TRUE BILLS FOUND

But Murder Trial Postponed to September 16th.

Higgins Will Be Tried for Murder and Goodspeed as an Accessory After the Fact.

Defense Will Contend Higgins Is Insane and Postponement Is Granted to Allow Them to Obtain Expert Medical Testimony.

At the opening of the St. John circuit court Tuesday morning the grand jury found bills against Frank Higgins, aged 15, charged with the murder of William Doherty, and against Fred W. Goodspeed, aged 14, charged with being an accessory after the fact.

Upon agreement of opposing counsel after considerable argument, the judge consented to postpone the case for two weeks and at the afternoon session announced September 16 as the date when the trial proper will begin.

The mover for the postponement was Daniel Mullin, K. C., whose chief reason for so desiring was that he is able to procure from Boston expert medical testimony which he considered absolutely necessary for the defense of his client. He declined to state what might be the nature of the testimony, but it is generally understood that the physician who has been sent for is a noted authority on criminal insanity and that Mr. Mullin will submit in defense of his client that he was mentally irresponsible for the terrible deed with which he stands accused.

The court opened at 11 o'clock yesterday morning, Judge Landry presiding. The interest in the murder case attracted a large crowd even to these preliminary proceedings, but few of them remained throughout the opening session. Judge Landry took the chair promptly on time, when the court was called to order and the roll of the grand jury called. The jurors were sworn at follows:

Grand jurors: W. Frank Hatheway (foreman), John McGoldrick, Clement P. Clarke, Arthur W. Adams, Wm. Waters, Jr., Douglas McArthur, Wm. Bruckhoff, Ed. B. Ferguson, Fred A. Young, William Tait, Louis Green, Isiah W. Holder, Chas. K. Cameron, Michael McDade, J. Fred Sullivan, Wm. J. Dalton, Fred J. Richmond, F. V. Yarrant, Jas. L. Thomas, Horace C. Brown, J. W. Montgomery, Robert P. Patterson.

In his address to the jury, Judge Landry congratulated the constituency in the large representation when there was such serious business on hand. Regarding the cases to come before them there may be no need at the time for any discussion. No judge could point out to them their duties more clearly than did the oath they had just taken. They were there to do their duty according to their own consciences. There would be two criminal cases for their consideration, he said. One was a bill of indictment against Frank Higgins, accusing him of murdering a young man named Doherty. The circumstances as detailed in the depositions were very clear and he did not think they would have any difficulty in finding a true bill. It was necessary for them to be convinced that Higgins had done the murder, but only to decide if there was evidence enough to warrant the presentation of the case before a regular court. He did not think the crown would present all the voluminous depositions before the grand jury. One or two witnesses he thought would be sufficient.

His honor then briefly recounted the evidence already presented in the case and warned the jury not to be guided by rumor, but coolly to weigh the evidence presented to them, without influence by pity or indignation. He read the clause defining murder. The text bill, he said, was one indicting Frederick W. Goodspeed as an accessory after the fact. On this count he did not see how they could escape bringing in a true bill. It had been shown that he was present when the murder was committed, that he assisted in hiding the body, and that he concealed the fact for some time. It was apparent that he had any previous knowledge that the deed was to be done.

The jury here retired at 11:40 to hear the evidence in the cases. The witnesses who testified at the preliminary examination were sworn and sent out with the jury. They were about twenty in number and included nearly all who had testified at the preliminary examination. Joseph Doherty, the murdered boy's father, was there, with the boy who had found the body. The park employees and police who had been present shortly afterward, the coroner, John Baird, who had seen Higgins and Goodspeed going toward the park with Doherty the day of the murder; the young man who saw the three at the park; the boy who had sold Higgins the cartridges, those who had seen him buy the revolver, the revolver, and those who had seen him carry it.

Fred Goodspeed was also present. Having been summoned from jail for the purpose. He walked in and took the oath, with his round eyes looking as seriously and his chubby face shining as rosy as when he first made his terrible revelation at the coroner's inquest.

The jury was out only one hour and ten minutes, and heard evidence from Goodspeed alone, the testimony of the others being allowed to stand over for the trial. They returned at 12:50, and announced through their foreman that they had found true bills against Frank Higgins for murder and against Fred Goodspeed as an accessory after the fact.

Daniel Mullin, counsel for Higgins, then made his plea for a postponement of the case. He produced twenty-five affidavits made by himself, of which he said copies had been furnished to the counsel for the crown. In the first affidavit, which was dated Aug. 20, he stated that since Aug. 19, he, as counsel

WOODEN MYSTERY.

An Open Letter From Justice John Murphy.

Who With George W. Sealy, J. P., Held the Inquest on the Body of the Deceased.

FREDERICTON JUNCTION, Sept. 1.—The latest phase in the Sunbury county mystery is that young Harry Wooden had a personal interview with the attorney general and that he is about to present a statement as to how possible dispel the shadow hanging over Thomas Woodten's taking off.

If Mrs. Woodten is innocent her talk has been most indolent and contradictory. The day that Mr. Woodden produced the mysterious letter and the look of hair previously referred to in the Sun, she stated that she believed her husband took a dose of strychnine. The next minute she said she had destroyed all the strychnine in the house shortly after Woodden's return from the hospital in the fall in conversation with the attorney general and that he is about to present a statement as to how possible dispel the shadow hanging over Thomas Woodten's taking off.

The pistol which figured in the tragedy belonged to her youngest boy. He tells that he missed it the night he was in the hospital. She states that she missed it, but thought the young fellow had it. She told either at the inquest or subsequently that she found three loaded revolver cartridges in the dead man's vest pocket. No one else ever saw anything of these cartridges.

All stories of Thomas Woodden's suicide intentions have been related by his wife since his death and none previously or so far as can be learned at the inquest. It is known that Mrs. Woodden told her neighbor that her neighbor left in her care. This showed that she knew how to use poison.

BLISSVILLE Sunbury Co., N. B., August 30th, 1920.

To the Editor of the Sun:

Sir—Your correspondent has not given you a true statement or you have not given a true statement of the inquest held by myself and George W. Sealy, J. P., on the body of the late Harry Wooden of the parish of Blissville, Sunbury county, who was found dead in his house on the seventh of last January.

First, you say that his son Frank lived with him. He has no son of that name. Second, you say that the inquest was held on the 12th of January, which is not true, for the inquest was held the same day. Third, that H. H. Fride was coroner, which is not true, for he was not coroner at that time. He is now coroner for Gladstone and Blissville, any school boy knows if he was a coroner at all it would be in the parish of St. John. You also state that Mrs. Woodden was not in the house on the seventh of last January. We did not wish to search her privacy and she was questioned by Mr. Sealy and myself and by several jurymen, and she swore positively that her late husband appeared all right when she went out to milk, and when she returned and opened the door she smelled powder and she saw him dead, and that she did not see him.

You say that Frank Woodden swore that he heard sounds from his father's room the night previous, which is false, for he has no son Frank, as I have already stated, but he has a son John, and he swore positively he never heard any noise, nor did he ever know of his father and mother having any trouble, nor did his father act strange the day or night before, and when he left the house the morning he was shot he appeared as usual, and I must say that there cannot be got any sense out of the statement of this county that made the jury, and it was not held in a hurry, for the inquest lasted three hours, and Thomas Woodden's brother was at the inquest, and he said that his brother Thomas had got tired living and had put an end to himself, and his sister was at the inquest, and she did not say that she had any suspicion that her brother came to his death by foul play, and I think it strange that Harry Woodden would live in the house with his stepmother for four months after his father's death, and he had a hat suspicion that his step-mother shot him, and perhaps if he had got as much of his father's property as he wanted he would have left the house yet.

And now, Mr. Editor, I ask you to publish this in your paper, over my own name, and I would like you would let me know what you do of the other statement. He must want to get up a sensation. Perhaps he expects to make eight dollars out of it. If there is a post mortem held on the body, I suppose his fortune will not be as large as he would like to have it.

Yours respectfully, JOHN MURPHY.

WEDDING BELLS.

A very pretty wedding took place in Trinity Church Tuesday afternoon, when Miss Mary MacGeorge Hare, daughter of the late George Hare, was united in marriage to Dr. John Lee Day.

The ceremony was performed at half-past three o'clock by the Rev. Canon Richardson in the presence of a very large number of friends of the contracting parties. The marriage was a quiet one, only a few invited guests being present, but the church was well filled with the many friends of the bride and groom. The ushers were James McArthur and H. Mack Stanbury.

Miss Hare wore white crepe de chine over white tulle, with veil, and carried a bride's bouquet of roses. She was given away by her brother, S. T. Hare of Montreal. The bridesmaid, Miss C. Margaret Hare, who wore grey nun's veiling with black hat and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. Ralph E. Humphrey supported the groom.

The bride's veiled chair was present and during the ceremony sang the Voice that Breathed O'er Eden. After the ceremony the party drove to the bride's home, No. 112 Pitt street, where luncheon was served. Mrs. Day left by the afternoon express on a visit to Boston and other American cities. Upon their return they will reside at 14 Germain street.

The bride was the recipient of many beautiful gifts, a number being from friends in Boston, where the bride has been for some time engaged in nursing, and from others in Upper Canadian cities. Rogerson-Spicer. At 4:30 Tuesday afternoon Miss Mary Rogerson, daughter of John Rogerson, of the Customs, was married to George S. Toole, of Peel street, Mass., a young man of high standing in the pretty and bustling Massachusetts city. The Rogerson home on Harrison street was prettily decorated with sweet peas and other bloom. Rev. J. A. Morrison, Ph. D., tied the nuptial knot and the bride wore a pretty costume of broadcloth, trimmed with white silk, and a hat correspondingly becoming. There were no attendants. After lunch the bridal party left by the steamer St. Croix for a trip to New York and Pennsylvania before taking up their home in Worcester. Miss Rogerson's absence from this city will be greatly felt by her friends, who are sure that when he was a leading spirit in St. John's Church young people's affairs and in the Sunday school she was quite a prominent worker. The gifts were many and magnificent. Massey-Tooke.

MONTREAL, Sept. 2.—Miss Edith Gertrude Massey, daughter of Mrs. Samuel Massey, Jr., was married today to Geo. S. Toole, of Peel street. The ceremony, which took place in St. George's Church, was performed by Rev. Dean Evans, and was a fashionable affair. The bride was given away by her uncle, Alexander Leslie, of Moncton, N. B.

WEDDED IN HALIFAX.

HALIFAX, Sept. 2.—The Coburg road Presbyterian church was the scene of a very pretty wedding today, the principals in which were Andrew W. Robb, formerly of St. John secretary of the T. M. C. A., at Charlottetown, and Miss Helen D. Dennis, daughter of William Dennis of the Herald. Bruce Robb of St. John, brother of the groom, acted as best man, and Miss Clara Dennis, the bride's sister, was bridesmaid, while little Miss Sarah Dennis acted as flower girl. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Robb left for Charlottetown, followed by the good wishes of their friends. The great esteem in which the bride is held here was illustrated by the large number of wedding presents received, while the groom seems to be just as popular in Charlottetown. The bride's former employer of the Herald and Mail presented her with a silver five o'clock tea set of beautiful design, and the Coburg road Presbyterian church presented her with a mahogany writing desk and an address.

DEAF AND DUMB.

The Enquiry is Still Dragging Slowly Along. FREDERICTON, Sept. 3.—In the deaf and dumb enquiry on Tuesday, H. C. Creed testified he had been on the managing committee for many years and for the last few years auditor. The auditor's accounts have been kept during the past three or four years. Witness believed the books were correct and that the institution was a businesslike way. Prior to 1897 there was no audit of Mr. Woodbridge's books. The committee took or granted all was right. A number of errors were pointed out to the witness, but he admitted that the accounts were not performed as carefully as they should have been. He did not know if the institution has any property. While he never saw the auditor and had no knowledge of the alphabet, etc., he was satisfied by the accounts that the pupils. The pupils appeared to have a kindly feeling toward Mr. Woodbridge and were impressed with the condition of the institution, was not changed since 1898 when the auditor made a report through the hands of the treasurer. Mr. G. G. Woodbridge testified he had been secretary of the institution since 1892. He had no record of the property belonging to the institution. Mr. Woodbridge was accepted by the committee as secretary.

The investigation is still dragging on. Commissioner Barry today said he hoped to get through with the enquiry by the end of the month. He is extremely doubtful if this can be accomplished. He said he would not be able to get their statements to make. This morning Canon Roberts was on the stand all day. He testified that he had no knowledge of the institution or its affairs. The investigation is still dragging on.

He had been an employee of the steel company before going to work for the I. C. R. a few months ago.

Children Cry for CASTORIA.

A SAMPLE BRICK. How the Present Provincial Government Wastes Money. Hon. L. P. Ferris and Ora P. King, while estimable gentlemen, apparently are not good judges of horseflesh. This fact was amply demonstrated at the exhibition yesterday when one of the fifteen hundred dollar stallions purchased by the government for this province was beaten hands down by another horse which the same government had declined to purchase as being no good. When it was decided last spring that a number of horses were required for breeding purposes in New Brunswick, a French imported stallion, known as Tellamaque, was offered to the government for four hundred dollars. This animal had been purchased at a cost of one thousand dollars two years previously, and was still a prime favorite among stock raisers. But the representatives of the government whose duty it was to purchase the finest animals available, decided that Tellamaque was not good enough even at four hundred dollars, and that they could do better elsewhere. Messrs. Ferris and King were sent on a horse buying mission, and returned with, among others, a stallion called Galloway, which cost fifteen hundred dollars. This stallion was sold at Fredericton to Ora P. King for upwards of one thousand dollars.

Tellamaque and Galloway were both entered at the exhibition and yesterday were brought out for the judges' inspection. Tellamaque, the stallion which was rejected at four hundred dollars, won in every point over Galloway, the fifteen hundred dollar choddy of the government buyers, and the judge stated that had Tellamaque not been slightly under weight he would be awarded honors over Sandborn's best Kings county people, among whom Tellamaque is known, are still anxious to secure this horse and the government has yet a chance to redeem itself.
