CURE SICK HEAD. Headache, yet CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and relieving the accompanying ailments...

HEADACHE. Act as they would be almost useless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint...

ACHE. At the base of so many lives that have been where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it...

The O'Connor Girls. By Mrs. HENDERSON ("THE DUCHESS"). AUTHOR OF "MOLLY BAW" and "LAST THROW"...

CHAPTER I. "To mortal men great loads allotted he. But of all packs, no pack like poverty..."

"Poor old Dad!" says Kitty, softly sighing. Kitty could hardly do anything but sob...

"Oh! it's a shame, a shame!" cry I, with all the vehemence that characterizes me...

"I don't see why it should be the end of his life," says I, with a frown. "Neither do I..."

"I don't believe, however, I am half as bad as they make me out to be, though of course I wish my nose was a bit straighter..."

"Oh, I dare say," says Kitty, impatiently. "Why can't you do many things, a thousand things, in even a single thing that can bring in even a hundred a year?"

"Oh, dear Bluekin!" says I, and forthwith I burst into tears. I am the crying one of the family...

"I don't see why it should be the end of his life," says I, with a frown. "Neither do I..."

"I don't see why it should be the end of his life," says I, with a frown. "Neither do I..."

"I don't see why it should be the end of his life," says I, with a frown. "Neither do I..."

was—that he died penniless. I have always hated his memory, because they say he hated Dad!

Truly, my tears now are not altogether a good old name. Dear old Dad! Darling Dad! To think that things have to come to such a pass with him, that he must have died in the great pleasure of his life...

"So no more hunting for poor Dad. That's what it really means. And all because those way, and are now paying only a third of their rents..."

"After all," says Kitty, with a view to consoling me, "he sells Bluekin now, and may be able to buy him back again before the winter..."

"Did you hear," says Geraldine, who has been busy adding up accounts at the old desk in the corner...

"One of the new men?" says Kitty. And then, pensively, "I wonder what they are like?"

"I don't suppose we shall ever know," says Geraldine, discontentedly. "We're not and Clombree being four miles off, they are not likely to see much of us..."

"And anyway we haven't a trap," says Kitty. "The springs of the old Norwegian are hopelessly done for now; even rope won't hold them together..."

"And such nice heads!" says Geraldine, throwing down her pen, and beginning to pace up and down the old schoolroom...

"I shall always hate it," declare I impatiently. "I think now, however, that it is very kind of you to be young and energetic..."

"I don't believe, however, I am half as bad as they make me out to be, though of course I wish my nose was a bit straighter..."

CALICO ISN'T CELESTIAL MATERIAL. And Dr. Collyer was Skeptical in regard to Apparitions Who Wore It.

New York, June 3.—The Rev. Dr. Robert Collyer, a speaking of his attendance at the séance given on Tuesday night by Mrs. Carrie Sawyer, in her rooms at 232 West Twenty-first street...

"The room was dimly lit. Once in a while a voice, supposed to be George or Mary, present—would recognize the apparition. But I think all these forms were represented by one person, and the forms were clothed in calico and in celestial attire."

"Then once there as a loud noise, and the voice announced that it was the noise of a carriage passing. But I would have known the noise of a plane. If that was the noise of a plane, then they must have very poor planes in the other world."

"I did not call for anyone. Had anything appeared I would have stepped forward, turned on the light and would have examined whatever it was. I have never been a believer in spiritualism and never attended a séance before. As regards my attitude toward the séance, I was fully convinced, though, I would have told it to the world."

"Will it droop and die?" It Can Be Made a Thing of Beauty! The tender, fragile plan which you have potted with such care, which gets the sunlight at your window, and grows constant attention and regular watering in order to thrive and blossom.

"Baby's life depends as much upon its food, as the house-rope depends upon water and plant-food. Babies who are not properly fed, are constantly peevish and fretful; this is an indication of cold and colic ailments. The little weanlings must be satisfied with food suited for its strength and capacity, else it becomes irritable and fretful, and finally dies."

"We think it a duty to remind mothers at this time that Lactated Food is the best artificial food suitable for their babies. It possesses all the constituents of mother's milk, and is suited for the weakest digestion. It is readily and eagerly accepted by the youngest babies, who become nauseated with all other prepared foods, and causes the flesh, bone and muscle to grow, and the child to sleep well."

"I shall always hate it," declare I impatiently. "I think now, however, that it is very kind of you to be young and energetic..."

"I don't believe, however, I am half as bad as they make me out to be, though of course I wish my nose was a bit straighter..."

"I don't see why it should be the end of his life," says I, with a frown. "Neither do I..."

A LITTLE GIRL'S DANGER. Mr. Henry Macomber, Leyland St., Blackburn, London, Eng., states that his little girl fell and struck her knee against a curbstone. The knee began to swell, became very painful and terminated in what doctors call "white swelling." She was treated by the best medical men, but grew worse. Finally ST. JACOBS OIL was used. The contents of one bottle completely reduced the swelling, killed the pain and cured her. "ALL RIGHT! ST. JACOBS OIL DID IT!"

Cleaver's Juvenia Soap. Marvellous Effect!! Preserves and Rejuvenates the Complexion. DR. REDWOOD'S REPORT. The ingredients are perfectly pure, and we cannot speak too highly of them. JUVENIA SOAP is entirely free from any coloring matter, and contains the smallest proportion possible of water. From careful analysis and a thorough investigation of the whole process of its manufacture, we consider this Soap fully qualified to rank amongst the FIRST OF TOILET SOAPS. T. The Best is the Cheapest. THOUGHTFUL PEOPLE. Who care for the health of themselves and their families will not use kalsomines, which decay on the walls, or poisonous wall paper, the refuge of vermin and disease.

PEOPLE WHO HAVE GOOD TASTE. Will not use wall papers which at best are but cheap chromos—poor imitations—of the fresco painter's work. SENSIBLE PEOPLE. Will use Church's Alabastine, the permanent and sanitary wall coating.

DO YOU DESIRE SOMETHING ELEGANT? Use Alabastine. No more beautiful work can be produced than with Alabastine; all first-class decorators use it in preference to other goods. DO YOU DESIRE TO BE ECONOMICAL? Use Alabastine. You can do it yourself! It is easily applied by anyone who can read our simple directions. Plain tinting can be done in beautiful shades cheaper than you can buy paper.

ARE YOU A PAINTER? If so, is your time worth anything? Use Church's Alabastine. Always ready; no hot water needed; no waiting for stuff to cool. Sixteen beautiful shades and white. FINALLY. If you are a landlord or a housekeeper don't fool your money away on worthless kalsomines and paper that have to be washed and scraped off the walls when soiled. If your painter doesn't recommend Church's Alabastine, you can depend on it, he is not up to the times. The Alabastine Company (Limited), Paris, Ont. SOLE MANUFACTURERS. Sold by first-class dealers everywhere and by JAMES REID & CO., 118 Dundas street, and J. W. BARTLETT, 763 Dundas street, London.

THE Lumber Cutting Machine OF THE FUTURE. 10 Band Mills sold in Canada in 1891 where one was sold in 1890. We predict an equal increase in 1892. Our present orders indicate it, so place your orders early. The Circular Saw 22 years ago was as much a novelty and as difficult to run as the Band Saw is today. With the experience gained in handling the Circular, knowledge of the Band Saw is much more readily acquired. Special improved tools also facilitate the work. We furnish an expert with each mill to instruct in the use of tools and work on saw. The adjoining cut illustrates our NO. 1 BAND SAW MILL, capacity 10,000 to 20,000 feet in 10 hours. Our No. 2 mill is much heavier—capacity 20,000 to 40,000 feet per day. Waterous Engine Works Co. BEANFORD, CANADA.
