bread and gave thanks to God for the presence of them all and began to eat. Then they all did eat and were good cheer. Note Paul's message concerning the angel visitor. "The angel of God, whose I am and whom I love" (verse 23), and may the last words be ours always from this art. He certainly believed for himself what he wrote to the Corinthians. "I am not your own, for ye are bought with a price" (1 Cor. vi, 19, 20). If ever a man lived it out he did, knowing what it meant to serve the Lord with all humility of mind, he would urge others to serve the Living and True God (Acts xx, 19; 1 Thess. i, 9). Then his words of strength and cheer to all these people were so grand, with every prospect, humbly speaking, of going down with the ship, and reason for thinking otherwise but a message of the angel, he said so boldly, "Wherefore, God that shall cheer for I believe God that it shall even as it was told me" (verse 20), and so it came to pass, and they were all safe to land (verse 44). We think of Abraham, who considered himself nor Sarah, but was fully persuaded that what God had promised he was able to perform (Rom. iv, 19). For twenty-one years the motto of my little monthly, Kingdom Tidings, has been "Abraham believed God, I believe God," and, though the contrast between these two men of old and the work represented by this monthly is very great, yet the principle is the same, and the words have been a great help to me.

Dressing Station, Firing Line—Official Film, "Battle of the Somme."

An urgent call for help again goes forth from the Motherland's mighty life-saving agency—the British Red Cross. The Empire is called upon to give greatly, give lovingly, give quickly, that the sick, wounded and suffering on all the battle fronts may not languish and perish in their hours of deepest need.

Here is a great work in which all can share. The Joint War Committee of the British Red Cross Society and Order of St. John is the only institution which carries voluntary aid to the sick and wounded of the British forces on land and sea in every region of the war. Thousands of lives of our bravest and best are saved through this splendid work. YOUR gift may save a life. Isn't it worth doing? IT IS GIVE!

The Red Cross looks after the transportation of sick and wounded—it equips thousands of hospitals, rest and convalescent homes, it supplies countless requisites for hospital work, clothing and other comforts. Over 2,000 Red Cross Motor Ambulances are at work on the various fronts, while "rest stations," hospital trains, steamers and launches, food for prisoners, babies, special work for the blind, etc., etc., are a few only of Red Cross activities.

Make "Our Day" Your Red Cross Gift Day Give on October 19th

The Sick and Wounded Call For Your Help Give on October 19th

Ontario's princely gift in 1915 of $1,514,000 rang a clarion mercy call throughout the Empire. The British Red Cross were grateful beyond measure, and their appeal through Lord Lansdowne, President, now comes to us as to friends who sympathize and help. The need is greater to-day than a year ago—it is ever growing. Will Ontario do less than she did last year? No! GIVE—give a day's pay, give all you can, GIVE!

Your gift will go entirely to the British Red Cross, where, again, through much voluntary work, the working expenses are cut down to only 2 1/4% of the total revenue. Thus, if you give $10, actually $9.77 1/2 goes to the healing and saving of some stricken hero. The expenses of the Ontario Committee, advertising, printing, etc., are being met entirely by the Provincial Government.

Premier Hearst Has Seen the Work

"My visit to England and France has aroused deeper appreciation than ever of the splendid work of the Red Cross. It deserves every support, and I trust the people of Ontario will respond with their usual generosity to the British Red Cross Appeal for October 19th."

HON. W. H. HEARST,
Prime Minister of Ontario.

Mr. N. W. Rowell, K.C., Brings a Red Cross Message

"I bring a message of cheer to those who have relatives at the front and who fear they may be wounded. I believe everything human skill can do, that human care and sympathy can provide, is being done and provided each day and each night throughout the year by the Army Medical Corps and the Red Cross. It is a perfect marvel of efficiency."

MR. N. W. ROWELL, K.C.,
Leader of the Opposition.

He gives twice who gives quickly. Your help is needed NOW!

The Motherland's only direct appeal to us for help in this great war is her great Red Cross mercy work. Ontario's response must and will be quick and generous. Give through the Treasurer of your Local Committee—or, send your subscription to the Clerk of your municipality—or, make it payable to Hon. T. W. McGarry, Treasurer British Red Cross Fund for Ontario, Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

CLEAN HANDS.

Disease germs lead a hand-to-mouth existence, says the Bulletin of the New York Health Department. If the human race would learn to keep the unwashed hand away from the mouth many human diseases would be greatly diminished. We handle infectious matter more or less constantly, and we continually carry the hands to the mouth. If the hand has recently been in contact with infectious matter, the germs of disease may in this way be introduced into the body. Many persons wet their fingers with saliva before counting money, turning the pages of a book, or performing similar acts. In this case the process is reversed, the infection being carried to the object handled, there to await carriage to the mouth of some other careless person. In view of these facts, the United States Public Health Service has formulated the following simple rules of personal hygiene: Wash the hands immediately before eating or drinking, after attending the sick; after handling anything dirty. One might add to this wise advice a word about the protection afforded by gloves. The person who habitually goes without gloves can scarcely avoid carrying to face and mouth dust, dirt and germs collected by contact with stair-railings, street car-steps, door handles and the like, even if he or she takes the precaution of always washing before eating even a candy or a piece of fruit. It is unlikely, however, that such a precaution will always be remembered. It is much safer, therefore, when out of doors or in public places, always to wear gloves; then, when one has to lunch without having the opportunity of washing, or is offered a candy or an apple, one has only to take off the gloves, and the hands underneath are clean.

TO MAKE AND KEEP SAUSAGE

Cover With Lard to Keep Them Fresh

When the hogs are butchered I always superintend the trimming of the meat to make sausage, because the men folks are apt to be so tired of handling fresh meat that they want to do as little cutting as possible. After trimming the hams, shoulders and sides as closely as I dare I cut off all the meat from the backbones and spareribs that a sharp knife can find, then cut the meat from the jowls. Jowls are not fit to eat fresh, nor are they good when cured, but when cut in small pieces and added to the sausage meat, they increase the quantity of sausage and no one can tell the difference for this meat being added.
The trimmings are cut into small pieces, washed in warm water and ground. A few tough ligaments will be found in the ground meat, but I watch out for them and pile them in a pan to be fed to the hens, a little at a time.
When three or four pounds of sausage are ground I begin to add seasoning, as it is much easier to season a small quantity at a time than to mix seasoning in a greater mass.
To get the correct seasoning I have to cook a small piece and taste it. Red pepper and sage raised in the home garden make better seasoning than the manufactured articles, but where the home-raised product is not available, that bought from the grocer makes a good substitute. Add salt, black pepper, red pepper and sage according to taste and work thoroughly with the hands, to get the seasoning uniformly mixed with the meat.
When all is ready sew up sacks two or three inches wide from thin muslin (I use flour sacks to make them) and pack the sausage in. Hang up to drip over night. Some of this can be smoked, and some may be put away to keep fresh for Spring and Summer use.
To keep it fresh I put the sacks of sausage in a stove pan and let it become thoroughly hot. Then it is stor-

CHILDHOOD AILMENTS

Childhood ailments in most cases come through some derangement of the stomach or bowels. Baby's Own Tablets have been proved by thousands of mothers to be the greatest medicine known for the cure of these ailments, simply because they regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach. Concerning them Mrs. Napoleon Lambert, St. Ignace, Que., writes: "Baby's Own Tablets are an excellent medicine for childhood ailments and I am well pleased with their use." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CONSOLATION To Those Who Mourn

There is no heart however with joy resplendent
But sorrow hath dwelt there;
Forsooth, I think that sorrows' cold contented
Will make man grow more fair.
Man, whose countenance is of God-like features
And sensitive to pain,
Feels sorrow most of all His earthly creatures,
Tho' he shall live again.
Brutus arise, and amid these earthly beauties
Each floweret lifts its head;
Then, just as if were ended all their duties,
They lie down and are dead.
Not so with man, it is God's highest pleasure
To let a light shine through the rain,
That we, our lives might from the cradle measure
Once to falter; then, on again.
Behold death! Why at his pale presence shudder?
For he is but a guide
To turn our listless steps toward another
Across the Stygian tide.
We do not die, our sleep is not eternal
But just a waiting o'er,
While in that heavenly fellowship fraternal
We'll meet those gone before.
In our Father's house in realms of delight
Where angelic choirs attend
Garbed in all the splendor of the Infinite,
Shall we behold each friend.
At times our hearts are all aflame with sorrow;
There seems no end of care;
But just have patience, there shall dawn a morrow
When things appear more fair.
Yea, just have patience, hoping, trusting ever,
For life is but awhile;
Then we shall too embark upon that river
That rolls by Eden's Isle.
