THIS BATTER!

Charlottetown, P.E.I., Jan. 11.—A letter received from a gunner of the 98th Siege Battery, which is mainly composed of Prince Edward Islanders, with some Nova Scotians and New Brunswickers, describes the work on the Somme. They have shot continually day and night for six and one-half months without rest. They have been complimented many times by their companders. Three telephonists, f. C. Harper, N. Lannigan and A. Roy McKay have been awarded the military medal and Lt. J. P. Hooper and Lt. Seaman of Charlotteown have received the military coss. They have had five men killary cross. They have had five solutions of the seather tracted in three lessons, to talented pupils. Goud-it is violin Studio, 7 Charlotte street.

IT'S A GREAT BILL

"MERELY MARY ANN" A GREAT PICTURE

The William Fox production of "Merely Mary Ann," which was shown at the Star Theatre last night, is, in many ways, far superior to the play itself. This might be due to the clever actress, Vivian Martin—or the special scenic effects—and more than likely to the advantage the movies have over the speaking stage. speaking stage.
The story is very well known in St.

The story is very well known in St. John, as it has not been long since this play was presented in this city.

A more suitable picture could not be found for Miss Martin. The story runs as follows:—Mary Ann, a simple little country girl, bereft of parents at an early age, comes to the city to find employment. She is successful in securing vork as maid in a boarding house. In little time she becomes very friendly with one of the boarders, Launcelot Melmont, who takes a great notion to her. mont, who takes a great notion to her.
He insists upon Mary Ann wearing gloves whenever touching anything in his room (these gloves cause a lot of fun, in fact, more fun than one could invariant.

Things move along nicely at the boarding house, until Mary Ann is called away to receive a large fortune that is left to her by a wealthy relative. This fortune changes the servant girl into a society lady, and later, her new guardians prepare a great reception for her. Among the many guests is Melmont, who has become a great musician. When Mary Ann appears he does not recognize her and of course asks who she is nize her and of course asks who she is.
Posing in old-time fashion she replies
'Merely Mary Ann.' Then—
With all the suitable details interwoven throughout the story, the feature can well be classed among the best.
It will be presented again tonight at seven and eight-thirty, together with the "Mutual Weekly," and compare.

dition to this story feature it was exquisitely beautiful to look upon, because of its strange and foreign color and atmosphere. Tonight it will be presented for the last time and as it ranks with "Carmen," "The Eternal City" and other foreign plays—so unlike the modern society drama of this continent—people of discriminating tastes will doubtless take advantage of it at either the 7 or 8.30 show.
