Aerated Ovens

Actually
Breathe
Fresh Air

THE peculiar operation of an aerated oven and its utility in the art of improved cooking, will be easily seen when it is understood that food in the oven is always surrounded by pure, fresh, sweet air. No burning or foul odors can exist to spoil its delicate flavours. The simple meaning of aerated is to supply or impregnate with fresh air—to compel its free action within any prescribed limit. It infuses and continually forces a rapid circulation of fresh air in exactly the same manner as we airify our lungs. So we say aerated ovens in Souv'nir Stoves actually breathe fresh air. Aerated ovens are Lined with Aluminum. Like a new silver dollar, they never tarnish, and are always Clean and Sweet.
