Farewell to General Booth.

A great open air demonstration was accorded Gen. Booth, founder of the Salvation Army last week upon his departure from New York. Although 80 years of age and though suffering from illness the venerable head of the Army has been making a vigorous campaign in America. Everywhere he has been received with honors fitting a man who has done a great work for humanity.
In departing from New York, Gen. Booth made an affectionate farewell to the people of America. At his great age it is not probable that he will ever again visit this continent. This appeared to be the opinion of the crowds that bid him hearty bon voyage. His work must soon be entrusted to other hands.

Re Assessment.

MR. F. HARRISON SUGGESTS THE NEW ZEALAND LAW FOR NOVA SCOTIA.

THE EDITOR "THE PEOPLE."

Sir:—The Ratepayers of this County owe a debt of gratitude to you for the amount to Mr. A. L. Davidson for his exposure of grossly unfair assessments. He says that, later, he intends to show how this state of affairs can be remedied.

I hope he will suggest some feasible scheme that will meet with general support.

All property ought to be assessed at its full value that is, the value the owner sets on it, and to facilitate this, and to compel owners to place a true value on their properties. An Act similar to one in force in New Zealand should be passed. By this act the Government can take over any property at its declared value and sell it by auction to the highest bidder. It seems to me no fairer way could be devised than his for getting at the value of property for taxation purposes.

It fills me with amazement to see the farmer of this country is content to sit with folded hands and watch the rich, the avaricious and the unprincipled gradually, but surely getting all the power into their hands, while the poor farmer sits there, happy with the few crumbs they occasionally and feigningly let fall his way to keep him sateably disposed.

Yours, etc.,
F. HARRISON.

Art Building for Acadia Seminary.

Wolfville, Nov. 8.—The Alumnae Society of Acadia Seminary since its organization in 1892 has sought not only to cherish the past associations of its members but also to assist in a practical way in meeting the material wants of the school. Manifest needs of the Seminary at the present time are a pipe organ and a building to provide for the better equipment of the department of music, art and elocution. The first contribution of the Alumnae Society to the fund for securing these requirements of the school will be the proceeds on a fair to be held in the Alumnae Hall of the Seminary on December 14 and 16. Many useful and decorative articles, some of which are from foreign countries, have been contributed by former pupils and friends of the school and will be on sale at reasonable prices. There will also be a tea room, and home made sweets and Christmas cake will be sold. Much interest is being shown in the fair, which will be the great event of the present term.

Mt. Allison vs. Acadia.

The Trees.

FOREST PRESERVATION AND REFORESTATION.

From this time forward New Brunswick will evidently devote much more attention than formerly to the matter of protecting its forests, setting before it a policy under which scientific cutting will enable the people to market a large amount of timber without materially diminishing our capital in so far as it is represented by forest wealth. Lieut. Governor Tweedie could scarcely have selected a more interesting or more useful subject for his address before the Canadian Club. He has given the question much study, he knows the industry, and the forest resources—and he is no longer under the necessity of thinking about political effect. It may well be that he will feel at liberty to speak more freely of some aspects of the forestry question than he would have done a few years ago. Ontario is leading the way in forest protection. The Dominion Government may, at the approaching session, take some definite action with regard to the exportation of pulp-wood. The New Brunswick government has on its bill of fare the forestry program, which Mr. Tweedie himself outlined, many features of which call loudly for effective government attention.

In a great degree the interest of Canadians in forestry matters is intensified by the rapid diminution of timber resources in the United States, more especially in those states which lie within a reasonable distance of our own wooded districts, and some of those industries are becoming more and more dependent upon the Canadian supply of wood. A day or two ago Mr. Gifford Pinchot, Chief Government Forester of the United States, completed a six months' inspection of forest areas, during which he travelled 5,000 miles. In speaking of what he had seen, he said: "In twenty years the timber supply in the United States, on government reserves and private holdings, at the present rate of cutting, will be exhausted, although it is possible that the growth of that period might extend the arrival of the famine another five years." He urged the public not to underestimate the danger of the situation. His views are worthy of consideration in every part of Canada, as indicating the disastrous effect of a wasteful lumbering policy on government and private lands, which effects, Canada may yet in great part avoid, if it will be guided by the experience of its neighbors.

Mr. Pinchot pointed out that the United States uses more timber than any other country, and that every man, woman, and child, will be affected. He decried the policy of discounting the future of the country by failure to protect the natural resources, and as indicating the disastrous effect of a wasteful lumbering policy on government and private lands, which effects, Canada may yet in great part avoid, if it will be guided by the experience of its neighbors.

Canada has beside her the greatest market for timber products in the world. It needs will be ever on the increase. The home market, too, will consume an ever greater quantity. In these circumstances the Canadian provinces will be blind if they do not consider the future. In addition to the provincial forestry policy they encourage such measures as will tend to promote pulp and paper making in Canada. It is folly to keep on providing American manufacturing communities with the raw material without which their industries would, in time, be transferred to the country where the trees grow.—St. John Telegraph.

Mr. Masters President.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 7, 1907.—Mr. John F. Masters, New England, Superintendent of the Dominion Atlantic Railway, and a native of Kentville, N. S., was today elected President of the British Charitable Society of this city. This is a very high compliment to Mr. Masters, as the position is regarded as one of the most honorable in the city, the organization being one of the oldest and most representative in Boston.

During his residence here, Mr. Masters has attained much prominence in social, transportation and business affairs, and is one of Boston's best known and most popular citizens. He was one of the organizers, and for several years President of the very successful Canadian Club of this city, which has entertained an many public men of Canada.

The British Charitable Society has been in existence over 30 years and has done an immense amount of philanthropic work among the British and Canadian born residents of the city. Many Canadians residing here are members of it.

The Barque Affezione.

AFTER THRILLING EXPERIENCE AND FRIGHTFUL HARDSHIPS, REACHED HALIFAX.

The big Italian barquentine Affezione, from Weymouth, for Buenos Ayres, put into Halifax on Saturday. She was in a dilapidated condition, with masts and rigging broken.

When 200 miles south of the Nova Scotia coast she encountered a fearful gale. After being beaten about by the furious seas and after hope had been almost given up, Capt. Caldrono decided to attempt to reach Halifax.

By rigging up temporary masts and sails they finally reached that port.
