SHOULD OBSERVE RULES OF HYGIENE

Present Season Fosters Danger to Breathing Organs, Says Health Authority.

Precautionary measures have been issued by the Montreal Health Department regarding the prevention of such diseases as bronchitis, pneumonia and pleurisy. This advice published in the Health Bulletin is in part as follows: The time of the year is at hand when the temperature and the state of the atmosphere expose us more particularly to the diseases of the breathing organs: bronchitis, broncho-pneumonia, pneumonia, pleurisy, etc. the number of people affected by these diseases increases always considerably during the fall of the year, and the ravages made continue to exist until the spring. It is quite important that the people should be warned and advised to take the best precautions, in order to avoid these diseases as much as possible.

"We must not forget that they are due to germs which are transmitted from one person to another, and that therefore they are often preventable. Besides, contagion, bronchitis, pneumonia, etc., will develop in persons who are living in certain conditions which render them less resisting; such as being exposed to damp cold, malnutrition, living in certain buildings with insufficient hygienic appliances, the lack of personal hygiene. Hygiene of the body must receive particular attention, regular life will help the organs to function normally and will therefore carry to its maximum the individual resistance."

"Badly heated homes, lack of ventilation, insufficient clothing, the bad state of the atmosphere threaten us with colds; during the cold season our efforts should tend to observe the rules of hygiene as strictly as possible, in order to avoid the contagion of one of these so dangerous diseases which the bad season fosters.

"Patients suffering from bronchitis, a cough (cold in the head), sore throat, even in a mild form, must at once receive treatment at home, otherwise they lay themselves open to complications, as well as exposing to contagion the other persons with whom they come into contact."

"Some people have careless manners, and without consideration for their neighbors' feelings, they cough without covering their mouths with a handkerchief, they sneeze in the same manner or spit on the floor."

"Such facts are observed daily either in public buildings, in the tram cars or in any other form of public conveyance, not taking into account what happens on the street."

ONE BOY CLEARED; SENTENCE ON TWO IS SUSPENDED

The case of Roy McCarthy, Charles Mullaly and Thomas Sullivan, the three boys charged with breaking and entering and stealing three new overcoats from the Used Car Exchange in Robeson avenue, was dealt with in the police court yesterday afternoon.

The first two named changed their plea of "not guilty" to one of "guilty," while Sullivan maintained his original plea. The other two boys admitted to

CHICAGO WOMAN KILLS NEIGHBOR'S BABY GIRL

When Police Find Body in Basement Stove She Takes Her Own Life With a Bread Knife.

Chicago, Dec. 7.—The dismembered and partly cremated body of three-year old Margaret Coughlin was found today by the police in a stove in the basement of the home of Ralph Penzes. In a bedroom upstairs the police found the body of Mrs. Penzes, 40 years old. She had committed suicide with a bread knife while the police were battering down the door.

The little girl was the daughter of a South Park policeman who lived across the street. As neighbors go the Coughlin and the Penzes families were friendly, and the child crossed the street most every day. On Wednesday afternoon she disappeared after she had gone to the Penzes' home to play.

Mrs. Penzes pretended to help in the all-night search which followed. She sat in the Coughlin home, caring for Margaret's younger brother until 8 a. m. This morning she hurried her husband and her daughters, Josephine and Dolly, off to work and school, kissing them goodbye.

As soon as they had left she locked the doors and windows and went to the basement. With saws and a hatchet she cut up the baby's body. The legs and one arm were wrapped in newspapers and stuffed into the stove, where a brick fire had been started. The torso and one arm were bunched up in papers, and Mrs. Penzes took them upstairs with her.

Meanwhile the police had put a watch over the cottage. A policeman saw smoke coming from the basement windows. When his knocks were unanswered he broke down the door and found the burning body.

"Pathological insanity—she killed the child in a fit of mania and then killed herself," was the verdict of Coroner's Physician Reinhardt.

IN TABERNACLE CHURCH

A splendid concert programme was given in the hall of the Tabernacle church last night by the Young People's Society of the Victoria street church under the auspices of the Y. P. S. of the Tabernacle church. A substantial sum was realized and the delightful programme thoroughly enjoyed. The programme consisted of sketches and musical and literary numbers. The first number was a sketch entitled "Answering the Phone," and those who took part in it were the Misses Ethel Hudson, Nellie Hudson and Ray Currie. Miss Eva Currie sang a solo. Hedley Currie gave a reading and a sketch entitled the "Old Maid" was taken part in by Miss Campbell, Miss Ethel Akerley, Miss Ray Currie, Ralph Brown and Mr. Wallace. Miss Gladys London sang a solo and Miss Eva Currie followed with another solo. Miss Ivy Campbell gave a collegians will disappear from the Ell date list. Yale does not desire a change

YALE WANTS TWO BIG GAMES STILL LISTED ONLY WEEK APART

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 7.—Only a single change in Yale's football schedule for next season is planned, according to The Yale Alumni Weekly, which says that the addition of Iowa will probably prove the only modification. Although Iowa has the date which was allied by Brown in the season just closed, it is not expected that the Providence collegians will disappear from the Ell date list. Yale does not desire a change
