

Contents.

CHAPTER IX.

- Involuntary racing. — A backwoods' parsonage. — Graves in the wilderness. — Notions of equality. — Arctic winters. — Ruffed grouse. — Indian fishing in winter. — A marriage. — Our winter's pork 158

CHAPTER X.

- Our neighbors. — Insect plagues. — Military officers' families in the bush. — An awkward mistake. — Dr. D—— nearly shot for a bear. — Major M——. — Our candles. — Fortunate escape from a fatal accident 170

CHAPTER XI.

- "Now Spring returns." — Sugar-making. — Bush psalmody. — Bush preaching. — Worship under difficulties. — A clerical Mrs. Partington. — Biology. — A ghost. — "It slips good." — Squatters 181

CHAPTER XII.

- Bush magistrates. — Indian forest guides. — Senses quickened by necessity. — Breaking up of the ice. — Depth of the frost. — A grave in winter. — A ball. — A holiday coat 196

CHAPTER XIII.

- Wild leeks. — Spring birds. — Wilson's poem on the blue bird. — Downy woodpeckers. — Passenger pigeons. — Their numbers. — Roosting places. — The frogs. — Bull frogs. — Tree frogs. — Flying squirrels 207

CHAPTER XIV.

- Our spring crops. — Indian corn. — Pumpkins. — Melons. — Fruits. — Wild flowers 220