The Fight on Tatham's Farm

Cavalry Cut Their Way Through the Boers' Lines.

The Enemy Twice Driven Back, Losing 800 Men.

Naval Guns and an Armored Train Do Good Service.

Boers Suffer in an Engagement With Dublin Fusiliers Near Colenso.

Cronje's Big Gun That Was to Smash Mafeking Is a Failure.

The Queen's Grandson, Prince Christian Victor, Off for the Front—Special Service Squadron Held in Readiness.

London, Tuesday, Nov. 7.—The war office announced at midnight that no dispatches had been received beyond those already made public, and nothing further would be issued before noon today. Thus not a solitary official item of news has been posted for nearly 24 hours. This has given rise to a crop of rumors that Ladysmith's ammunition is exhausted; that Sir George Stewart White is mortally injured, and that other unlucky happenings have taken place. For all these rumors there is absolutely no foundation.

The actual news that the Ladysmith garrison is confident of holding out, and that Thursday's and Friday's fighting resulted successfully for Gen. Buller's forces, tends to brace up the British.

Advices from other parts of South Africa are distinctly unpromising, and everything points to an unsatisfactory situation in Natal and the northern portions of Cape Colony likely to grow more acute until Gen. White is relieved or decisively defeated.

A Cavalry Charge.

DARING DEEDS.
Cape Town, Saturday, Nov. 4.—Afternoon.—A dispatch from Ladysmith says that on Thursday afternoon the British cavalry charged the Boers while the latter were maneuvering south of the town and cut their way through them. A Long Tom posted on Bulwin Hill shelled the town, but little damage was done. The naval gunners put the big gun situated on Hepworth's Hill out of action.

The enemy at Grobler's Kloof engaged a company of the Royal Irish Fusiliers, and brisk firing occurred on both sides. An armored train with sixty infantrymen on board, drew the enemy's fire, enabling the
