

Better than the Sun

Before OMO the usual way was to spread the clothes on the grass exposed to the sun. Now OMO cleanses thoroughly, bleaches and purifies better than the sun can do it. It has the bleaching and purifying properties of fresh country air for linens and all white things. Harms neither hands nor clothes.

No rubbing. Directions are easy. Works quickly. Coffee, tea, cocoa, fruit and other stains disappear like magic.

Safe and sure but must not be used for colored articles, woolsens or flannels.

Daily Advertiser Fashion Expert Tells How to Use Macreme Lace on a Long Coat

If you can find in the attic a piece of macreme lace that was used in grandmother's time to drape the mantle-piece, you are in luck, for it will make the smartest possible trimming for your new long coat.

The hat and coat illustrated are late ideas in outdoor dressing. The coat is large and made on the straight dress worn last year. The sleeve, however, instead of being cut in one piece with the coat, is set in at the shoulder and reaches down in a "V" shape under the arms.

The pockets are formed of long panels of the goods, coming from the collar and lace. This lace goes very well with the new Terry cloth, a glorified bath toweling, of which this coat is made.

Black taffeta is put under the lace and touches of black cord about the cut-glass buttons give a most distinctive air. The lining is dull blue.

The hat is a panama and looks stunning, particularly so as many small hats are being worn this season. It is trimmed with a soft sash of printed crepe, and a bunch of pheasant feathers. These feathers are being worn more and more, although the beginning of their vogue was with the production of "Chantecler" by Maude Adams a couple of seasons ago.

Currant Recipes

Currant Tarts.

Into a quart of sifted flour chop a cupful of firm, cold butter. When the butter is like coarse sand add a cupful of cold water and work into a paste, touching with hands as little as possible. Turn upon a pastry board and roll out twice; then set on the ice for an hour or two. Line small buttered tart pans with this paste.

Stem and pick over ripe red currants and wash them. Nearly fill the pastry shells with these and sweeten very generously with granulated sugar. Bake, and when cold sprinkle with powdered sugar.

Currants in Syrup.
Red currants make one of the most artistic additions to salads; the loose sprays laid around the edge of the plates, or as a garnish to a salad bowl, or stemmed, used with other fruits or with vegetables for the body of a salad.

Currant Cup.

Cook into syrup a pint each of sugar and water. When cool pour it over stemmed currants and set on ice four hours. Serve in sherbet glasses.

Fruit Cream.

Mash one quart of black raspberries and one pint of red currants with two and a half cupfuls of sugar. Let them stand several hours, strain off the juice and turn into the freezer. When partly frozen, add one cupful of sweet cream, sweetened, flavored and whipped.

Spiced Currants.

Three pounds sugar; five pounds currants; one pint vinegar; table-spoon, each, cloves, cinnamon, ginger and allspice with one teaspoon salt. Mix well. Simmer carefully three hours, then bottle.

Cynthia Grey's Many Answers

[Correspondents are requested to make their inquiries as brief as possible, and to write on one side of the paper only. It is impossible to give replies to a stated time, as all letters have to be answered in turn as they are received.]

A Wedding Gift.

Dear Miss Grey: I am invited to the wedding of a near relative, and should like a few suggestions for a suitable wedding present. Have about $20 or $25 to spend on it.

2. If I were unable to attend the wedding, would it be the proper thing to send my present a few days previous with just my card enclosed, and write the bride, expressing my regret at not being present, also my good wishes for her future happiness.

3. If I were sending a present of silverware, and wished to have a monogram engraved, should I have the initials of the bride's maiden name used, or her new name-to-be?

COUNTRY GIRL.

A.—1. There are such numbers of things to suggest which could be purchased for this sum. How about a piece of furniture, such as a little desk, a table or chair? You could get any of a number of pretty things in silver, such as tea pot, cream jug and sugar basin. Silver trays are always appreciated. Or you might get an electric reading lamp, a good picture, a Turkish rug.

2. Yes, certainly. What else could you do under the circumstances? Send the present about a week before, if you can.

3. As a rule, the bride's initials are used. Sometimes the bride's and groom's are combined in a monogram.

A New Refrigerator.

Dear Miss Grey: What will remove the scent of the enamel from an enamel-lined refrigerator?

READER.

A.—It will wear off in a little time. Set the refrigerator out of doors; open it and let the air and sunshine in it for a day and a night.

Syrup Recipe.

Dear Miss Grey: Give recipe for making table syrup from sugar.

A READER.

A.—Cook sugar and water together, in the proportion of one cup sugar to one-half cup water, until it is as thick as desired.

A Nice Dress For Mother.

Dear Cynthia Grey: When having my tea, I accidentally spilled a cup of black tea on my dress—a Copenhagen color. The spots dried, leaving a stain in the dress. Could you please tell me of anything to remove this stain, as it is very conspicuous, being on the front panel of the skirt?

2. Will gasoline remove grease spots without leaving a stain?

3. Are velvet pumps or shoes the most popular for particular occasions?

4. What would be a real nice dress for a middle-aged lady—material and how made?

Hoping to see these answers at your earliest possible convenience, and not to have taken too much of your valuable space, I am,

"A PERPLEXED ONE."

A.—1. Wet the stains with a solution composed of equal parts alcohol and ammonia, then sponge with clear water, and, when dry, press on the under side with a warm iron.

2. Yes.

3. Both are worn a great deal for dress occasions, as are also suede pumps in various colors, and white shoes, both high and low.

4. Black voile, with fine white stripe, grey-figured silk, foulard, or silk poplin are equally seasonable and suitable materials. Supposing you decide upon the black and white voile, I would suggest your making the skirt with a tunic. The foundation skirt could be seven gored, with the bottom edge trimmed with black satin. The tunic should also be finished in the same way. A pretty way to make the waist would be with three small tucks over each shoulder, and a pointed yoke of cream lace, and a pointed two small revers in black satin. A satin ribbon girdle conceals the waist line, and tiny black buttons might be used to ornament the waist and skirt.

A Pleasant Cottage

One of the pleasantest cottages we ever dwell in was built and furnished by a woman who spent more ingenuity than thought on it than she did money.

Isabel Gordon Curtis in Success. Village carpenter made a good deal of the furniture, to which she gave finishing touches. Toilet tables, beds, over them stood excellent chairs, which did not cost as much as a fearful distorter we often enter in a rented house. She bought mirrors cut in proper sizes at the store, had them backed to protect the quicksilver, then around them carpenter set plain varnished picture molding for frames. Seats were set into window spaces, by the fire, or in jogs of the wall. They were covered with green denim and when I told him she showed a clean lined with paper cambric. Thus she did away entirely with bureaus. There is nothing more aggravating than the joggly, cheap, ugly bureau of a shore cottage with bumpy drawers that would make a saint swear. The boxes were suited to hold waists, underwear, shoes or skirts laid out full length; besides they served for chairs.

The dining room had a neat dish cupboard with white enameled shelves; there was a buffet stand like a toilet table and the big dining-room table immaculate with a white oilcloth cover. The entire house was done in white enamel or white oilcloth and green denim. Before each bed was laid a strip of grass matting bound with green; all over the house the curtains were neat strips of unbleached cotton, and the same material bordered with a green-and-white cretonne was used for spreads.

Everything had a spotlessly clean, cool, summery appearance, which was so attractive that one did not hesitate at paying a good rent. This woman was wise enough to know that the average housewife prefers cleanliness and comfort to glimmering, lurid imitations of furniture, and the flamboyant things which are a delusion and a snare. What she saved on furniture she spent on mattresses, springs, blankets, a first-class stove and substantial granite cooking utensils.

MOVE ON!—MOVE ON!!

We have been doing police duty in every Department
All laggards and loiterers given the "Move On!—Move On!" Sign

We must be the custodians of our own stocks. We must compel all tag ends, remnants, broken lines or soiled goods to "Move On" in this store. No inert, lazy stocks here. When lines become broken, when pieces dwindle to remnants, they are not allowed to accumulate. We get busy doing police duty.

We get after them with the big stick and prices are radically and effectively lowered

And what's the result? What happens to seasonable, desirable, fashionable goods when they are priced far below regular? They "move on," and they move at a pretty lively gait. All the goods we will place on sale this week are up-to-date goods. Goods that you need now, and this will be a big opportunity to get these needed goods right when you need them at greatly reduced prices. MOVEMENT COMMENCES TUESDAY, 9 A.M.

Collars and Cuffs For Mother's Gowns

Of the many ways in which the middle-aged woman may vary the effect of her afternoon gown none is simpler than the use of a collar and cuffs of white voile edged with scalloping and embroidered in a floral design. Another change may be the frock set of white chiffon with border of black malines, and still another is the one of black net hem-stitched with silver thread. Some of these germinate only long in front, that they cross in the bustline, where they cross in surprise effect and are tucked away under the skirt. An excellent model of this sort is of light blue lawn embroidered with black dots, and a second is of white agate trimmed with tiny folds of broadcloth, alternating with eponge.

New Note Paper

Antelope color is the smart shade for correspondence paper of the fashionable fabric finish. While the note and letter sizes are practically unchanged there is considerable difference in the envelopes. Many of these have the oblong flap which covers scarcely a third of the envelope's side, some have the slightly centre peaked flap with curved corners, and among the very ultra models is an envelope flap curving boldly near its right top corner and almost straight along the left lower corner; which nearly covers that side of the receptacle.

Correspondence stationery in two shades is smart, and in this are found the mauve, blue, cream and beige tones, the grounding being always of the paper shade and the inch-wide strip of band along one edge of the sheet, card or envelope of the darker shade.

Always have your home address on the correspondence stationery in silver, gold or colored lettering unless the family is in mourning. Not to do this is to tacitly announce that you are not permanently domiciled. In an event have the stationery marked in some individual manner, either with an

White taffeta was used for the outside with a lining of the same material, showing the opal tints. The closing is made with fancy pearl buttons, far down on the side, and three small buttons are used on the lapels.

THE FAIRY'S ROBE

There was a fairly wise and good,
Once on a time, as I've heard say,
Who took the bits of happiness
That foolish folks had thrown away
And wove them in a wondrous loom
Till she had made a robe of joy,
Whose shining folds were never dimmed,
And which no time could e'er destroy.

Then all the people cried,
"Alack!
Lend us, we pray, this wondrous dress,
That we may say that we have known
At least a borrowed happiness."
The fairy smiled, "Go, look," she said,
"Along your path and you will find
That though a few stray joys I took,
Yet plenty still remain behind!"

does not grow in America. Irish potato may be substituted. Select two large potatoes, boil in their skins until almost done. Take off the skins and cut in small cubes lengthwise. Let each cube be about the size of a finger.

Prepare a syrup made of one cupful of sugar and a half-cupful of water, boiled until thick. Boil each cube of potato in the hot syrup until well covered, then place each cube side by side in a well-greased pie plate and drop a few drops of syrup on top of each. Set in a moderate oven and bake a few minutes.
