Gen. Hughes was not in the chamber so there was no come-back. The finance minister read a letter he wrote in February, 1916, to the Sawyer-Massey Company of Hamilton, which declared that there was paramount need for men. Though there was need for skilled workmen in steel, coal munitions and agriculture, he had always favored the country putting forth the tions and agriculture, he had always favored the country putting forth the utmost effort to stimulate recruiting. However, he held that some skilled men could give as good or better service in Canada as at the front and, therefore, favored the present bill.

He asked if this was not a discrimination against the poor. Premier Borden and Hon. M. Meighen said that the Government had been actuated by no such intention. The solicitor-general declared that there were certain conditions under which it seemed proper that a man should be allowed to purchase discharge, but this was not a

Sir Wilfrid Laurier held that the bill should clearly show that the rich should not be allowed exemption from service and the prime minister prometed to consider some form of amendment to this effect. ment to this effect.

Unfair to British-Born.

It was explained that the words in the bill "every male British subject," meant both those born British or maturalized. Hon. Mr. Lemieux said that this placed the naturalized Britishers in an unfair position, as Sir Thomas White and R. B. Bennett, director of national service, stated that naturalized British subjects were to be denied the right of voting under the naturalized British subjects were to be denied the right of voting under the proposed franchise act. "They are to be forced to fight, but not permitted to vote." Mr. Lemieux said.

"The subject of a franchise bill has not been under the consideration of the Government," said the prime minister.

"Will not be?" asked Sir Wilfrid.

"Has not been," answered the prime minister.

Sir Wilfrid quoted the opinion of Lord Kitchener that in present day fighting conditions are so severe that in only exceptional cases were men above 35 able to endure them.

"It is an open question whether we should go as high as 45," answered the prime minister. "It was thought best to leave it in its present form, but at one time during the preparation and drafting of the bill I myself made the very suggestion my right honorable friend now takes. The answer given me was that there was little possibility of Get After Fleeing Ones.

Hon. Charles Murphy asked if there could not be some arrangement, in fairness to young men that remained, to reach those that had left or were leavcountry to avoid conscription An order-in-council has been passed tion of this bill," said the premier. "As to those who left for the United States previously I may say that we are in touch with the United States Government and the subject has been discussed. There will be no announcement pending the passing of this bill."

To Hon, Mr. Lemieux, the premier stated that there had already been interiorly stated that there had already been bettiming the state in preparation for depreliminary steps in preparation for de-inabilization after the war.

Consider New Suggestions. The premier agreed to stand over clause three of the bill to consider the the arm of service in which they would go. The solicitor-general said that go. The inclusion of foodstuffs in the proclamation lends color to statements that the administration is considering the advisability of a complete embargo for sixty days on all food shipments to give the country time to ascertain the amount of its supplies and to give Allied and neutral countries an opportunity to present a full program of their requirements.

Officials Are Alarmed.

The president, in his statement, said the Government was trying first to ameliorate present food conditions and conditions that are expected to arise between now and the next harvest. Many officials, alarmed at the wheat shortage and the heavy drain the Allies and neutrals are making on every kind of American food supplies, are urging an immediate embargo on food shipments.

THE LOCAL MARKET

Strawberries were in considerable abundance on the market today, but remained stationary in price, selling at 13c to 15c retail. They are not of the 13c to 15c retail. They are not of the very best flavor as yet on account of the rainy weather, but are large, and with a few sunny days are expected to become of a first-rate, all-round quality. Tomorrow will probably see the strawberry in perfection, but it is doubtful whether the price will come down lower than 12c per box during the whole berry season.

No home-grown potatoes are on the local market yet. The imported variety sell readily at $2.50 per bag, but are of poor quality, some of the more expensive spuds are very good, however. A few gooseberries were offered at 13c per quart, but fruit, on the whole, is very backward this season, being about a month behind the usual market period. Oats were scarce and firm. Hay advanced 50c in price, selling now at $10 to $11.50 per ton. The majority of the farmers will sell their hay the latter part of the week, when it is in a condition to be of the best value.

Dairy produce was stationary, eggs calling for 35c per dozen, and butter being on demand at 42c per pound.

Vegetables sold practically at unchanged prices. New cabbages bring 10c per head; green onions 5c per bunch; radishes two bunches for 5c; asparagus

Through control of coal and fuels the Government intends to take a firm grasp on shipping. An arrangement under negotiation will give the American and British Governments control of not only all Allied tonnage, but of neutral vessels as well. Ships now on runs not regarded as necessary to a successful conduct of the war, will be forced into trades considered more essential and vessels now held in port through fear of submarine attack will be required to go into service.

Control of iron and steel was made necessary by war demands on the iron and steel industries. A shortage of in this country is threatened because of the large amount that is being diverted to munitions manufacture and the consolidation of the country's merican feet.
