Money and The Markets

(National Bank of Commerce, New York)

The downward revision of prices continues to be the factor dominating the general business outlook. The movement is a natural and inevitable corrective of the unstable condition created in the previous period of rising prices, reckless public buying and widespread speculation. Falling prices are not a recent development. Before the close of 1919 the prices of a number of im- portant commodities had begun to de- cline. By spring of 1920 a definite downward trend had been established. Since then the movement has been ac- celerated, until within recent weeks it has forced general recognition that the period of excessive buying at rising prices has definitely ended. Business must now go forward on a lower price level. This readjustment cannot be ef- fected without serious general results, reason of the inherent strength of the credit situation and the assured coop- eration of the banks with business.

The banks are amply prepared to finance business while it is working out a more normal basis of operation and a stable level of prices. This process will require the employment of a large vol- ume of credit. Inventories cannot be disposed of abruptly. In many lines, owing to general inactivity to buy, their liquidation must be effected grad- ually. Meanwhile, they must be financed. The long run effect of the downward price movement, however, will be to ease the credit situation. The freedom from disturbance with which the readjustment is effected depends largely on the willingness of business to recognize the changed conditions.

Stabilization on a new price basis does not involve a return to the pre-war price level. For nearly two decades prior to the war, prices had been rising steadily. On economic grounds this rise might reasonably have been expected to continue, had there been no war. More- over, the improvement effected in our credit and banking machinery since the inauguration of the Federal reserve sys- tem now enables a given gold reserve to finance a greater volume of business at higher prices than was practicable in the pre-war days. The country's present gold reserve greatly exceeds the pre-war reserve, and this enlarged and con- centrated gold reserve will have a sus- taining influence on the new price level. The actual level at which prices will be es- tablished can only be worked out grad- ually on the basis of actual transactions over an extended period.

JUMPED FROM BRIDGE.

Committed Suicide in Presence of His Finance.

Fort Edward, N. Y., Oct. 22.—Leaping over the railing of a bridge spanning the Champlain canal here, after a quarrel with his sweetheart, Miss Elizabeth Ken- nedy, a telephone operator, Daniel T. McCormick, Jr., son of Dr. Daniel P. McCormick, Jr., manager of mills for the International Paper Company in this place, committed suicide by drowning.

The set was committed in the presence of Miss Kennedy, with whom he had just quarrelled. The young woman, fainting when McCormick dropped into the canal.

Hundreds of villagers gathered at the scene watching volunteers drag for the body, which was taken from the water an hour after. McCormick was well known in northern New York in sport- ing circles. Early this season he was manager of an international baseball team here. During the war he was in the navy.

The young man had lived with his parents here about seven years. Besides his parents he leaves a sister, Florence.

AVOIDS MURDER CHARGE.

Gangster Shot Man Who Was Already Dead.

New York, Oct. 22.—What amounted to a plea of killing a man who was already dead before the shot was fired, was accepted when George Lewis of 112 West 90th street, pleaded guilty to man- slaughter in the first degree. Judge Rosalsky and a jury in the court of general sessions had prepared to try Lewis on a charge of first degree mur- der.

Lewis is a gangster. With Robert Shaw, alias "Rubber," he fired shots in the back of "Tanner" Smith, a re- formed gangster, at the Marginal Club, 154 E. 14th street, on the night of July 26, 1919. In recommending the accept- ance of the minor plea, Assistant Dis- trict Attorney Brothers said Shaw fired the fatal shot, and that Lewis, following with a shot, merely dealt man's body.

Shaw later was killed by a gang.

Judge Rosalsky remanded Lewis to the Tombs for sentence. He can be sen- tenced up to twenty years' imprison- ment.

PRICE CUTTING IN WEST.

How Far Readjustment Has Gone in One Section of the Country.

(Special correspondence of the N. Y. Evening Post.)

Chicago, Oct. 14.—Elimination of big profits in many commodities is under way in all sections and the west is hav- ing its findings. Where it will stop is the question. For the present the cuts of 15 to 25 per cent in clothing, 10 to 20 per cent in shoes, 40 to 50 per cent in food goods, 10 to 25 in lumber, 10 to 25 per cent in furniture and triffles in the menu list of the highest priced restau- rants and hotels, coupled with the reduc- tions in automobiles, are about all that have been made. These reductions bring to light the ability of the wholesalers and retailers to secure big profits, and to the casual observer the question of what is a fair and reasonable profit.

Sugar has dropped to fifteen cents a pound and under at retail. Flour is nearly 85 per barrel from the highest war level, which is over 85 per barrel from the top war price. Butter has fallen from the top war price. But- ter and eggs are close to the record lev- els and are being sustained largely by spe- culators. In normal times small profits are earned for the average merchant and manufacturer, while in abnormal times the question of profits is a de- batable question, as high prices neces- sitate greater risks and are in a measure admissible.

One factor that is noticeable is the increased disposition on the part of workers to use more common sense and more money is being saved than heretofore and more work is being done by reduced forces. Employers are weeding out the slackers and those who are left have speeded up, not only in the fac- tories but in the offices.

IRON, STEEL, METAL AND MACHINERY.

In its summary of the iron, steel, metal and machinery markets for week ended Oct. 21, Canadian Machinery and Manufacturing News, Toronto, makes the following comment:

Pittsburgh openly admits that the steel market there has developed more than usual slowness, and that there is a falling off in consumption. While this may be so, yet it is not reflected to any great extent in Canada. In fact some of the merchants in the steel and iron busi- ness say that the situation has become stronger during the last week. A few days ago, they say, there was a feeling that the bottom might fall out of the market but it has become fairly well es- tablished. While then that there is not going to be any sharp reduction in prices.

Some of the material that has been turned loose by the cancellations of the automobile plants is being taken up by other concerns, and there are cases where considerable relief has been afforded by this action.

Dealers in small tools do not look for any change in the prices of their pre- vailing high speed goods at from fifty to seventy-five per cent below the schedule price was prevalent during the war. There have been reductions made in several lines of small tools during the last few months, and there seems to be a feeling that present prices will stick for some time.

It is too early to predict just what effect the British coal strike is going to have on British firms exporting steel and tools to this country, but some dealers hold that the effect will be felt in a very short time, as there is not much stock held in this country.

The scrap metal market is very dull just now. Dealers do not want to take on any more tonnage than they can dis- pose of almost at once in the present market, so the most of the business is being done in small lots. Prices quoted being more or less nominal, and cannot be guaranteed. Some of the trade look for a lower price, and when this comes they believe trade will increase.

SYLVIA PANKHURST IS IN COURT; REMANDED.

London, Oct. 20.—Sylvia Pankhurst, who was taken into custody yesterday, was arraigned today, charged with at- tempting to cause sedition in the navy by editing and publishing an issue of the newspaper "The Workers' Dreadnought."

On Oct. 16, containing an article on Dis- content on the Lower Deck. She was remanded for one week. Bail was granted her.

FAVOR CHINESE LABOR IN CANADA AND STATES.

Montreal, Oct. 22.—Hon. F. C. Hurley, mayor of Montreal, a recent can- didate for governorship of that state, urged in an address before the Kiwanis Club the introduction and employment of Chinese laborers in Canada and the United States for agricultural, railroad building and other constructive work. A straw vote showed 111 members of the club in favor of the proposition, and five against.
