Dear Sir Arthur:

The address I delivered on Tuesday night to the McGill Undergraduates is being printed in pamphlet form and I am writing to ask if you think the University would wish any copies for distribution, if not among the Arts men as a whole, to a few of the students.

The address is being printed principally in order that the relatives of those Undergraduates who were mentioned and who have since died should have a copy, but as the expense of making additional copies is very slight I thought I should ask you if the University authorities would desire to use any.

Yours very truly,
