

GUILTY YOUTH PAYS FOR HIS EXPERIENCE

Supports Supposed Friend for Seven Months Only to Be Swindled

(From Sunday's Daily) After accepting mere promises for financial assistance which he extended to a fellow lodger for seven long months until he was no less than $100 out of pocket, there is a young man of this city who is denouncing his fate and wishing that his bump of gullibility had been less developed. He has carried his troubles to the police but it is doubtful if anything will be done as to endeavor to locate the swindler would merely be throwing more good money away.

Seven months ago John Ware and H. L. Williams became acquainted here. Ware was occupying a room at a boarding house where Williams was also staying. As time progressed the two became friendly. Williams appeared to be always short of money but he explained that he was being held back by the B. C. Electric company by whom he alleged he was employed as a street agent engaged in watching the conductors and employees and seeing that the orders relative to the operation of the cars were being properly carried out.

From month to month Ware was making more and more money. Williams was always ready to advance the necessary funds. On several occasions he asked Williams to return some of the money but he always put him off by saying that the end of the month he would help him. Williams was always ready to advance the necessary funds. On several occasions he asked Williams to return some of the money but he always put him off by saying that the end of the month he would help him.

Last Thursday Williams imparted the welcome news that the officials of the company would advance him the money. Williams was overjoyed and went to work with the vision of $100 floating before his eyes. That is about all that he got towards the handling of the account. When he arrived home in the evening he found a note for him. Williams read that it had received an urgent telegram from Tacoma and had left on the afternoon boat. All of his effects had been taken away from the boarding house. Williams was left with the financial assistance given by Ware.

The latter reported the matter to the police but finally decided that the best thing he could do was to grin and bear it and charge the $100 to his experience account. Williams, a matter of fact, was not employed by the B. C. Electric company in any capacity. He spent his time during the winter months about saloons and cigar stores, to which he was working for the money. Williams was working for the money. Williams was working for the money.

Williams showed him marked interest in the permanent corps which he was to join. Williams was overjoyed and went to work with the vision of $100 floating before his eyes. That is about all that he got towards the handling of the account. When he arrived home in the evening he found a note for him. Williams read that it had received an urgent telegram from Tacoma and had left on the afternoon boat. All of his effects had been taken away from the boarding house. THOUGHT UNCLE SAM LACKED GRATITUDE

Dramatic Suicide of Aquilla Chase, Cousin of Lincoln's Secretary

New York, March 26.—After carefully preparing a long obituary notice and handing it in at the office of the Herald for submission to the city editor, Aquilla Chase, a son of the late General Daniel Chase, and a cousin of William Lincoln's secretary of the treasury under President Lincoln, stepped out into Broadway and Herald square today, and shot himself in the heart. He died within a few minutes.

Mr. Chase was sixty years old. He had been ill and dependent for some time. In the papers he left for publication he spoke bitterly of the fact that he had been unable to obtain employment in the government service. "Uncle Sam wanted me badly enough in war time," he said. "My father and myself fought for the Union, and three of my brothers died on the battlefield. He had been employed as a carpenter in the Brooklyn navy yard until three months ago, when he was discharged from the force because of the force came and he was released. In concluding his obituary notice, he said that he had been unable to obtain employment in the government service.

Chase was a lineal descendant of Benjamin White, the first white child born in the colony of Virginia who came to America in the Mayflower. He was one of the youngest enlisted men in the army, having barely reached his thirteenth when he entered the Maine volunteers. The suicide occurred during the middle of the afternoon on Broadway. A crowd was gathered at the scene and his body was taken to the morgue. The police were unable to determine the cause of his death.

BRITISH SPORTING EVENTS SUMMARIZED

Football is Craze in Old Land—Jem Driscoll, Boxer, Welcomed

That the football craze in the Old Country is obtaining an ever firmer hold on the populace, that the approaching visit of South Africa's spirit champion to England is eagerly anticipated, and that Jem Driscoll, the celebrated British lightweight champion, has returned home a few of the points touched on by the correspondent of the Standard of Empire, a comprehensive review of recent sporting events. He says in part: "The football craze in the Old Country is obtaining an ever firmer hold on the populace, that the approaching visit of South Africa's spirit champion to England is eagerly anticipated, and that Jem Driscoll, the celebrated British lightweight champion, has returned home a few of the points touched on by the correspondent of the Standard of Empire, a comprehensive review of recent sporting events."

Football Craze In the north country, where the football cup competition was decided, there were "record" attendances. We have long known that in the north of England, the Tyne, and bitter cries for work; at Newcastle, last Saturday, where the great football amateur, nearly £2,300 was paid at the gate. The price was filled to overflowing. Such a crowd has not been seen before. Football has assuredly become part of the every day life of the masses; it is such a long time since we saw the noble and the aristocrat, in the way, when they do come I hope they will give some time to the consideration of the following described in a periodical. I think that if they join in a conference during their sojourn here they will find a great deal of interest in the subject.

Wrestler The ways of the wrestler are strange and peculiar. I told some of the boys that Frank Gotch, the American, who had just won the world's championship at Chicago, came over here to meet the Russian, and so disprove that the bout at Chicago was not a genuine and sportsmanlike one. Everybody was anxious that the two should meet, and bugging purses were very high. It is a pity that nothing but wrangle in the sporting newspapers, and in the end Gotch, the Russian, and the American, the while Hackenschmidt was busy making it known that "Gotch is afraid of me," and that he would never renew his acquaintance with the mat again. Now we learn that Gotch and Hackenschmidt are going to meet in Melbourne during cup.

Edmonton Power Plant Edmonton, March 26.—Good progress is being made upon the construction of the new intake at the power house. Two of the five lengths of pipe have already been placed in position, and the work completed is the most difficult part as the pipe is under about eight feet of water in the centre of the river. This part of the work was hurried on as much as possible in order to have it finished before the breaking up of the ice. All danger is now past, and the remainder of the intake can be completed more leisurely.

AN AGITATION TO SAVE DAYLIGHT

Workingmen of Great Britain Aim to Gain Many Hours Per Year

London, March 27.—Few movements have spread so rapidly in short time as the agitation in favor of the Daylight Saving Bill. The House of Commons has passed the measure last year, and its supporters are now working to pass it into law. The bill aims at preventing the terrible waste of light which is now being squandered every day. According to Mr. Willett, F. R. S., the author of the bill, the present system of saving time is a waste of time. The bill proposes to advance the clock one hour in the summer months, and to retard it one hour in the winter months. This would result in a gain of many hours of daylight per year.
