The Grocers' Licenses.

The Ontario government have good grounds for stepping into the present crisis in regard to grocers' licenses, and accepting the compromise that we suggested yesterday, namely to amend the Crooks act to the effect that the grocery business must after a certain number of years be divorced from the liquor trade in cities and towns. The dominion law has already so declared, and there is no doubt that bylaws will be submitted in all the towns and cities in the province similar to the one just carried in Toronto. But a clause in the Crooks act would render these local votes unnecessary: it would be declared that after, say, three years, they must be separated. This would give every one engaged in the business due warning. They would then have no excuse.

But the proposition to wipe out these licenses on only three months' notice if whom we have the highest respect, ought to, can afford to be, reasonable in this matter, and if grocers make out a case for time they ought not to object to the legislature granting the extension.

More than this, it would be policy on the part of the legislature of Ontario to grant the extension. If they do not they will force the grocers to go to the dominion government for a license, and it is morally certain that if the dominion authorities stand by them till 1890, as the McCarthy act provides, they (the grocers) will stand by the dominion authorities in the great contest over the control of the liquor traffic. But if they are given a couple of years extension they will have no excuse for taking up arms against the province. The common sense business view of the situation is that the grocers ought to get more time than the bylaw proposes.

For one thing, we fancy that very few extraordinary laws are in force in the made to have the law changed. province of Quebec, or of how little protection there is for the "liberty of the subject" there under certain circumstances. Mr. James E. Walsh is a man of about sixty years of age, and possessed of considerable property. His wife some time ago went to a lawyer and got the papers authorizing, or purporting to authorize, his commitment to the Longue Pointe asylum on the ground of his being a habitual drunkard. It appears that the same can be done on the ground also of insanity or prodigality; so that a man who is insane, a confirmed drunkard, or who is recklessly making away with his estate, may be incarcerated and put under restraint. There may be instances in which, for one or other of the reasons named, it may be the right thing to deprive an individual of his liberty; but the power thus given to designing and unscrupulous relatives is most dangerous, and should be held firmly in check by the strong arm of the law. One night Mr. Walsh was taken from his bed by two policemen, who, if they had a warrant, did not show it, and was hurried off to the asylum for the insane at Longue Pointe. On Tuesday last the case came before the full court of appeal, consisting of five judges, Chief Justice Dorion presiding, on a writ of habeas corpus. Mr. Greenshields, who appeared on behalf of Mr. Walsh, said that by the 23d Victoria, chap. 10, section 10, it was declared that a man who was by common repute of the neighborhood, an law as iniquitious as unjust. habitual drunkard, might be interdicted, and a curator might be appointed whose powers would be the same as in the case asylum and that by an order-in-council it of a Grand Trunk snow-plough in Canada, tions had been adopted and made order not to seem too severe on Canada, tion stated that it was within the degrees below zero in Dakota, The Scien. Dorion pronounced judgment to the effect that the writ of habeas corpus should be quashed. The act, like nany others in the province of Quebec, was strangely contradictory. It had first been ntended to give to the interdiction for irunkenness the same power as to an inerdiction for insanity, and then by a special clause it defined the power of the curator to be the same as a curator for prodigality, which gave control over the person. But the clause giving to the curator the absolute power to place the party in a legal retreat remained, and it was explicit. In this case the petitioner had been interdicted on May 8 and placed under restraint upon January 12. The interdiction had been given with the full consent of the family of the petitioner, who appeared to be a responsible and educated person. Mr. Justice Ramsey had not returned to the bench, but his written dissent to the judgment was read. All the rest of the bench agreed with the ruling of the court, Mr. Justice Monk saying that the law was a most extraordinary one. The discovery that such is the law has taken the whole community by surprise, and the English press generally says that the existence of such a law in any British colony is outrageous and intolerable. The Herald has these remarks:

licenses on only three months' notice if carried out will ruin one class of the business community who have paid large sums into the municipal and provincial treasuries for the privilege of carrying on a legalized business, in which they have suntial their capital and devoted all their time and energy to building up. We submit that three months is not sufficient notice. If any one doubts us let him ask the bank managers or the wholesale liquor merchants who are carrying the accounts of the licensed grocers.

Furthermore, we are convinced that the ratepayers of Toronto did not vote that these men should be ruined: they simply voted that the two lines should be separated; and if two or three years is necessary to let them get out the ratepayers are willing that they should have the time.

The temperance men and the ministers, for whom we have the highest respect, ought

The Herald further points out this mos extraordinary feature in the Quebec laws that instead of the parties to such a conspiracy as the present one having to show cause why the individual should be restrained, the burden of proof is thrown upon him to show that he ought not to be restrained. This is like accusing a man of murder, and saying that he must be hanged if he cannot prove himself innocent; the very reverse of the old English rule that a man is held innocent until proven guilty. Mr. Greenshields will take the case to the supreme court at Ottawa, but meantime the unfortunate victim has less of liberty to do anything for himself than if he were in the penitentiary, under sentence for some atrocious crime. If ever he does regain his liberty, it may be only to find that his property has disappeared; the current report being that to get hold of it was the main motive with those who did does not know how the other half lives. the deed. It is said that the matter will be brought before the provincial governpeople in Ontario have any idea of what ment and legislature, and a strong effort

The French Don't Like It.

The French-Canadian press do not look with satisfaction on the attempt of the dominion to usurp the rights of the provinces in the matter of liquor licenses. La Minerve (conservative) savs that the right of controlling the sale of liquors belongs to the provinces. Le Canadien (conservative) goes further, and says the government of Quebec ought to imitate that of Ontario and enforce the provincial law. La Patrie (liberal): We are glad to se both parties joining in proclaiming the principles of decentralization. Why then does Mr. Ross, premier of Quebec, hesitate when both parties look to him to do his

The bishop him self will preach on the subject in St. James' cathedral on Sunday evening next. Now I presume I have just as much a right to I presume I have just as much a right to criticise the bishop's domestic habits in the matter of eating and drinking as he has to interfere with mine, and the fact that his lordship engaged in the late contest, which was prompted by men who seek to produce morality and sobriety by legislation and coercion, subjects his, the bishop's, practical views of temperance to the searching eye of public investigation.

Manners in a Telegraph Office. Lord John Russell was the minister in attendance upon her majesty at Balmoral, and one evening there came a messenger to Aboyne little old man, buried in a great coat—with a telegram from his lerdship to one of his ministerial colleagues in London. The message was handed to the clerk in charge, a peremptory person, who, seeing that it did not bear a signature—it was in that it did not bear a signature—it was in the days of the old companies, when a signature was necessary—threw it contemptuously back with the authoritative command, "Put your name to it; it's a pity your master doesn't know how to send a telegram." The name was added and the message handed back. "Why, you can't write either!" cried the enraged clerk, after vainly endeavoring to make out the signature. "Here, let me do it. What's signature. "Here, let me do it. What's your name?" "My name," said the little old messenger, very deliberately, "is John Russell." It was Lord John Russell himself, and the unhappy clerk was remove from Aboyne forthwith.

A California Court Scene. The case of three Mongolians who claimed a right to land came up in the circuit court before Judge Sebin yesterday norning. Two of them claimed to have resided here in times gone by, and by producing satisfactory evidence were discharged. The third one, Fong Win, stated that he was an actor of twenty years' standing. Win waddled up to the witness stand with a dignity of bearing that made an impression on his honor, and stated that he had intended to have gone to Victoria, but that he had condescended to Victoria, but that he had condescended to exhibit himself at the Grand Chinese heatre in this city for $150 a month and by the President, A. M. Smith, Esq. From the report of the Directors on the usiness of the past year, it appeared that the premium receipts in the Fire Branch, compared with those of the previous year, show a considerable increase. This is due in some measure to the better rates that have been obtained, particularly during the latter months of the year, but the improve ent in this respect has been counter palanced by exceptional losses; the fires re corded, both in Canada and the United States, having been largely in excess of those of average years. The Marine business of the Company during 1883 was reduced, especially on our inland waters, on account of the low rates which prevailed. Owing to the comparatively mall amount at risk, the company did not suffer to any great extent from the serious disasters to lake shipping which occurred towards the close of the season of Inland Navigation.

After providing for all losses reported to the 31st December, and for the payment of two half-yearly dividends of six per cent., the Reserve Fund of the Company stands at $700,000, and $3,828.28 remains at the credit of Profit and Loss Account. The amount estimated as necessary to re-insure all existing risks is $515,582, which leaves a net surplus over Capital and all Liabili-ties of $188,246.28.
