

The situation is far too fluid and too complex to believe that formulas or blueprints can be applied to any of the kinds of initiatives I have mentioned.

We need creative, flexible and highly effective approaches.

We look forward to watching this particular process, as we at CIDA continue to be engaged with the people committed to, central to and truly capable of realizing a durable peace for Sudan.

I wish you the best of luck in these very important endeavours. Thank you.