

RICHES' LETTERS SMACK OF UNITY

Counsel for Major Reads Voluminous Correspondence
From Suing Wife.

The argument of counsel in the all-mony action of Mrs. Olive Riches against her husband, Major C. H. Riches, was continued in the non-jury assize court before Chief Justice Mulock yesterday. George Wilkie, for the plaintiff, read from the voluminous pile of correspondence which had passed between the couple during their married life.

One letter, written by Mrs. Riches to her folks at home, said that her husband had treated her well while on their honeymoon. Counsel also introduced a number of other letters, which he claimed showed that the most perfect spirit of unity existed between the couple while on their trip abroad. Mr. Wilkie wanted to know how the incidents which were related by the plaintiff, in which she claimed he had roughly treated her, could be true when in her letters home she wrote of him in such endearing terms.

"It is not to account for the actions of a female mind," commented the lordship.

Prodding Not Hostile.

Referring to incident in which Mrs. Riches was alleged to have prodded her husband in the back while he was asleep, his lordship thought that it was not a hostile act. It was also brought out in the argument that the plaintiff had allowed her husband to read her letters before they were mailed.

A letter was sent by the defendant to his wife in which he stated Mrs. Riches should see her sister and tell her all about the incidents complained of, giving both sides of the case.

Mr. Wilkie proffered the opinion that the defendant, if guilty, would not first submit a letter to his wife and later have it perused by her sister and have a decision given.

The case is proceeding.

"WHERE THE PEOPLE INVITE AND LIFE IS DELIGHT"

More and more people are regarding as important the elevations at which the places they select for summer vacations lie above the level of the sea. Everybody knows to a slight extent at least, that a certain rejuvenation is effected when after a long day in office or factory, the worker returns to his home at an elevation greater than that at which the workshop is located.

The same principle applies in connection with summer vacations, and the Muskoka region brings rest and freedom from fatigue, largely because its general altitude is considerably greater than is Toronto's.

The Toronto Union Station, according to standard figures, is 254 feet above the level of the sea. Beaverton is 740 feet, Lakes Simcoe and Couchiching waters, average 718 feet, the Sparrow Lake station is 712 feet, Lake Park is 775 feet, Lake Joseph station, established at a little elevation above the waters of Lake Joseph, is 800 feet. The stations that are shown here are those of the Canadian National Railways' main line to Vancouver, traversing the heart of the Muskoka region.

Interesting additional information, and which is available in printed form at any office of the Canadian National Railways, is that pertaining to the multitude of summer hotels and boarding houses in the Muskoka territory.

Those thinking of Muskoka in connection with summer vacation, should get a copy of this list now to effectively guard against being too late when the final time for decision arrives.

"LET OSGOODE HALL DO IT BETTER"

City Solicitor's Comment
Re Morley Avenue Sewage Disposal.

The steps to charge Mayor Church and Commissioner R. C. Harris with contempt of court in connection with the action brought by Samuel Fieldhouse against the city for maintaining a nuisance at the Morley avenue sewage disposal works, created some discussion at the city hall yesterday.

Commissioner Harris' comment was: "What I have to say will be said before the court."

He would not say when he intended to commence experimentally on sludge disposal, for which council provided the sum of $50,000.

"The people themselves must decide by vote before we can spend any more money on a new site," said Mayor Church. "I voted against the Morley avenue site, but now that the plan is in operation we cannot make a change all in a moment. Other large cities are having trouble over sewage disposal."

With reference to the suggestion that an official should be appointed to manage the plant and install the necessary improvements, I. S. Fairly of the city's legal department, said: "My own personal feeling is that I should like to see the city wash its hands of the whole matter and let Osgoode Hall try to manage it. It would be interesting to see whether they could do it better."

Why Milk is Good for Hot, Tired, Thirsty Youngsters

THESE fine days you can't keep a child indoors long enough for a real meal.

And a hot, perspiring youngster shouldn't eat a heavy meal anyway.

Get an extra quart of milk each day—for the children's sake.

Give them this cooling, refreshing, nourishment every time they come in "for a drink."

Give them milk as a beverage at meal-times. Light cereals with milk at breakfast, light puddings with milk at lunch or supper. Fresh fruit with milk for dessert. Creamed vegetables for supper.

Milk contains in balanced form all the elements of nourishment—fats, proteins, calcium, vitamins. It is concentrated food.

But it is not heavy food. It does not sag the stomach. Does not overheat the system.

And it is the most economical food you can buy.

For just the same reasons, it is good for grown-ups too.

Don't try to make a pint do the duty of a quart.
