FORMER TEACHER IN ROTHSAY SCHOOL IS KILLED IN WAR

Lieutenant J. S. Brown Taught Class. For Two Years in Collegiate Institution

Montreal, May 30—News of the death of Lieut. J. S. Brown, of this city, has been received. He was killed in the war. He was an old McGill boy who had many friends in this city. He was the second son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Brown of St. Foye road, Quebec, who have been informed that he made the supreme sacrifice on May 18.

Lieut. Brown graduated with honors in arts at Bishop's College, Lennoxville, in 1910, and taught classics in Rothsay Collegiate school, New Brunswick, for two years.

He entered the faculty of medicine, McGill University, and had completed his second year when he was called out. He was among the first to enlist, joining No. 1 Field Ambulance. He went with the first contingent as a sergeant, serving two years in France.

After taking an artillery course in England, he was appointed to a deep battery and was with his guns until the end came. His brother, Lieut. R. H. Brown, of the Canadian Infantry, is at present in Military Hospital in England recovering from severe wounds received at Vimy Ridge.

FARM LAND ALLOTTED

Names of 68 Who Have Taken City Lots to Cultivate

The names of the citizens who have applied for gardening plots placed at their disposal by the city have been announced. The lots have been alloted, following the ploughing of the land. Sixty-three lots have been marked off on the Manawagouish road by William Murdoch, city engineer, and awarded accordingly. Mr. Murdoch said today that there were several more names received and new land would be ploughed and new lots made as soon as possible.

Many of the amateur farmers have started work and a few have their crops in. The others will likely commence immediately. Suitable plots have been picked and all land not susceptible to cultivation has been struck off. Each lot is numbered and a man was busy this morning staking the respective numbers. Those who are awarded are numbering from one on, as follows:—

D. McNeill and T. Elliott, John McCourt and E. J. Shandley, P. O'Shaughnessy, D. A. Thorne, Frank McKim, A. Thorne, W. H. Estabrook, W. E. Gunter, J. Kirkpatrick, M. H. Knox, M. Bailey, P. J. Duffy, W. J. Linton, Thomas Mitchell, M. E. Dickinson, Charles W. Dickinson, Frank McDonald, William Jackson, Clarence McKim, F. Ramsay, Stewart Nelson.

CHIEF INSPECTOR SPEAKS OF PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO ACT

Reasons Why Changes in the Prohibition Law in New Brunswick Are Sought

Discussing the amendments to the provincial prohibitory act, which have been presented to the legislature, Rev. W. D. Wilson, the chief inspector, yesterday gave the reasons for the various changes which are sought. The amendments were presented to the government a week ago by the president, vice-president and treasurer of the provincial branch of the Dominion Temperance Alliance, and the chief inspector and have been introduced in the legislature.

The first amendment provides for the sale of alcohol "in sufficient quantities" to manufacturers and those engaged in mechanical pursuits upon the written authorization of the chief inspector, removes the limit of ten gallons formerly fixed. This is done to allow manufacturers of essences and others to carry on legitimate business without inconvenience or embarrassment.

The second amendment, introduced at the request of physicians, permits nurses or attendants, well as parents and guardians, to give liquor for medicinal purposes to a minor.

Believing that widespread advertising of liquors for sale for importation into the province was defeating the purpose of the act, the temperance people have asked to have the section relating to advertising made stronger. The amendment would forbid the advertising of the manufacture or sale of liquor "upon any circular, poster, price-list, newspaper, periodical or otherwise published in this province."

Section 88 is amended to remove the limit from alcohol used in the preservation of specimens for scientific purposes and from the quantity of wine imported or kept on hand for sacramental purposes.

In the original act no provision was made for the licensing and restricting the sale of non-intoxicating drinks and Section 180 is amended to define such drinks and to provide for the issuing of licenses. Section 181 tells what may be sold under a beer license and specifies that no license shall be required for the sale of soda waters or other beverages containing no alcohol. A sub-section provides a penalty for selling "temperance" drinks without a license.

The final amendment eliminates Section 184 which authorized contracts for the sale and importation of liquors between this and other provinces; the elimination of this section does not prohibit such transactions, but brings them under the provisions of George V. Chapter 19, the "Doherty Act."

WHAT SOME LADIES ARE DOING TO HELP FOOD PRODUCTION

Several St. John ladies for some time have been taking an active part in the increased production of food. These ladies have been doing their work quietly and unknown to a great many, and their results will be many citizens have been wondering what tools to buy, what to plant and when to start.

In Park street there are two ladies who are expert bee-keepers. The honey and produce is of a quality that cannot be overpraised. The knowledge of Miss L. C. Brown has of poultry keeping could be gained only by careful study and experience. The success she meets with goes to show that the men sometimes take second place in the art when ladies are competing. She is a firm believer in the egg-producing qualities of Rhode Island Reds and White Leghorns, which her stock includes. That she is a gardener of merit is shown by the fact that she has in her garden potatoes that are two inches above the ground, which may be a record for this city at this time.

Two young ladies who deserve a great deal of credit are Miss Knight of Richmond street and Miss Dougherty of Main street. They have a piece of land at New River, about thirty miles distant, and are very much taken up by their work; these energetic ladies put to shame the man who will not work a piece of land because it is not at his back door.

Mrs. Glass of Millidge avenue will conclude this by no means complete list of ladies working in the aid of increased production. She is, perhaps, covering a wider range of activities than any other person in St. John, and doing it alone, her husband and one son being at the front. (One son she has last fighting for his country). Mrs. Glass is an all-round farmer and conducts her affairs with the efficiency of a born agriculturist. She keeps poultry, a pig, a cow and has a garden, and the capable manner in which she looks after her stock goes to show what woman can do. There is much credit due to Mrs. Glass, and it is hoped that her husband and son will soon be back to join her in her enterprise.

The "Finns" would be pleased to hear of any other ladies who are taking an active part in the increased production campaign, where their lot is situated and the progress they are making.

CHARLES W. PELVIN

The death of Charles W. Pelvin, aged twenty-eight years, occurred on Monday at his home in Hibernia, Queens county, after an illness lasting four years. He was a son of the late George Pelvin and is survived by his mother, two sisters, Mrs. J. Foster of this city, and Mrs. Ira Taylor of Queenstown; Thomas Amos and Stanley at home. The burial took place today.
