STETTLER PROGRESSING

$200,000 Flour Mill Started. $40,000 Public School to be Built

As indicating the volume of immigration to the Stettler district, it may be mentioned that while during the month of February, there were 72 entries for homesteads, a larger number for the present month is over 300, the receipts being $3,500. A large proportion of the settlement is taking place to the southwest, more particularly along the new C.N.R. line of railway. The prospects of business in town this year are even greater than the record of last year.

New Flour Mill

The new flour mill, which is now in operation, promises to be highly successful, the demand for the flour being excellent. The grade of flour is fully up to expectations, and the owners, Messrs. Bullock & Caldwell, have secured a supply of the best wheat procurable adequate for requirements, to ensure that the standard will be maintained. The capacity of the mill is 124 bushels per day.

The mill is a complete and commodious plant and a valuable asset to the town, so a general description might prove of interest to many of our readers. The mill building proper is four stories high and each floor is 32 by 42 feet. Each floor from the basement floor is reached by broad and easy stairs making the going from one floor to another an easy matter.

In the bottom floor are to be seen the main line shaft for driving the rolls and other machinery. Then there is the line of elevators, 24 in all, which start here and run to the top of the attic. These carry the different stocks from the rolls to be sifted on the sifters above. There is also the receiving hopper which will receive grain from the firm's big elevator which was formerly owned by the Alberta Grain Co's. These gentlemen have a pair of well bred Clydesdales which are the arrangement of grain from the elevator to the mill. On the next or roll floor, as it is sometimes called, we find a line of rolls which consist of five double stands. Grey's improved vibratory feeder, wheat scourer, Best automatic wheat steamer, Columbia break feed conveyor, two flour packers, one bran and shorts packer, and two hand packers; one for flour and one for bran or shorts for filling the farmers' own bags.

The body or iron parts of the machines are painted red and green and the cabinets are varnished natural pine, which gives them a pleasing and durable look. Above these we see a net work of spouts running in every direction, which conveys us to wonder if the owners or millwrights who put them there, really knew what they were all for.

On the third floor are the mill separator, three purifiers for No. 1, 2 and 3 grades in which are rapidly revolving fans for carrying off the dust and other impurities, one "Perfection" dust collector, also six large bins for the different grades of flour and for bran and shorts and the purifiers which purify and grade the middlings and are neat and handy for the operators.

On the top or attic floor, which has the most machinery of any of the floors) we find one eight section Nordyke and Mardon square sifter, one round and two centrifugal reels; the latter have diamond shaped spouts running to them, and one bran and shorts duster and a suction fan to draw the hot air and dust from the rolls below. Of the machines on this floor the sifter doing the lion's part of the work is worthy of the most mention. It is divided into eight sections.

Do You Suffer From Headaches?

There are few people who have never experienced a headache from one cause or another. It affects all ages, and both sexes alike, but the female sex is naturally the more affected through the higher nervous development and more delicate organization of the system. Those also of a nervous temperament, or sedentary occupation are subject to it.

The pressure of headache nearly always tells us that there is another disease which, although we may not be aware of it, is still exerting its baneful influence, and depriving us of an opportunity to assert itself plainly.

Burdock Blood Bitters has for years been curing all kinds of headaches, and if you will ONLY TRY IT you will know what it will do for you that is what has done thousands of others.

Mr. John G. Conroy, Burlington, N.S., writes: "I have been troubled with headaches and constipation for a long time. After trying different doctors I finally tried Burdock Blood Bitters and I am completely cured after having taken three bottles. I can safely recommend it to all."

HEROIC DEED OF A BRAVE AND LOVING MOTHER

Took Place of Drowned Horse and Brought Children to Safety

Ottawa, Ont., April 3.—Pining herself over the death of the cut-off after her horse had fallen through the thin surface of the ice roads, across Lake Nipissing and was drowned, Mrs. Portier, a woman whose home is in Warren, Ont., dragged her three children five miles, across the lake and to safety through a cold rain arriving at the shore of the stopping place on the road, all but exhausted, but with their three little ones the oldest of whom was ten years, warm and comfortable between blankets and buffalo robes in the vehicle. Mrs. Portier's feat is one that is unprecedented in all the annals of the north country, and her pluck and heroism is the chief topic of conversation in the neighborhood of Cobalt.

WAR AGAINST THE WHITE PLAGUE

Extensive Preparations Are Being Made in Saskatchewan to Cope With Consumption

Regina, March 31.—The war against the white plague, which is being waged by Dr. M. M. Seymour, head of the provincial board of health, is making fair progress, and about one-half the electoral divisions of Saskatchewan have been organized into local leagues for the fighting of the disease. The balance of the districts are rapidly being brought into working organizations and steps are being taken to form the provincial league. The necessity of having a sanatorium is being attended to, and there is every probability that a big scheme which has been taken up will be carried to a successful conclusion.

Big Ranch Sanatorium

The opportunity to secure an ideal site for the sanatorium came recently when the Dominion government, through the department of the interior, reached the decision to create a forestry reserve in the province. An area of from 60,000 to 100,000 acres in the Cypress Hills, east of Regina, is to be set aside for the preservation of forests, along the line of the great conservation movement which was started some time ago by Mr. C. G. Clifford Sifton is now the head. With the decision of the Dominion government to create the forest reserve, came the decision of the provincial government, announced now for the first time, to create a big game reserve. Within the area declared a forest reserve, the government of the province will prohibit the hunting of game and an effort will be made to foster the breeding of many native birds of Saskatchewan, which are now rapidly becoming extinct. The board of health has now evolved the plan of establishing within this great forest reserve the sanatorium for the victims of tuberculosis. Application was made to Hon. Frank Oliver, when Premier Scott was in Ottawa the other day, for a grant of such a lease. The Dominion will retain the ownership of the land, but the province or the board of health, will hold the grant in lease. It will be subject to the same terms as all other leases granted under the department of the interior regulations.

Start a Big Ranch

With the erection of the sanatorium for the consumptives, within the confines of the reserve, a large horse and cattle ranch will also be established. The great difficulty in the handling of cases of consumption is that of giving the patient outside work to do. It is proposed to start the ranch for the purpose of giving the patients work to keep them busy, and if possible making the institution self-sustaining. Should this latter be the result the patients will have found a particularly happy solution of a problem which is growing bigger every day. The patients at the institution would act as a ward and forestry wardens, and work could be provided for as heavy a population as the spread of tuberculosis sent to the reserve.

Need Two Buildings

There will be two buildings for hospital provided. These will cost $100,000 or $200,000 each. One building would be used for the accommodation of patients who are on the road to recovery, and the other for the patients whose cases have reached such stages that they require a special form of treatment from the patients recovering or only just entering into the grip of the disease.

The work of providing funds for the building of these sanatoriums is a big one. The proposal of the health department is to have the Tuberculosis League to handle each electoral division is being organized into a Tuberculosis League and for every 20 members the local league will be entitled to one representative on the provincial league. Each member pays a fee of $1 and of this fee 75 cents goes to the provincial league, for the carrying on of the work. The remaining 25 cents goes to the local league to meet expenses in connection with their work. Such an arrangement is also being operated in the city of Regina, where the business men are being asked to donate liberally to the cause for the sake of the fight against the white plague. In this way it is hoped that $50,000 can be raised. The first $20,000 thus raised will be devoted to the erection of one of the sanatoriums in the big ranch reserve. When the people have donated $50,000 by private subscription, it is felt that there will be little difficulty in getting the government to put up the other $100,000 for the second building. It is figured that by the time the first $50,000 is subscribed, there will be an interest in the work that public opinion will have supported the government up to its expenditures.

Need for Work

That there is need for much work against the white plague is undoubtedly estimated that there are 2,000 cases of tuberculosis in the province today, and that many more are rapidly being contracted, and that there were 150 deaths from tuberculosis in the province last year.

In the Dominion of Canada last year there were 12,000 deaths from tuberculosis, or nearly as many as the entire population of the city of Regina at the present time.

These simple statements of fact are, in themselves, sufficient to show the necessity for the work which Dr. Seymour, in head of the bureau of health, is endeavoring to carry on, and it is earnestly hoped that there will be a hearty response to the appeal for funds and for workers. It is expected that Regina will give between $4,000 and $5,000 to the cause. A meeting was held in Moose Jaw last night, when a local league was formed, making in all 19 local leagues in the province.

LADY TELLS OF BICYCLE TRIPS IN UGANDA

Natives Who Played Football in the Region of the Equator

London, March 14 (Mail Correspondence).—Lady Bruce, who accompanied her husband, Colonel Sir David Bruce, on his mission to Uganda in order to investigate the sleeping sickness, has recounted some of her experiences.

The commission left London in September, 1908, and was away altogether six months. Excellent results were obtained, and in his scientific work Sir David Bruce was actively assisted by his wife.

"Our headquarters were at Mpigi," said Lady Bruce, "a few miles from the shore of the great Lake Victoria Nyanza, in what is called the Chagwe district of Uganda. We were a very small community. In fact, there were only seven white people, and I was the only woman of the party. Our nearest white neighbors were seven miles away at a big sleeping sickness camp. Our house was a comfortable structure of wood and iron. "Wattie and John" is the description Europeans give the huts, which are made of dried mud with thatched roofs. I found the climate really delightful. Thanks to our being so near the equator, we could not expect to find anything regular in the time of our sunrises and sunsets. There was scarcely three minutes' variation all the year round. The sun would rise at six and set at six. We were generally up betimes and worked from 8 a.m. until 4.30 or 5 p.m.

King Dandi

"I am afraid there was nothing much to be done in the way of recreation, but I do not think any of us minded this much, because we found our work absorbing. There was no tennis, but some of the native boys played football. They favored association and entered into the game with great zest. It was amusing to watch them 27 miles away from our headquarters at Kampala, the native capital. Here lives the King Dandi. He is quite a boy—only fourteen years old—and the actual governing is vested in three regents. The prime minister was a very interesting man to be met with. He was the native community out there. He was known as the Kakuro, and was a man of middle age with a crown upon him. He took a very intelligent interest in the work of the commission, and would visit my husband's laboratory. He and his son possessed bicycles and used to ride over to Mpigi from Kampala. Another native of high rank known as the Sekobob—next in command to the prime minister—was a very well educated man. He was over in England for the coronation, and afterwards wrote an account of his visit. This won him quite a reputation among his own people."

Thorny Way

"Before we left he had invented in a motor-bicycle, so now I expect that the roads will be much improved and made to run round the hills instead of over the tops. The roads are really not exceptionally bad for cycling—they mostly consist of dried mud—but in places the thorns are a great trouble. Our friends can scarcely credit the fact that my husband and I did such a lot of the household work on bicycles, but we did. Before we reached Gondokoro, where we took the steamer, the roads were so thorny that we seemed to do nothing but mend punctures. Long white dresses, like nightgowns, with white caps, are worn by the natives, who were always very pleased for anyone to take their photographs. In fact, nothing gave them greater pleasure than to sit before the camera. From a sporting point of view the country had not much attraction. There were hippopotami—fourteen were accounted for—a few wild guinea fow, and fish were of course, to be obtained from the lake. The fish reminded us very much of our grey mullet at home. We had a little week-end house on the shores of the lake—it was built for us by one of the native chiefs—and I enjoyed our canoe trips on the water very much.

The Missing Mosquito

"The canoes were fine craft, and some of them had places for as many as twenty paddlers. We did our shooting from these boats. Our return journey was full of incident. We bicycled all day and camped at night, accomplishing from fifteen to twenty miles a day. We had a good many porters with us, and they carried their loads on their heads. Last Christmas day we spent on a tiny steamer on Lake Albert. There are tremendous cliffs, and the wind rushes through with terrific force. It was so rough that even the engineer was seasick. We were towing some other boats, but had to cut them loose, so bad was the weather."

Lady Bruce paid a high tribute to the wonderful results achieved by the British government's malaria campaign.

"At Khartoum and Port Said," she said, "we never even saw a mosquito."

THE REAL ESTATE

On Saturday night a association was formed has a membership of the sible real estate men. We feel that such an organization, if properly formed, for it is no longer a mere club of good fellows, and it is a matter of injury.

In the first place in this kind will place a trading in real estate business upon a better second place an association will have the effect of bringing those misrepresentations which occur in general, and particularly in this kind of campaign against the does more damage to many other agencies will add responsibility to the real estate but have the effect of not doing, when such action is warranted.

Altogether the form estate association is well managed, and it has the effect of being very great to the city.

THE MAYOR'S

The mayor of Calgary pointed language, given through the Albertan and Calgary and the work concerning the city hall, arousing so much talk in the city. The measure, which is a brief and pointed over which so much has been said, has been that the council didn't that account, and that is blathering and go on investigating to they will find out about.

That is hardly the people expected of a man of the city. The measure taken upon him is purely a matter of excuse's error, and important matters will have been placed before a public official, and be punished for this people would have got they wanted. But it takes up the city clerk faces the public, and with him, and it is the reply that the was not handed to the wasn't, and that the public had no complaint of it, and that are blathering and go on investigating to they will find out about.

The mayor says that been unable to find the dictionary, and what it meant all in the action and the private city clerk, who information from the tives and the city prettily to friendly blathering, the statement of the may announcement that it followed by some kind it may be added that commissioner—the well—as far as the council, as far as was waged in the same but that practically all the same sort of blathering pose to keep it going.

The mayor knows a person, better than the city clerk should document to the council, He knows the council, He knows the clerk neglected to do through an oversight, the policy of ignoring the commissioners, which allowed to practice before the permission, and agreement of the mayor, enough knowledge of the fact companies to conduct in such companies with quick and sharp probably instant dismissal that the city should in this manner, according to the city clerk, is blathering.
