productive of an increase in entries. Reduced railway rates have been secured in the territory east of Toronto and Sudbury, extending to Quebec. All particulars are contained on programmes available from Secretary E. McMahon, 26 Sparks street, Ottawa.

IMPORTED CLYDE FILLIES

Owing to the rough voyage experienced by my May importation only six were offered for sale, and were sold. The balance, consisting of two three-year-olds, one four-year-old, two two-year-olds and six yearlings have now completely recovered condition. These, with a few home-bred ones, including two yearling stallions of great promise, are now for sale at very low prices, considering their quality and breeding. Don't miss this opportunity of securing heavy-boned, highly-bred young ones cheaper by far than you can import them. Terms liberal.
