THE NASCOPIE

What the Sydney Record Has to Say About the Big Sealer.

With a load of salt from Trapani, Italy, the Newfoundland sealing steamship Nascope, arrived at Halifax yesterday. Despite the stormy weather prevailing on the Atlantic it is believed the Nascope will not be delayed by adverse conditions as she is one of the staunchest ships afloat. She was built on an entirely new model about four years ago. She is essentially a sealer and her frames and plates are of unusual strength to enable her to break through the icefields as she must when seeking seals. In fact, the bow and sides of the Nascope are tougher than those of a dreadnought. When first built she was pronounced the most seaworthy ship afloat, but has since been superseded by the Beothic, another vessel in the sealing fleet of Job Brothers & Co., of St. John's. In the past summer the Nascope was engaged under charter to Hudson Bay on one trip for Revillon Freres of Paris, the largest fur firm in the world. On other voyages to the north country, she was in exploration work for the naval service department in connection with the Port Nelson port-building project.—Sydney paper.

and Fisheries, the Board of Trade and the Government as a whole should have the power to supervise this most important feature of our fishery regulations.

Foster Herring Fishery.

Mr. Jennings contributed an interesting speech. He wanted to see something done to foster and promote the Herring Fishery. We have the herring and all the fishermen want is the market and a better price for the "cure." Scotch cure or any other cure.

Mr. Targett asked the Prime Minister a few practical questions. Did the Government pay those fishery wardens? What were the duties a fishery warden was supposed to do? Was there one or more than one for the whole Island?

Sir Edward explained there was a whole bunch of fishery wardens, a bountiful supply in every district; their duties were to carefully watch for every infraction of the Fishery Regulations and prosecute for every breach.

Reason for Questions.

Mr. Targett explained the reason for his interrogations; he had been packing lobsters in a small way for 20 years and he had never seen anything that looked like a fishery warden come round his stage or place of den come round his stag or place of business on a "tour of inspection."

At six o'clock the House went into Committee on the Sealing Bill. The time until half past six was occupied by Mr. Higgins of St. John's East, who had still another "amendment" to sub sec. (f) of section 2, relating to cooks and the rights of captains to "control" them.

The junior for Mr. Grace was heard from in extension on the merits of the Bill. If he doesn't get what he wants down in "House of Commons" he threatened to go to our local House of Lords and have the desires of his manly breast satisfied.

Mr. Young was still talking when the debate was further adjourned until Monday.

The F.P.U. President wanted to go ahead with the work of the Assembly last night and get through some of it; but the Government "printin'" was not ready and adjournment was taken until Monday afternoon.

MR. STONE TAKES CASHIN TO TASK.

Reproves Him for Casting Sturs on the Sincerity of the Union Members of the House.

Feb. 19th, 1914.

Mr. Stone would not stand for the mean insinuations thrown at Dr. Lloyd. He had found the Doctor a straightforward man, who back-bited nobody. He (Mr. Stone) had criticised the Agricultural Policy of the Government and meant every word he had uttered. He also referred to the dismissal of Mr. Gardner of British Harbor, which was unjust; and he meant to stick by Gardner and see justice done him.

The Colonial Secretary and Doctor Lloyd had a hot old time over a remark which had fallen from the lips of the Minister, reflecting on the honesty of Gardner. The Hon. J. R. Bennett made one of his worst breaks in this connection. Dr. Lloyd would not allow him to "patch" up.

The Dr. contended that virtually a charge of dishonesty had been made against an old servant of the Colony for which not a title or proof was before the House.

Was Sincere.

Mr. Jennings took occasion to say that any criticisms made by him were not insincere. He made them believing every word he had uttered to be true. He valued his personal character as highly as any man. He was also very sorry for the uncalled for and undeserved remarks of the Minister of Finance directed towards his colleague, Mr. Clift.

That honorable member was known throughout the district of Twillingate by political friends and political foes as a gentleman.

The F.P.U. had been told that they were not long enough in the House of Assembly to become corrupted, but if he believed that the Minister was sin-core in making that statement his (Mr. Jennings') attendance at the House would be cut short and terminate that very afternoon.

Mr. Kent, the Leader of the Opposition, remarked that this uncalled for conduct on the part of the Finance Minister ought to be stopped either by the Speaker or the Chairman of Committee. It had been going on year after year and would not be tolerated in any other Legislature. Where members are charged with any dishonorable motives those who prefer such charges should be compelled to furnish the proof or withdraw the charges.

CONTRADICTION

We, the hockey team of the M.G.B., like to see credit given to whom it is due. Therefore instead of the N.H. defeating us (M.G.B.) by 4 to 3, it is we who defeated them, which result may be obtained from the referee, Mr. F. Lush, if desired.

We might also mention that we (M.G.B.) defeated the N.H. the Thursday night previous by 6 to 5, therefore another game is unnecessary.

We hope that the result stated in yesterday's papers was merely an error and not an unportsmanlike trick.

The winning team are as follows: W. Pipe, goal; H. Maddick, point; W. Garf, cover point; G. Squires, rover; A. Gooby, centre; E. Nofall, left; N. Ellis, right.

—ONE WHO PLAYED.

IF I WERE PREMIER.

(Editor The Daily Mail.)

Dear Sir,—If I were Premier I should very much desire to be leader of the men who sit on the Opposition benches. So much for my wishes, but wishes are vain, and that is not the question.

If I were Premier I should open up soon as possible two districts for by-election, to fill the two Ministerial vacancies.

If I were the Premier, I should do what in all honor I should feel compelled to do, i.e., make a public acknowledgement, on the floors of the Legislature and through my mouthpiece "The Herald" my indebtedness to Mr. Coaker, for as a Newfoundlander, he is very much indebted to that gentleman, because of what he has accomplished for the great bulk of our people.

HONOR TO WHOM HONOR IS DUE.

If I were the Premier, I should feel impelled to publicly acknowledge my wrongful attitude towards the F.P.U.; I should publicly acknowledge that my strictures on Mr. Coaker and his worthy followers have been altogether unwarranted. I should also acknowledge that the fisheries resolutions just introduced by me, are adopted from the platform of the F.P.U. It would be honorable to acknowledge that those resolutions were in the Manifestoes of Sir Robert Bond and W. F. Coaker.

OBSERVATIONS.

A good billiard player is one who devotes his entire time to the game.

A lot of girls who pose as candy kids develop into lemon drops later.

When a man sticks to a job he doesn't like, it's because he needs the money.

The more rings a woman has on her fingers the oftener her back hair needs adjusting.

Some men practice economy to the extent that they never even waste any words.

You can learn all there is to know about a rich man by merely watching his children.

There is nothing a man enjoys so much as the feeling that he has been abused.

Occasionally we meet a man who can't stand prosperity, but more often we encounter men who never had a chance to find out.
