

ST. JOSEPH'S COLLEGE.

The Corner Stone of Lefebvre Memorial Hall Laid With Appropriate Ceremony.

Speeches by Judge Landry, Supt. Inch, Dr. Allison, Dr. Bellevue

H. A. Powell, M. P., Hon. Mr. Emmerson and G. W. Cook of Amherst.

Memramcook, July 7.—Tomorrow's gathering at St. Joseph's college, when the corner stone of a new building in memory of the founder of the college will be laid with appropriate ceremonial, bids fair to be the largest and most representative assembly of the Acadian French ever held in the maritime provinces...

The ceremonies proper will be opened at 2.30 p. m. by Mr. Justice Landry and in default of the presence of a bishop of the church, the corner stone will be blessed by Rev. F. X. Cormier, the oldest clerical graduate of the college. There will be several short addresses by Dr. Inch, superintendent of education; Dr. Bellevue of Shediac; Chas. S. Hickman of Dorchester; Geo. V. McInerney, M. P. for Kent, and others, but the orator of the occasion will be the Very Rev. Dr. Mathias of Laval university, who will of course speak in the French tongue.

The ceremony of blessing the corner stone is quite simple. Two hymns will be sung by the assembled Acadians, one before and one after the blessing. The blessing concluded, it is proposed to allow the assistants and others to ascend the platform at the southeast corner of the building and to strike the stone with the silver hammer used in the ceremony at the same time placing whatever contributions they may desire to make towards the completion of the memorial edifice.

The absence of several gentlemen invited to speak, among them H. A. Powell, M. P., who is now in Ottawa, has necessitated several alterations in that part of the programme, but it is intended to give all on whom the popular call a chance to be heard, the only restriction being time limit of ten minutes.

LEFEBVRE MEMORIAL HALL.

Your correspondent called upon Rev. Fr. A. D. Cormier this morning for the purpose of ascertaining the particulars concerning the Lefebvre memorial hall.

The rev. father said: The alumni of St. Joseph's are determined to rush the work through rapidly. The hall is to be built of yellow olive stone, which is to be obtained from the Caledonia quarry. This stone was much the fashion in New York years ago, and many of the magnificent buildings of Wall street are built of it.

It was by the merest accident that we came upon this stone, and we were surprised to find it in so large a quantity, as there had been none found in this country for years. We have all the stone on the grounds.

The hall is to be seventy-nine feet by fifty-five, and rises high. The first floor will be divided into four rooms, two of which will be used as museums, while the others are to be used as laboratories.

The second floor will be used as an opera house, and will have a seating capacity of 200 or 300 persons, including the galleries, which will be reserved for the students and faculty. The walls and ceiling of both flats will be of metal, thus rendering the entire building fire-proof.

We intend to spare nothing in order to make the hall one of the finest buildings in the province. It will be heated with hot air, and lit by electricity, and the ceiling will be painted in the most beautiful and elaborate designs. A large statue of the founder of St. Joseph's (Rev. Fr. Fefebvre) is to be on a high prominence over the main entrance. We are uncertain as to the time the hall will be completed, as it depends upon the success of four alumni in receiving subscriptions. We have already enough subscribed to complete the outside of the building, and we depend on the generosity of the admirers of Fr. Lefebvre for the rest.

(From a member of the Sun staff.) Memramcook, July 8.—Glorious weather favored the Lefebvre memorial festivities at St. Joseph's today, and at this writing the grounds are filled with a vast multitude, gathered together from all parts of this province and adjacent sections of Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island. A more delightful spot for such a gathering could not be conceived. The college buildings are picturesquely situated on an eminence overlooking Memramcook valley, and command an extensive view of one of the most charming landscapes to be found in the maritime provinces. St. Joseph's is but twenty miles from Moncton and within a mile of the institution is the Intercolonial station of John's Bridge, 112 miles from St. John and 185 miles from Halifax.

Walking up the planked pathway from the station to the hill, the scene that greeted the eye was one of exceeding pastoral beauty. Swayed by a summer breeze that tempered the heat of the sun, the tall marsh grass rose and fell like ocean billows, while the hillside fields, soon to be covered with ripening grain, presented an assortment of shades of living green that would defy the skill of the painter to reproduce. The hillsides and trees on the summit stood the buildings of St. Joseph, to the right being the rising walls of memorial hall, with the bright color of France floating from its summit.

That Father Lefebvre was a teacher as well as a preacher was forcibly impressed by the very arrangement of the buildings. Instead of the church crowning the hill, as the poet always has it, it was well down towards the base, the place of honor being reserved to the institutions of learning. And still more significant evidence of the practical side of his teaching is to be found in the presence, hard by the church, of a large co-operative dairy of the latest type, that has already established for its products a high reputation. But although subordinating so far as its site goes to the college buildings, the church is an imposing edifice and is the largest in the province outside of St. John.

Once in the grounds the buildings take a second place, for the eye is constantly filled with a charming picture. Thousands upon thousands of people in holiday attire are here gathered to assist in enjoying themselves as heartily as children on a holiday. It is none of your stolid English crowd. All is life, gaiety and motion. The ladies are conspicuous in colors that their English sisters would hardly dare to assume, and with their hair becomingly, and with their faces beaming with their French origin. Luxuriant dark tresses and cheeks crimsoned with the hue of health can carry off a wardrobe that would overwhelm more fragile city belles.

A large merry round is the centre of a jolly crowd; shooting and bowling alleys and such like attractions are appealing with much success to the pockets of the young men, while the bazaar is drawing its hundreds of purchasers who cannot resist the tempting array of needful and fancy work displayed before their eyes. Turn which way one will, there is something to feast upon, yet no one has to spend a penny involuntarily. The delightful patronage is not heard, save the stentorian announcements of the merry round men and the touters for athletic sports.

The first question that rushes to one's lips is, Why have these people assembled here today and for what purpose? WHO WAS FATHER LEFEBVRE?

Here is what your correspondent has gathered about him: Father Lefebvre, whose death took place at Memramcook in the latter part of January, 1895, was emphatically a man with a mission, who filled for three decades an important, though not particularly prominent, place in the educational history of New Brunswick. He was the apostle of the Acadians, who have solid reason for holding his memory in everlasting remembrance. Camille Lefebvre was born February 14th, 1832, in the parish of St. Philippe, province of Quebec. The son of a well-to-do Canadian farmer, he received his education in his native land. After some years' attendance at the parochial school in St. Philippe, he entered the Sulpician college at Montreal, and later St. Laurent college, at that time a young institution conducted by the Fathers of Holy Cross, a religious congregation imported to Canada from France about 1847. A few years at St. Laurent fixed his future career, and he entered the congregation of Holy Cross, being the first Canadian to enter its ranks. Soon after his ordination in 1855, he was appointed vicar of St. Eustache, Quebec province. The exceptional oratorical abilities of the young priest speedily brought him into prominence in his diocese, and he was frequently in frequent request as a preacher of retreats and missions throughout the diocese of St. Hyacinthe. After nine years in this sphere of labor, he began his real mission.

In 1864 the Fathers of Holy Cross were invited by His Lordship Bishop Sweeney to accept charge of the Acadian parish of Memramcook, and to establish a school or academy. In response to this invitation came Father Lefebvre with one or two companions. To form an adequate idea of Father Lefebvre's labors in that field, it is necessary to bear in mind the condition of the Acadians at the date of his arrival among them. It is no exaggeration to say that they were merged in the slough of ignorance. "The greatest misfortune of the Acadians," says the Abbe H. R. Casgrain, "was not their dispersion, but the almost complete abandonment in which they were left for nearly a century. During that whole sad period they had, practically, no means of education."

Thirty-five years ago the Acadians of New Brunswick, except in a few isolated cases, had no representatives in the liberal professions, in the civil service, or in commerce. Politically they were without leaders and without influence. In agriculture and in architecture their methods were for the most part primitive rather than scientific. What wonder, then, that they were looked upon by their more favored Anglo-Saxon fellow-countrymen as an inferior race?

The lack of instruction was the basic cause of the weakness, and the new pastor of Memramcook at once began to apply the remedy—education. A very few months after his arrival in the parish, he prepared a medium-sized wooden building, organized a teaching staff, and on October 10th, 1864, opened St. Joseph's college. Little importance was attached, at that time, by the masses, to the establishment of a boarding and day school, in which were gathered scarcely a score of pupils, but it was the beginning of one of the most flourishing and most useful educational institutions in the maritime provinces today.

As French and English students began to flock to the school, the old buildings had to be enlarged, then new ones erected, till the little academy of 1864 became the splendidly equipped college of 1896. And what a mighty factor has St. Joseph's been in placing the Acadians of New Brunswick in the position they occupy at present! To one man does so much of the glory of this race belong than to Father Camille Lefebvre. But it was not alone as the founder and president of St. Joseph's that he contributed to the well-being of his people. An ardent lover of universal education, he traversed Acadia from Acadia to Acadia, preaching missions, revivings and jubilees, and while exhorting the masses to spiritual advancement, he never failed to indicate the means they should adopt in order to ensure their temporal welfare and prosperity. He persistently raised his voice against the emigration of young men to the United States, advising them to settle rather on the crown lands, and so provide themselves in a few years with a permanent independence.

Of his eminence as a public speaker, a writer well qualified to speak his mind, and a moral and spiritual guide, the external grace of an orator, he possessed in addition the vivid sympathy, the fire and earnestness that render his speech more truly eloquent. A tall, thin man, of medium height, and of generous build, his exterior was noble and imposing without suggestion, however, of coldness or haughtiness. His physiognomy revealed a powerful intellect and abundant force of character. A rich, full, rounded voice that could run up and down the scale of the passions; graceful and frequent gesture; an inexhaustible vocabulary; pure and elegant diction; a luxurious imagination, controlled by a sound judgment—these are some of the qualities that enabled Father Lefebvre to take first rank among the orators of the country.

A hero in the truest sense of the term, he poured out his life unselfishly in the cause of religion and education, regenerating a people whom Longfellow had led the world to believe were almost extinct.

JUDGE LANDRY'S estimate of Father Lefebvre's labors is more personal than his application. At a recent meeting in St. John, before representatives of the Branch of the C. M. B. A. and other Catholic societies, he said: "Some years ago, on the occasion of Father Lefebvre's centenary, Wendell Phillips delivered an address in the Boston Music Hall on the Cause of Ireland. Among other things he said: 'Just as my Lord Bacon, three hundred years in his grave, may lay one hand on the steam engine and say: "other are mine, for I taught you to invent; so O'Connell may say of the success already achieved by the home rule movement, this victory is mine, for I taught you the method and gave you the tools." And so it is quite as intelligible as that in which Phillips spoke of O'Connell, I say of Father Lefebvre that not only did he, not less certainly, if less directly than O'Connell, give the impetus to the Acadian movement which he inaugurated here in New Brunswick, he made possible Ritchie's accession to the police magistracy of St. John, Poirier in the senate, and Landy on the supreme court bench, but through the inevitable outcome of the Catholic educational movement which he inaugurated here in New Brunswick, he made possible Ritchie's accession to the police magistracy of St. John, Poirier
