THE NORDHEIMER

CRITICAL BUYER

THE STYLE A NORDHEIMER, shown above, is best described as a "Miniature Upright." But, although compact in form, it possesses that character and volume of tone that is an essential of the Nordheimer Standard.

M ANY discriminating purchasers prefer the smaller style in a piano—especially when it can be obtained in a design so artistically conceived and so carefully executed as in the Nordheimer Style A.

OUR statement here refers principally to design. Yet the chief element is the surprising musical quality revealed in this instrument. It will gratify the taste of even the most critical.

OF course, the Nordheimer is obtainable in a variety of other styles, ranging from $400 upwards. Gradual payments where desired.

W E invite you to visit our Warerooms at 220 Dundas Street, and our Exhibit at the Fair, where a full assortment of styles will be displayed.
