THE ACADIAN

The temperator people of this country are indignant that their petitions to the Council to appoint an Inspector to prosecute under the Sent Act has not been granted by that body. For our own part we see no reason why is should have large enough revenue would be derived from the prosecutions to cover all expenses intered. The fact that the petitions were signed by nearly nine hundred of the cleators of the collectors of the country should be sufficient to show the Council that the petitions was engaged up to the time of his dath, a'though he again entered into person terms of the people are silling to pay the expense considerably.

Both parties are of course confident of success, the one predicting the defeat of the government, and the other confident that it will be su-tained. We prefer not to express an opinion as yet, as a month will settle the matter beyond dispute. In the meantime the fight promises to be a bitter one and we need not expect much from the daily papers except much from the daily papers except much from the daily papers except politics in the few weeks intervening.

The above resolution was moved in Council on Saturday last by Dr Barss, of Wolfville, representing Ward 8, and Dr Fitch, of Billtown, representing Ward 4, and passed nem. com. A similar resolution was passed during the session of April last, and the reason given then for not extending the same courtesy to the publishers of the Acadian was that they had no reporter at that meeting. It is a fact that the Acadian was that they had no reporter of every meeting of Council since it was first published,—excepting the said meeting in April last—and during the whole of the meeting just closed, and the proceedings of Council up to time of going to press were as lucidly and fully reported in the columns of the Acadian as in either of the other across the columns of the Acadian as in either of the other across the columns of the Acadian as in either of the other across the columns of the Acadian as in either of the other across the columns of the Acadian as in either of the other across the columns of the Acadian as in either of the other across the columns of the Acadian as in either of the other across the columns of the Acadian as in either of the other across the columns of the Acadian as in either of the other across the columns of the Acadian as in either of the other across the columns of the Acadian as in either of the other across the columns of the Acadian as in either of the other across the columns of the Acadian as in either of the other across the columns of the Acadian as in either of the other across the columns of the Acadian as in either of the other across the columns of the Acadian as in either of the other across the columns of the across the columns of the columns of the across the columns of the as in either of the other two resolutions. The simple fact of a newspaper being published in the shire town gives it a large advantage in a Jailor Watson Bishop to receive for the newspaper being published in the shire term gives it a large advantage in a financial point of view over one published in any other section of a county, as they have free access to all public documents pertaining to the county, as they have free access to all that is always to the county, as they have free access to all that is always to the county, and the attendance at its public documents pertaining to the county, and the attendance at its public documents, and councils, without being to the expense of sending reporters a distance from home and ocxpenses in order to receive the same advantages. What the motive could have been for ignoring the existence of the AcADIAN, we are unable to comprehend, whether from the fact that it supports no political party or that is advocates the principles of temperance and sobriety. It is expected that in large bedies of men there will be found some of narrow inclledets, but it is a matter of surprise to us that there was not to be found in this representative next to be found in this representative ment to be found in this representative whether when the to be found in this representative ment to be found in this representative whether the first same to to fair play.
