Fifteen minutes after noon today the fire department was summoned to the London and Petrolea barrel works, Horton street east. The engineer heard the noise of the fire, and at once gave the alarm to the factory hands. and with the aid of a small hose and buckets kept the flames from spread-Fortunately there was little draft reached the fire.

The firemen had particularly hard work, owing to the dense volumes of smoke from the shavings. However, the flames were extinguished in a minutes and the extensive plant put out of danger.

The chief damage will be the loss of time, as the engines cannot be run before Monday. The Jubilee Hospital.

Letter From the Majority of the Medical Men of London.

Their Views of the Present Duty the Hospital Trust.

To the Editor of The Advertiser: The jubilee committee having undertaken to raise by the end of June $60,000 for hospital extension in London, and that date having arrived, and subscriptions made conditional on raising the full amount having lapsed, we desire again to announce to the public the views held by the majority of the medical profession in the city.

1. We believe that the responsibility for providing proper hospital accom-modation for the people rests on the municipality; and while philanthropic individuals may render valuable assistance by their donations for this purpose, the chief burden must be on the entire tax-paying community. Hospital and sanitary provision for public is as much a municipal institution as police and fire protection.

2. Even with individual donations for establishing a public hospital, its maintenance cannot depend on charity; but unless amply endowed, must be assumed by the municipality; and consequently its government must be in the hands of the representatives of

3. While the city general hospital has done an excellent work, it is not sufficient for the public requirements at present; and it is necessary that further accommodation should be pro-vided at once, and not deferred to some indefinite period in the future, awaiting the accumulation of funds. 4. While we would be pleased if a new hospital, complete and perfect in when Miss Mary Frances Legarie Gra- all its departments, could be at once ham, of 177 Kent street, this city, was ich open here on Monday, Sept. united in marriage to Mr. Joseph necessary for this purpose, the public have been received by Sheriff Cam- O'Brien, of London township. HIGH-GRADE PIANOS

We have never made any other. Fifty years ago we started out to make the best that was possible in a piano. Of course our pianos of today are better than those of 1847, but just as those of 1847 bearing our name were the best made in those days, so those of 1897 are the best made in these closing days of the nineteenth century. There is a best in everything-a best in piano making. We have never been satisfied with anything else, and in this one principle you have an explanation of the wonderul success that has come to these pianos the wide Dominion over, at home or abroad-for our pianos are known
