

not in one particular Department, but under the joint guidance of all members of social science and other departments who can contribute an important viewpoint. It is important also that these studies should make as careful an assessment as possible of the great fund of experience of Great Britain and certain other European countries and more recently of the United States, in urban and rural housing and in related matters.