It shows the universal respect for Kitchener by British subjects in the Empire or under foreign flags The memorial service held in St. Paul's church last night in honor of the Field Marshal Earl Kitchener was conducted with such fitting dignity that it will long remain vivid in the memories of the 800 British subject, respresenting the British Social Society of San Diego the Canadian and Scotch clubs, and the Sons of St. Geo g, who made up the audience. The ceremony adhered closely to the Episcopal burial service Major H. D. George, British vice consul in San Diego, read the lesson. The address was by the Rev. Charles

L. Barnes, rector of the church. "The church was festooned with British and American flags.

"The clesing hymn was 'God Save the King,' which was immediately followed by 'Taps,' sounded by bugle from without, where upon the organ took up Beethoven's tuneral march.'

TRAPPING A PYTHON.

The Monster le a Victim of Hie Own Greedy Appetite.

The python's weak point is its stomach; it is a glutton. Not satisfied with a full supper, it will start at once on next week's breakfast if by chance that future meal bappens to be within

A python generally lives in a hole in the ground or a hollow in a tree, but if it can find an old ruin in the jungle -and there are many old ruins in India-it likes to take up its sleeping quarters there, because even in the heaviest rains the water runs off the ruins quickly, whereas a hole in the ground is likely to be flooded. The python needs to eat only once a week, and to get that meal it lies flat along the bough of a tree near a stream and waits for its prey to come to drink.

When the natives see the long trail that the python's body makes near the bank and find a heap of ruins near by they make a hole in the ruined wall just exactly big enough for the pythonto get through. Then they tie a pig to a stake near the hole on one side of the wall, and on the other side of the wall opposite the hole they tie another pig to a stake. They also tie a wire to the leg or the tail of the near side pig, and as evening draws on they twist it from a distance, and the pig squeals. As the python comes home to bed it hears the squeals.

So the python comes along merrily and seizes its supper at a single bite. Down goes the pig into the big snake's throat, sucked in slowly by sheer muscular action. In about half an hour the pig has passed completely down the long neck, and in another half hour it is down a couple of yards farther into the python's stomach.

Most animals would go to sleep right away after a gorge like that. But side of the wall has realized its unhappy brother's woeful fate and has set up a most distressing noise. The py-thon puts its head through the hole and sees it.
"Ah!" it says to itself. "Here's my next week's breakfast."

And instead of waiting for next week to come that greedy python swallows the second pig too. The wily natives wait until the second pig is well on its way down the python's body; then they have the snake caught. Pig No. 1 prevents it from advancing, and pig No. 2 prevents it from retreating. The natives lasso the python around the neck, break down the wall and —Dyspeptic
