

some extent alarm that we note the outbreak of what may be called the spirit of Anti-Christ among so many of the nations of the earth, but we put our trust in that Divine being who has so far led us in His keeping that it will still be well with us and that our own fair land will be spared such terrible calamities as are now devastating the stricken lands of Europe. The work of our hands may be over for the present but we should not cease to offer our prayers to our Heavenly Father that out of the misery and confusion may be brought order and to all the warring spirits peace, so that happiness and prosperity may be vouchsafed to the nations again.

Since our annual meeting 1st May we have made 348 articles valued at $256 and 114 articles for the Serbians valued at $111 also 401 pairs of socks valued at $365 for which they supplied the wool. Since the inauguration of the Red Cross Committee in 1914 we have made and distributed to various places 15406 articles worth $4141 and 3423 pairs of socks valued at $2276. As overseer of the Red Cross Committee, it gives me great pleasure to have this opportunity of thanking the members of the Committee for their loyal support and of expressing my appreciation of their capable assistance in carrying on the work of the organization. It has been due to the harmonious relations existing and the unfailing and cheerful energy of all concerned that we have been able to achieve the creditable results that are shewn in this report."

It is fortunate that this address has been preserved to us in the scrap book of the close of the Red Cross work, but the work of the Institute has gone on to the present day and much has been accomplished since 1919. We humbly record our thanks to our Heavenly Father that we were able to take a part in the work.
