

McPherson's Horse Controller.

This horse controller consists of forty feet of half inch rope, and is used for horses of a vicious disposition, that will kick or strike while entering their stall or while cleaning them. It can also be used very successfully, on kicking horses or horses of a vicious disposition. It makes a complete harness, breeching, back-band, collar and belly-band, hold-backs and all complete. It is impossible for a horse to kick or to strike whilst in this harness.

DIRECTIONS FOR USE.

Take a forty foot rope, double it and tie a half hitch on the loop end, leaving a loop large enough to drop over the horse's hind quarters, and rest about where the breeching does. Tie another half hitch on the rope, running along the back so that the knot will rest just back of the weathers. Put the rope on each side of the weathers and bring it down to the breast, cross the rope and pass it back to the loop over the quarters, and then pass the end from the under side, about where the breeching ring is placed. Bring the rope back to the side, about where the back-band would fit. Take a half hitch from the upper side of the rope, passing from breast to breeching, cross the rope under the belly and take another half hitch from the under side of the last rope mentioned, bring up and tie to the rope passing along the back.
