N. JEFFREY.

Peter Jeffrey, Elora.

Accordingly Mr. Andrew Jeffrey, the brother referred to, came down to Toronto yesterday. He called in The World office last night and made the above statement, and said further that Mr. Warden Massie had refused to admit him to see his dying brother whom he had not seen since the fair at London. Mr. Massie, he said, refused on the ground of Jeffrey's remarks when he visited the prison before and found his brother demented.

In Booth v. Neill, an action on a promissory note, the defence was that the note that already been paid by an endorser named Loudon, and that plaintiff was really suing on behalf of Loudon, against whom Neil had a good detence. Plaintiff was non-suited, his counsel Mr. Miller of Morphy, Morphy and Miller declaring his intention to appeal. Mr. Edward Meek appeared for the defendant. The following is the peremptory list for to-day: Barton v. Howland, Johnston v. Denison, Charlesworth v. Field, Brown v. Fleming,

At the Original-7 and 10 Cent Store, No. 213 Youge Street, Toronto. Kris Kringle he chuckled with surprise and delight
At the many rare things that greeted his sight,
His eyes, how they twinkled, much larger they grew,
In wonder they feasted on everything new.
Then he broke into a laugh, so hearty and true,
Through the city it echoed, as the night winds blew—
No. 213 Yonge, just the place now for me,
My knapsack to fill with those toys that I see!

No longer need I, in vain wanderings, go, For there I can find the richest of show; The chimney is open and down its broad flue I'll enter, good children, and gather for you. For Minnie I'll find a dolly so fine, Withface made of wax, no beauty it lacks; For Carrie, a tray with saucers and cups, And then she can play housekeeping at once.
