There was a goodly representation from all the Baptist churches of the city present, and a pleasing musical program was given in addition to Mr. Simon's address.

London, June 25.—Activity was displayed during last night by the German artillery in the region to the east of Amiens between Villers-Bretonneux and Morlairecourt, says today's war office report; there was some artillery activity in other sectors. Rattling in the Arras region resulted in the capture of prisoners by the British.

The text of the statement reads: "Canadian troops raided the enemy's trenches last night at Neuville Vitasse and brought back 22 prisoners and six machine guns. A few prisoners and a machine gun were captured by us in a successful raid south of the Scarpe."

"The hostile artillery has been active during the night between Villers-Bretonneux and Morlairecourt, south of Arras (Lens region) and west of Merville (Flanders front); gas shells being freely employed."

CLOSING RECITAL AT CONSERVATORY

The recital hall of the Brantford Conservatory of Music was again well filled last evening with several hundred of the music loving people of the city to hear the third concert of the closing exercises of the Conservatory.

The program was exceedingly well rendered throughout, many of the pupils playing from memory. Mr. W. Norman Andrews, the chairman, in his opening remarks, referred to the editorial in a local paper, calling attention to the proposal of banishing so-called German music from our schools and programmes. "The fact," said Mr. Andrews, "showed a most intelligent conception of music as an art. Instrumental music is the expression of an individual, in a universal tone language—a language understood and appreciated by people of all nationalities. You will listen this evening to compositions by German, Russian, French, Italian, American and English composers, and I venture to say you will not be able to tell one from the other. Each number will appeal to some of us. Music is the expression of the individual—not a nation, and is inspired by various means or incidents. The first piece on the programme represents a band in the distance, its strains gradually becoming louder, as the band approaches, and finally on reaching you the sound of the full band is heard. The solos having the name of a dance such as the Mazurka waltz, etc., are inspired by various means to a national Anthem sung by 20,000 people to a German national hymn on a birthday celebration in honor of Bismarck. A number of Canadians sang with all our might 'God Save the King.' Number eight on the program has two names—Bach was a German and composed the music. Coumout was a Frenchman and put the words to the music. The words gave it a meaning, a prayer, the music is only a simple prelude. The Messiah, the hymn of praise to God, are all compositions by Germans, but they are not the product of German Kultur as we know it today.

These great Oratorios are the works of individuals, men who receive their inspirations from their belief and faith in the Bible, and its teachings. And it may be added they were men who loved British Institutions, and spent much of their time in England. We are not banishing from our country certain Patents, because they are the products of German industry, but on the other hand the business world throughout the British Empire is striving every means to learn the analysis of these patents so that it may build factories and manufacture the very goods which Germany has controlled for so many years, and which we need.

We don't refuse to use the guns and ammunition taken from the Germans on the battle field, and turn them upon themselves. What ammunition is to our soldiers at the front, so music is to the spirit of our people at home. It gives courage and confidence, and inspires us with the hope of victory and peace. There is no such thing as a Dual Language in the world of music.

The following is the program:
1. Piano solo, "March Militaire," Schubert-Tausig. Marjorie Davison.
2. Piano solo, "Fourth Mazurka," Godard. Marjorie Secord.
3. Piano solo, "Pieretta's Dance," Chaminade. Doris Tipper.

RETURNING U-BOAT SANK TRANSPORT

Ship Was En Route to New York and Had no Troops on Board

67 OF CREW MISSING

Are Adrift in Small Boats And May Yet Reach Port

Washington, June 24.—German submarines operating on this side of the Atlantic Ocean have sunk their first troopship. The Navy Department announced to-day that a British transport, under charter by the American Government, and bound to this country, had been destroyed June 18, some 700 miles east of the Delaware Capes, and that 67 members of the crew are missing. There were no troops aboard.

The troopship apparently was not under convoy. The submarine was not seen until a torpedo had struck the ship. Afterwards the submarine rose to the surface and fired 19 shells into the sinking vessel. When the steamer settled the crew took to the boats, the occupants of four of which, numbering 81 men, have been landed. These boats are missing, and a search is being made for them.

The fact that the British vessel was sunk far off the coast led officials to believe that she either had encountered a homebound submarine that had been operating in American waters, or else one that was bound here for further raids on shipping. The fact that the seavolves which first appeared off the coast last month had not been heard from since June 14 caused most officers to hold to the first theory.

The last sinking reported off the coast occurred some 90 miles east of the Virginia capes, and it was argued that in the four days elapsed before the British transport was sunk, the submarine would have had ample time to reach the position where the troopship was sunk.

The vessel destroyed was said to have been the Russian steamer Dwinsk.
