

from their zealous Attachment to your Royal House, and the true Honor and Dignity of your Crown, whenever a happy Establishment of public Measures shall present a favourable Occasion, will be ready to exert their utmost Abilities in Support of such wise Councils, as apparently tend to render your Majesty's Reign happy and glorious.

His Majesty's Answer, delivered the Twenty-eighth Day of August, 1765.

I thank you for this dutiful Address: Your Congratulations on the further Increase of my Family, and your Assurances of zealous Attachment to it, cannot but be very agreeable to me: I have nothing so much at Heart as the Welfare and Happiness of my People, and have the greatest Satisfaction in every Event that may be an additional Security to those civil and religious Liberties upon which the Prosperity of these Kingdoms depends.
