

Lasts a Lifetime.

That is just what they say of Vapo-Cresolene. The vaporizer is practically indestructible, and the Cresolene is certainly not expensive. This way of treating affections of the throat is most economical, and is also most effective. Our little picture illustrates how it's used. You put some Cresolene in the vaporizer, light lamp beneath and then breathe in the soothing healing vapor. For whooping-cough and croup it's a perfect specific.

Vapo-Cresolene is sold by druggists everywhere. A Vapo-Cresolene outfit, including the Vaporizer and Lamp, which should last a life-time, and a bottle of Cresolene, complete, $1.50; extra supplies of Cresolene 25 cents and 50 cents. Illustrated by the following physicians' testimonials free upon request. Vapo-Cresolene Co., 110 Fulton St., New York, N.Y.

THE MARKETS

Planet Office, Tuesday evening, May 13.

Harry Stevens, of the Canada Flour Mills Co., gives The Planet the following grain quotations.

Wheat—The shortest deliveries of wheat in the last two or three weeks we ever remember. The flour market is very dull and glutted in the East. The market in the west is bare of wheat, at least farmers are not delivering.

Corn—This grain is picked up readily at 60c per bushel, with a good demand for it.

Oats—Delivery is fair for this time of the year, prices ranging from 39 to 41c.

Beans—Are becoming quite active; look like a repetition of last year's bean market for prices. Farmers will not sell short of a dollar a bushel and a good many holding for higher values. The stock of beans in dealers' hands is very light.

Buckwheat—The season is over. Barley—Farmers have disposed of nearly all they have.

HENRY CLEWS' REPORT.

Henry Clews, in his weekly report to The Planet, says:—
As to the crop outlook, there is nothing very positive in either direction. Favorable rains have fallen in large sections of the west, and should the yield be up to an average we may expect no cessation of present trade activity in the west. Our railroads are still making splendid returns and generally showing increases about 10 to 12 per cent ahead of the large figures of last year. This is the most convincing evidence of continued general prosperity. The iron trade continues taxed to the utmost, and the furnaces hold orders that will keep them fully employed to the end of the year. As for the general trade outlook, that is encouraging. Here and there reactionary symptoms are developing, high prices for raw materials and labor having materially increased cost of production until a point has been reached where profits are receding and consumption is being sensibly checked. There is no sign of general reaction in sight, but that the indications of a turn in the tide are multiplying, must not be ignored.
