How Mr. Clements can have anything to do with a matter which if acted upon, comes under the work company in certain oil lands in Tilbury. How Mr. Clements can have anything to do with a matter which if acted upon, comes under the work of the Provincial House, is a mystery which can only be explained by the erratic editor of the Banner himself, and even in that case he would be the only one convinced by his own arguments. We might mention for the enlightenment of the Banner that Mr. Clements is representing this constituency in the Dominion House, getting "Public Benefits," as the Banner itself puts it. Unlike Mr. McCog he is not wrapped up in the conceited idea that he can act in two parliaments at once. We have alparliaments at once. We have always been under the impression that Mr. McCoig was elected to look after the interests of the people in the interests of the people in the Mr. McCoig was elected to look after Provincial House. We admit that he has done nothing since he was elected, but surely Mr. Clements is not to blame for this. Why should Mr. Clements do Mr. McCog's work and his own too.

As we have explained to the Ban-ner before, the charter of the Can-ada Company was granted by the Im-chance to get a fair share of the As we have explained to the Banperial Government. Mr. Auld when he brought the matter up in the Provincial House, and while Mr. Whitney and his colleagues the Mayors come."

Were in sympathy with the farmers, they could not see their way clear to legally interfere with a charter granted by the Imperial Government. This is what Mr. McCoig has been trying to make political capital out of. The Banner says that after the matter was brought to his attention, Mr. McCoig seconded Mr. Auld's motion. This was a happy thought on Mr. McCoig's part, Why did he not make the motion. There are a few other things which Mr. McCoig forgot to even second, while he sat silent in the House during the last Textumesh Park pile deal. But all silent in the House during the last

WHAT HE DID NOT SAY.

The Banner's blissful unconscious ss of the live and important happenings going on all around them every day, had another rude shock The on Saturday when they read in The bitter row going on in the Liberal camp over the piling work on Tecumseh Park. It was rather humi!iating, for here they had missed a real live item of news right in the city, while the very same day they, were properly stuffed by some amof oil being struck on the Crow farm in Raleigh. There was a scarcity of reporters around the Banner office soon after they read the item in The Planet. They were all out looking for A. B. McCoig, and when they know why they were kept in the dark about the doings of their own party, and why the ambitious Liberal chief did not keep them in touch with the actions of their own

Even then Mr. McCoig did not tell them all. If he had the article in yesterday's Banner might never have appeared. He told them all that it was necessary for the Banner to know, and the Banner swallowed it and allowed themselves to be stuffed

Mr. McCoig says he did not go to London. He says this is absolutely false, and the Banner makes half a column out of it, adds a little jolly about something else, slaps on big heading and allows it to appear

So Mr. McCoig did not go to Lona trip to London? Who did go to London to meet the Government Engineer, relative to the changing of ralgia the contract for the piling? Who Reliance Loan & Savings Co to Mr. McCoig that there was a silent third man in the deal, and Riddle & Sons were not the men who would benefit from the contract, and that the man who would benefit had enough Government patronage already? What were their figures, and how do they compare with the figures of the man who received the conors satisfied with the arrangement of the matter which Mr. McCoig took it upon his own shoulders to make? Was the investigation which Mr. Mc-Coig arranged for at London a fair one, and satisfactory to all concerned? Animals Clever With Their Feet. Goats are the most sure footed of our native animals. They can walk upright where the everage human being would not crawl. Horses are the daintiest treaders, however, though they cannot climb. No horse will step on a man if it can possibly help it. It is a standing rule in cavalry regiments that if a trooper is dismounted he must remain perfectly still, when the whole column passes over him without injuring him. Cameta are careless, on the other hand, and the man who came other hand, and the man who came out unharmed from under the feet of a camel corps was not born to be run over by any beast or vehicle.

The Mineral Jade.

Most people have probably seen jade ornaments without having a very clear idea of the material of which such things are composed. Jade is an exceedingly tough but beautiful mineral, much of which is found in China. It is of five colors, the most highly prized jade being the white, yellow and green jade being the white, yellow and green varieties. The rarest of all is red jade, but this is so scarce that it has no place in market valuations. MAORI HOSPITALITY.

Strenuous Welcome Extended to &

A traveler in New Zealand tells of a native welcome. His party drew near to the central home of the tribe of Maoris. "As we rested beneath the parapets we were startled by a horrible vell, and round the corner of the stockade appeared a feroclous figure, tattooed, red painted, befeathered and naked, except for a very brief waist fringe of dangling palm fiber. His eyes rolled till the whites only were seen; then he thrust out a long and snaky tongue and grimaced fearfully. Shaking a wooden spear in his hand, he swiftly cast it at us, then turned and rushed toward the village. Just as the spearsman turned one of our young men who had rapidly divested himself of all but his waist shawl darted out in pursuit, and we followed at a more dignified pace. The entrance to the village was barred by a body of armed men, crouching still as death, on one knee, each holding a gun, butt on the ground, barrel sloping toward us. We advanced until we were with-Vandergrift. Umpires—Kerlas and Buckley.
