Blundering on to Disaster

Yesterday the Advocate refused the plain diet of facts which had been served up to it and wandered around in search of pastures new upon which to ruminate. It found them in Mr. Hickman's ungrammatical Circular, which showed a lamentable ignorance of the practice followed by Ministers in submitting themselves to their constituents for re-election, and was so lukewarm in tone that it was obvious that the writer did not take kindly to the idea, remote as it was, of having Coaker as a prospective bedmate.

Then the Advocate went back to 1886 by way of a change from the romantic flights which it had recently been taking into the future, and last of all it tried to involve the heads of the Methodist Church in a political conspiracy. We rather imagine that for that faux pas it will not receive the thanks of the majority of that highly respected denomination.

We were fully aware of the articles in the Methodist Monthly Greeting which were prominently featured in yesterday's Advocate, but refrained from commenting on them, because, although the little magazine appeared anxious to become embroiled in politics, we considered its comments unrepresentative of the broad-minded spirit of the church and therefore undeserving of serious notice.

It is a pity that the "Greeting," whose tone was formerly so elevating and the matter contained in it so free of bias, should have consented to lower its standard. It is surprising that its editor should presume to dictate to the Master as to who are and who are not faithful servants, and it is somewhat inconsistent on the part of the Management to accept Government advertisements which are, according to its version, and which have been in the past paid for in part by money obtained by the sale of "Booze."

This last blunder perpetrated by the Advocate is peculiarly Coakeresque. It is in the same category as, but far more damaging to its champion's cause than the display of rowdiness that was staged last week in Bonavista. It is but another verse to the long comedy of errors that record his actions since he first figured in political life. During his chequered career he has masqueraded in many disguises. Formerly he undertook to be dictator to the people of the country in matters concerning the fishery. Now he assumes the role of dictator to their consciences! However, the act is all but over, and within a few days he will have said his last goodbye to the public, and retiring into obscurity, will be able to meditate at leisure on what might have been his reward had he but served faithfully, and placed Country before Self.

Britain's Pulp and Paper Supplies

Estimates just published indicate that the output of paper and paper board in Great Britain in 1925 was 1,175,000 tons. This estimate made by the British

Board of Trade and received by the Bankers Trust Company of New York from its English Information Service, is said to be to some extent speculative, but is thought to be under rather than over the mark. It is thought that production to date in 1924 may have decreased somewhat. Of the 1923 production, 800,000 tons are estimated to have been made from imported materials and the balance from domestic materials.

In 1923, 1,369,000 tons of paper making materials were imported into Great Britain. Of this amount 1,133,000 tons consisted of wood pulp of the two varieties used, chemical and mechanical; 216,000 tons of esparto and other vegetable fibres; 16,000 tons of rags, linen and cotton; and 4,000 tons of other material. These imports exceeded those of the previous record year of 1920. The supplies of linen and cotton rags came chiefly from the continent, especially from the Netherlands, Belgium and France. Esparto came from Spain, Algeria, Tripoli and Tunis, while 901,000 tons of the wood pulp came from the Scandinavian countries, 39,000 tons from other foreign countries, and 193,000 tons from Canada and Newfoundland. Sweden, which supplied 60 per cent. of the chemical pulp in 1911-13, supplied 48 per cent. in 1923; Norway, which supplied 58 per cent. of the mechanical pulp in 1911-13, furnished 51 per cent. thereof in 1923. Canada and Newfoundland supplied no chemical pulp pre-war, but they supplied about 7 per cent. in 1923, and as against 18 per cent. of mechanical pulp furnished pre-war, they supplied 23 per cent. in 1923.

In 1923 Great Britain imported 3,844,000 cwt. of uncoated printing paper and of writing paper in large sheets; 12,000 cwt. were re-exported and 3,832,000 cwt. retained for home consumption; as against 3,537,000 cwt. imported and 3,423,000 cwt. retained pre-war. This importation is largely accounted for by the fact that certain British newspapers with enormous circulations have established their own mills in Scandinavia and Newfoundland, where they manufacture the paper they use. Paper trade experts estimate that from one-quarter to one-half of the total imports of this class of paper by Great Britain comes from British factories established abroad.

A Lucky Schooner

A new schooner, the "Gander Deal," built last spring, was engaged at the fishery the past summer at the Labrador and the Straits of Belle Isle, owned and in charge of Capt. Stanley Harbourn. The captain is a hustler and with his hardy crew he managed to secure 1,100 cwt. The "Gander Deal" finished discharging last evening at Mudge's premises, and in a few days will sail for Trinity, her destination.

Firemen Receive Call

The Central and East End Fire Companies were called out yesterday afternoon to the residence of Mrs. Butler, 18 Colonial Street, where a fire was found to be in progress in the kitchen. Several good streams of water were put into play and within five minutes all danger had passed. The fire was caused by the ignition of some curtains that were hanging over the stove to dry.

No insurance was carried.

Fish Prices in St. John's Still Going Up!

Yesterday Labrador fish again took an upward jump to $7.10 in the city, and shore fish in some instances was sold for as high as $9.60.

News received yesterday from abroad stated that the wheat markets had broken six points, which is equivalent in price of about 25 cents. In consequence it looks as if instead of the advance in flour which was predicted that the price will drop.

With regard to the price of flour, Newfoundlanders are at the mercy of the foreign markets, but it is worth noting that the price of fish is not what the merchant in Port Union made it, but what the exporters in St. John's decided was its value.

How is this for evidence against the worn-out slogan so often repeated that the merchant is bleeding the fishermen?

Obituary

WILLIAM FREW.

The passing of Mr. Wm. Frew, one of our most highly esteemed citizens and a conspicuous figure for many years in business circles, in his 82nd year occurred suddenly at 3 o'clock this morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. John Parker, Topsail Road. Mr. Frew was born at Salto, Ayrshire, on January 1st, 1842. He came to St. John's in 1860 and entered the dry goods establishment of Baird Bros., and served there for eleven years or until a dissolution of the firm occurred, when he entered the employ of the late James Baird as a buyer. In 1881 he commenced business in his own name as a general dry goods merchant. He was amongst the sufferers in the conflagration of 1892 and lost heavily. As quickly as the debris was cleared away he had a shed erected at the foot of Market House Hill (now the Court House) where he did a large trade until April, 1894, when he removed to the then newly erected Baird Building. He continued a flourishing trade at this stand until about 3 years ago, when he retired and his interests, Mr. Frew's wife, who was a Miss Mary Syme of Irvine, Scotland, predeceased him by only a few months. Two sons and two daughters are left to mourn to whom the Telegram extends sympathy in their bereavement.

PEPPYS BEHIND THE SCENES

October 20th.—Up betimes on a mighty cold morning and wear my great coat, with great discontent of mind. To my office, where comes Mr. Taylor, and thanks me most profusely for what I did write of his dog in my journal a few days since, being that through it he has found the animal again. Indeed, he says that there seem none who do not read my writings since more than a score of people did ask him concerning the dog. Talking this day with Sills that is but newly come from the Humber, he tells me how the work of construction is well nigh finished, and that great progress has been made in the building of the town at Corner Brook. But Lord, says he, what a vast number of shoppes are on the outskirts of the town, more almost than are in the city, and still more of them springing up each day. Thinking of this, it did come to my mind how Mr. Stadler, the Humber Manager, discourses to-day to the Board of Trade on similar matters, so to hear him, and what pleasures he mightily is Mr. Ayre, he very outspoken about divers matters which is like to have a good effect on these things for St. John's. My wife pestering me this day for a new coat of fur, albeit she did have one less than a year ago, but the wretch do insist how it is out of style, nor can she go about with her friends if she do not have this new coat. But when I did tell her that my means will not allow me to give it to her, she flies into a great passion, and calls me the meanest man alive. So of experience, I did leave her to her rage and go abroad to the Clubb where I forget my troubles in playing at Bridge.

Supreme Court

(Before Mr. Justice Kent.)

The following special jury was sworn: Michael Grey, Geo. Tucker, Eli Littleton, Michael O'Reilly, Nath. Andrews, Wm. Carson, John Noseworthy, John W. Marshall, Jas. A. Barnes, Sam Gardiner, Jas. J. Vincombe, Arthur Tilley. The case for the Crown was opened by Mr. Emerson, who briefly outlined the case for the Crown and called Harry Bugden. The witness being sworn, said he was a taxi driver in April, 1923. He drove Dr. Campbell to several places in St. John's West on the election campaign. He was accompanied by Mr. Joseph Fitzgibbon, candidate for St. John's West, at that time. Witness was paid by cheque for his services. (Cheques for $21 and $51 were put in evidence.) Witness said he presented one of the bills to Mrs. Campbell but received the cheque from the Crown Lands Office. This cheque was taken to Dr. Campbell's house from the Crown Lands Office, signed and given to him.

Cross-examined by Mr. Howley, witness said a friend of his secured work for him with Dr. Campbell. He is now employed by Dr. J. A. Robinson.

Sydney Hart, sworn, examined by Mr. Winter, witness said he is first clerk in the Agriculture and Mines Dept. He was second clerk and accountant in 1923. Witness said all cheques were made out by him. Shown the cheques witness said they were made out on the Pitt Prop Account. Witness contended Dr. Campbell before either cheque was drawn, was the Pitt Prop Account, witness said, was for general relief.

Cross-examined by Mr. Howley, witness said that in 1921 relief accounts were burdened on the department and increased enormously until 1923. All sorts of people frequented the Department seeking relief. During all the period Dr. Campbell's house and office were besieged. Witness said that all the officials received a bonus except Dr. Campbell. When the relief works started in 1921 the department had a Ford car. Dr. Campbell was general supervisor of the relief works at that time and used his own motor car quite a lot in this service. He made no claim on the department for the use of the car. About one and a half million dollars, witness said, passed through Dr. Campbell's hands during the period from 1921 to 1923. An audit, witness said, was made prior to laying the charge against Dr. Campbell. He (witness) made out the cheques on instructions from the Minister or Deputy Minister, and about 4,000 of them passed through his hands.

The Crown did not call further witnesses and Mr. Howley called the accused and subjected him to a short examination in relation to his duties whilst Minister of Agriculture and Mines. Accused said he understood that the accounts of his department had been thoroughly audited since he vacated the post. In reference to the Ford car, accused said that he had to use it a good deal on relief work and in 1921 he bought a Chalmers for $2,400 out of his own account and wore it out, and repairs cost him $483, which was also paid out of his own pocket. In the 1923 election campaign he contributed $4,000 to the West End Committee and his total expenses amounted to $4,000, all of which was paid out of his private account. The hiring of Bugden was a particular occasion, but witness could not recall signing the two cheques in question. Asked what he had to say to the charge of fraudulently applying the sum of $72 to his own uses, Dr. Campbell said he never had any intention, nor ever had the slightest thought of defrauding the Government. If there were anything irregular in connection with the issuing of the cheques to Bugden, it was due to the stress and over-burden of the work which was placed on his shoulders.

Mr. Winter cross-examined accused after which adjournment was taken until 2.30 p.m.

Death of a Former Feild College Master

MAN WELL KNOWN IN HANCOCK COUNTY PASSED AWAY AT GOODFELL.

Mr. Geo. R. Williams sends us the following clipping re the death of Professor J. D. G. Houghton, a former teacher of Bishop Feild College who has died at Goodfell, Maine. Mr. Houghton was married twice to two sisters, daughters of the late Mr. John Goodridge who formerly resided at Weston Cottage, near Burton's Pond, Allandale Road.

Old Feildians will all regret his passing and tender their sympathy to his widow and family.

J. D. G. Houghton, well known in Hancock County, died at his home in Goodfell on Thursday, Sept. 25, 1924, at sixty-six years of age. Mr. Houghton was well known throughout the county, having been a teacher in the public schools for thirty years. He was employed during summer months for some years as an expert accountant for the Burgett Brothers when they were engaged in drainage and engineering work, and while here acquainted himself with people of the community as a scholar of more than ordinary ability.

Mr. Houghton was born in England in 1858. He received his education in the schools in Lestershire, then entered and completed a course in Oxford university. Coming to America he took up the teaching profession and followed it for many years, first as private tutor for Sir Wm. Whitway's two sons in Newfoundland for seven years and later in Hancock county.

He was always interested in public affairs. At the time of his death he was correspondent for the Yeoman, town clerk, school secretary and justice of the peace. He had been a candidate at different times for a county office but was not successful. He was long a member of the I.O.O.F. Lodge in England and America.

Left to mourn are the wife, six sons and two daughters.

Absent Jurors

There were eleven absent jurors in the panel and an extra half summoned in the case of Rex vs. Dr. Alexander Campbell. Amongst those called to the jury box one claimed exemption because the summons was served at an address where he had never lived. His objection was overruled by the court but he was subsequently challenged. Another juror before taking the oath asked if he could not be excused on the grounds that he had served on the Russell trial. The court exempted him.
