this kind a passing perusal; but they constitute a very small portion of the reading populace; and to encumber a periodical with articles which are not agreeable to the public taste, is very disgraceful and sometimes very injurious to a publisher.

Could an air of novelty, combined with utility, be given to such subjects, more attention might be drawn towards them. Could letters on Education, for instance, be transformed into an Uncle Tom's Cabin, or be clothed with the genius of a Fanny Fern; or could they be decked with the drollery of a Sam Slick or a Punch; or be heated with the fire of a Byron or a Scott; or made to soar into the sublimity of a Milton or a Pollok,—a few might, perhaps, be found, who would give them a perusal. But the writer cannot promise, at present, to adorn his subjects with any such alluring characteristics or beauties. But he can give them the advantage of rigid private reading and study, and the experience of twelve or thirteen years' teaching, both in this Island and in a neighboring Province.

It is inexplicable how man, who is possessed of so much pride, neglects to ennoble, by cultivation, that part of his being which, if there be any excuse for pride, would, when stored with knowledge, give him a claim to cherish that passion. It may be, that those who lastly modified our present Education Scheme believed, that as soon as a Free System would be established, all, both rich and poor, would avail themselves of its provisions. The case is far otherwise. In districts where the intelligence of the inhabitants is very low, the cry for instruction is great, while no teacher can be obtained. But provide them with a schoolmaster; and after the first rush that is made to the school when it is first opened, the attendance dwindles down to a half, or even to an eighth, of the number of children belonging to the school.

Our system of education is everything but perfected. It may be true, that our legislators believed they were to provide the country with better qualified teachers, and were to secure a more numerous attendance, when they last amended the School Act; but neither of these objects has been effected. If, when the tax for the support of education was imposed, it had been made sufficient to sustain qualified persons for life in the calling of school teachers, then the scheme would have had some permanency, and the parties who have taken offence at the imposition of the tax, would, in a short time, forget their displeasure in the blessings received from a better system. But as things now stand, the work has to be done over again; and it is to be feared that, after the dissatisfaction the last change has given, few will have the moral courage to undertake to frame and mature a proper and efficient system. It may be contended, that many schools are now in operation which could not be sustained under the previous Act. This is granted. But, on the other hand, are there not a greater number vacant, which under the old Act were in steady and efficient action? Though it may be an unwelcome truth, the good effected by the recent change is greatly overbalanced by its evils. One very great defect in the present system is, the uniformity attempted in the qualification of teachers. A boy of sixteen, if he barely succeed in obtaining licence, can draw as much from the Treasury as a man who has the advantage of a number of years of experience. When the writer taught in Nova Scotia, the case was far different in that Province. The first year of his experience, the Board granted him only five pounds; the second and third years, eight pounds; the fourth and fifth years, eighteen pounds. He had no less than three licenses given him at different successive periods, each entitling him to an increase of salary. It ought to be distinctly understood, that the greater the amount of collateral intelligence a teacher possesses, the more successful will he be in his vocation. A man may be a passable reader,—be able to master the bare rules of Arithmetic, and even of the Mathematics,—may translate a French or Latin quotation with tolerable facility, and still be very deficient of that collateral and extraneous information, which are sometimes indispensable to the proper illustration of the lessons he may have to teach his pupils.—But more of this in some future letter.

LECTURE AT RUSTICO.

To the Editor of Haszard's Gazette.

Sir,—On the evening of Friday, the 20th ult., I attended a public and interesting Lecture given by Mr. M'Clure, the Cavendish School Teacher, at the Anglo-Rustico School House, on the subject of "Self Improvement," which was listened to with marked attention by a very respectable audience. At the close of which, the S. T. of R. endeavoured to raise objections to certain remarks made by the Lecturer, but were completely foiled in the attempt by the predominant manner in which the learned gentleman defended himself in the debate, amidst the greatest of applause by the listening audience. After which, a vote of thanks was unanimously tendered to the lecturer, for his very efficient service, and the Meeting seperated highly delighted and generally benefited.—Com.

LECTURES AT CAVENDISH.

The last of a course of Four Lectures, was delivered by Mr. M'Clure in the Cavendish School House, on Friday, 5th instant, before a large and highly respectable audience. Taking Temperance for his subject on the present occasion, he discussed it in a new and original manner. When he came to his unrivalled exposition of whiskey politics, he perfectly convulsed and electrified the audience, who had hitherto listened with breathless attention. Mr. David McNeill having been called to the chair, a unanimous vote of thanks to the Speaker was passed, to which he replied in suitable terms. The repeated and unanimous thanks conveyed to the speaker, and the praises which these Lectures received, derive a meaning from the fact, that, before the two last, Tickets of admission had to be issued, in order to keep the House from being overcrowded. Mr. Malcare is the present Teacher at Cavendish.—Com.

MECHANICS' INSTITUTE.—In consequence of the Hall being pre-occupied, there has been no meeting of the Institute during the present week. During the remainder of the season, however, Lectures will be delivered weekly.

On Thursday evening next, the 2d February, Mr. J. R. Watt will deliver a Lecture on "Galvanism," to be illustrated by experiments, &c.

☞ Several Editorial Notices, and Communications are unavoidably postponed until our next number.

Married,

At Port Hill, on Wednesday, the 25th inst., by the Rev. H. B. Swabey, Mr. James Yeo, Jun., to Sarah Jane, eldest daughter of Mr. William Glover, of Northam.

At Lot 13, on Wednesday, the 11th instant, by Jas. Craswell, Esq., J. P., Mr. Donald Ramsay, of Lot 11, to Elilizabeth, second daughter of Mr. William Greigg, Lot 13.

Died

At the residence of Wm. Forgan, Esq., in the Royalty of Charlottetown, on Saturday, the 28th inst., Miss Mary Henderson Johnstone, only sister of the late William Johnstone, Esq., formerly Attorney General of this Island, aged 81 years.

At Brasted, County Kent, England on the 30th Dec. 1853, John Pollard Mayers, Esq., brother-in-law of John Barrow, Esq., of this Island.

Suddenly, at Flat River, on the 17th instant, Mr. Lauchlin Morrison, in the 65th year of his age.

At Lot 49, on Tuesday, the 10th instant, Jane, the beloved wife of John Brehaut. She was born at Louisburgh, Cape Breton, in the year 1758, and removed to Quebec the following year, at which place she resided until 10 years of age. She came to this Island in 1768-9 with a family of the name of Gouldcup, and with the early settlers experienced all the privations and hardships incident to the settlement of a new Colony. She retained her mental faculties unimpaired to the last, and took a pleasure in reciting the incidents which marked the career of those hardy pioneers, most of whom precede her to the tomb. At the time of her death she was 96 years of age, highly respected by her numerous decendants for her uniform kindness and general worth. She had 13 children, 64 grand children, 206 great grand children, and 6 great great grand children, most of whom survive and cherish her memory with fond affection.—Com.

Freehold Farm for Sale or to Let.

TO BE SOLD (or let for a short term of years) a FREEHOLD FARM situate at Mill Creek, on the North side of the Elliot or West River, about 4½ miles from Town. There are 48 acres in cultivation, nearly the whole of which have been cleared within the last 10 years, have been regularly and well manured, and are now in good heart. Eight more acres are ready to stump. The House is on rising ground and has a commanding view of the River.

The Buildings consist of a large Barn, Mistal, Stable, Sheep-House, Piggeries, Coach-House and Granary; all of which have been erected within a few years. There is a Grist and Saw Mill adjoining the Farm, and an unlimited supply of Mussel Mud can be had from the River opposite.

Part of the purchase money can remain on security, and the Stock and Crop taken at a valuation, if required. For particulars enquire of
