There is much criticism of modern educational methods that require too much work of the children, allowing them too little time for rest and preventing sufficient out-of-door exercise. When the student of music or other accomplishment, with the necessary practice, is added the strain is increased. Under these conditions the blood becomes impoverished and fails to nourish the nerves. The child becomes restless and twitching of the muscles follow. Sometimes the child stumbles in walking and drops what it tries to hold. Pallor, listlessness and irritability are symptoms that early show their presence. The nerves are failing to meet the demands made upon them, and that St. Vitus dance has fastened its hold upon the child. In this condition there is no tonic equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which build up the blood, strengthen the nerves and safely help to meet the demands of the growing child. Out-of-door exercise, nourishing food, plenty of sleep with these tonic pills will cure even the most severe cases. This was proved by the following proof: "I have had ten years' says Mrs. Johnson, of Hillsboro (N. S.), my son Calvin was as healthy and rugged as any child could be. Then he began to complain that his eyes were sore and pains in the head, and began to fall back in his studies at school. Then I noticed a twitching of the muscles of his face and arms, and later his whole body seemed to be in constant motion. Our family physician was called in and pronounced the trouble a severe attack of St. Vitus dance. He was under the doctor's treatment for some three months but did not seem to improve. We had taken him from school, and were careful that nothing should excite him, but notwithstanding he grew worse and the least start would bring on an attack of hysteria. This went on for some months until Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were brought to my attention, and we decided to give him this medicine. After using a few boxes there was a noticeable improvement, and by the time we had taken nine or ten boxes he had recovered his former good health. There has been no sign of a return of the trouble, and I can scarcely say how thankful we feel for the complete restoration of our son's health. Parents who find their growing boy or girl becoming nervous should lose no time in giving them Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. You may ward off an attack of St. Vitus dance, or if the trouble has reached that stage the Pills will effect a cure. Buy all medicines from the store or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

That the German hatred of the Canadians was particularly bitter was particularly brought home to me by a personal experience. And the reason for it, if you please, was that I had been in the army in the front lines, and I had seen the Germans in the field, and I had seen them in the trenches, and I had seen them in the battle, and I had seen them in the death struggle, and I had seen them in the final moments of their life, and I had seen them in the agony of their death, and I had seen them in the horror of their destruction, and I had seen them in the silence of their graves, and I had seen them in the loneliness of their souls, and I had seen them in the emptiness of their hearts, and I had seen them in the darkness of their minds, and I had seen them in the despair of their spirits, and I had seen them in the hopelessness of their future, and I had seen them in the futility of their existence, and I had seen them in the meaninglessness of their lives, and I had seen them in the insignificance of their actions, and I had seen them in the triviality of their concerns, and I had seen them in the petty nature of their ambitions, and I had seen them in the narrowness of their horizons, and I had seen them in the smallness of their souls, and I had seen them in the weakness of their character, and I had seen them in the lack of their courage, and I had seen them in the absence of their honor, and I had seen them in the loss of their respect, and I had seen them in the degradation of their status,
