BULO INSANE, SAYS MINISTER BROTHER

Paris, Feb. 12.—When the trial of Bulo Pasha for treason was resumed today, his brother, Monsignor Bulo, prominent as a pulpit orator, took the stand in his behalf. He declared at the outset that he was patriot first of all and was defending his brother because of the conviction that he was insane.

Monsignor Bulo's testimony was more in the nature of a pleading than a deposition. He reviewed the entire case. Speaking of the prisoner's journey to Switzerland, he expressed the opinion that Bulo Pasha's purpose in going to see the former Kithive Abbas Hini, was to win him over to the side of the allies. The prelate ridiculed the idea that a man so wise in the ways of the world and so cynically clever as Count Von Bernstorff, former German ambassador at Washington, could have mistaken Bulo Pasha for an important political personage. The witness scoffed at the idea that any of the references in Count Von Bernstorff's telegram to Berlin were to the prisoner.

The spectators in the courtroom, who have been hostile to the prisoner throughout the trial, appeared to be impressed by the eloquence of his brother, who drove home point after point, emphasizing them by striking the roll of the witness stand with his huge fist.

Monsignor Bulo made the most of the presumption that Hugo Schmidt and Adolf Favonstedt, from whom evidence was obtained in America against Bulo Pasha, are German spies. Favonstedt was formerly the head of the Amstutz Bank in New York and Schmidt was formerly the agent in New York of the Deutsche Bank. Both men are now interned in a detention camp in Georgia.

The earlier errors of Bulo Pasha were attributed by his brother to Bulo's former business partner, M. Pannon and the latter's wife.

Colonel Voyer, president of the court, called Monsignor Bulo to order for challenging the authenticity of the Count Von Bernstorff telegram, since he pointed out, they had been vouched for by the United States government.

ONE SESSION FOR CITY SCHOOLS TO SAVE COAL

Board of Trustees Decides to Close Buildings During Winter Afternoons—Save 400 or 500 tons

At a meeting of the school board, held in the trustees office last night, it was decided to have only one session a day in the city schools during the remainder of this month and also during the month of March. This action is due to the fact that there is a shortage of coal in many of the city schools and by banking the fires in the schools during the afternoon it is estimated that between 400 and 500 tons of hard coal can be saved by the board's action. It was also thought advisable to take this action as the coal shortage threatens to be much more acute next year than it has been this season and the coal that the board might be able to save this year, during these two months, might come in very useful next season.

Those present at the meeting were: H. E. Emerson, chairman; Dr. James Manning, Herbert Green, Mrs. Taylor, Dr. H. S. Bridges, H. Colby Smith, E. R. W. Ingraham, Theo. Nagle and Geo. E. Day.

Those Nagle introduced the subject of the shortage of coal in the city schools. He said that he had been considering the coal question for some time and had been convening with several of the trustees of this city on the subject. By having only one session per day, during February and March, he would like to say that the board of school trustees had the power to put this motion into effect. Colby Smith then seconded Mr. Nagle's motion.

Night School Goes On.

Mr. Green wanted to know why it would be necessary to close all the schools if there was enough coal in some of them, and if it would be necessary to close the night school. Mr. Nagle replied that it would be necessary to close the night school to discontinue the night school as the room in which it was held was very warm.

Dr. Bridges said that he had spoken to W. J. S. Myles, principal of the High school, on the subject as to how much coal could be saved. He said that if there should be one session for the next two months, both he and Mr. Myles were of the opinion that there would be saved in his school twenty tons would be saved in his school.

Mr. Green told the board that there was not more than Dr. Bridges' supply more coal in the King Edward school. Mr. Green said that he had been considering the coal question for some time and had been convening with several of the trustees of this city on the subject. By having only one session per day, during February and March, he would like to say that the board of school trustees had the power to put this motion into effect. No Time Wasted on Discussion—Anything and Everything Receives Off-hand Approval of Russian Congress

Petrograd, Feb. 11.—The Russian congress of councils began with 600 members and closed with 900. Resolutions and laws were rapidly passed at the beginning of the session and again voted on without discussion for the benefit of late arrivals and greater glorification of the new order of things. It was all in vain that someone in the assembly invited these rough and ready legislators to think a little more and hold up their hands a little less. The agrarian reform and socialization of land which is the most complicated problem in the history of social reconstruction, was gone through with in a few minutes, and in an hour not more than twelve minutes being devoted to the fundamental laws intended to open up and ready legislation to think a little more and hold up their hands a little less.
