

④ for a camouflage net & 2.5 gal tins which I presumed held petrol. The two men talked between themselves & intimated to me, they were due back in camp 1200 hrs next day, & that a 3rd member was lost. I left the two men in the truck; an hour later I returned & the truck was still there. The men were evasive at my attempt at conversation. The bigger did not speak at all. Driver Schwartz did. I continued my duty in the town when I saw this same veh. coming along the street. The veh. stopped on seeing me, both men got out. Knowing they couldn't fill their tank & knowing where I could get a walking can, I got it. They transferred the petrol from the tins to tank. I noticed one ^{oil} can was a striking red colour while the petrol in the other was practically colourless; I remarked to Schwartz on this & replied they have all sorts of petrol in the Army now. The men thanked me for my assistance & drove off. I did not see these two men again that night nor did I ever see the third.
