ST. JOHN STAR.

ST. JOHN, N. B., AUGUST 26, 1901.

THE STAR.

It is better to take a small paper, filled with the kind of news that is of most interest to you than to take a large paper filled with columns of long articles that are of no interest. There is no advantage in taking a large paper if it does not contain as much of the news you are interested in as does a smaller one. There is nothing in mere bulk. It is quality that counts. The Star contains more news of interest to St. John people than any other evening paper. That is why its circulation is so rapidly increasing.

THE CITY SQUARES.

The condition of the public squares is not creditable to the city. Because the season has been a dry one is no reason for their burned-out appearance. The fact is that no systematic effort is made to keep them in order. They should now present a lovely green surface, that would be a constant delight to all who pass through them. On the contrary they look worse than a barren hillside pasture. Of what use is it to have flower beds when the grass around them is left to die? Better to turn the children and the dogs loose in them than to leave them in their present state. It is the duty of the city council either to arrange with the Horticultural Association to have the squares cared for, or make other provision to have them fertilized into a healthy condition of grass growth, and then see that they are watered when that is necessary. Let us hope that action will be taken this autumn, so that next summer we may have lovely green squares to admire, instead of neglected vacant lots to provoke ridicule.

GLAD TO SEE THEM.

The members of the Press Association, who are in the city today are welcome visitors. The complaint we have had to make heretofore is that our fellow citizens in the west do not come in such large numbers as the summer charms of this region deserve. Thousands of summer visitors come from the neighboring states, and the number increases year by year. We are sure that Ontario people are equally delighted when they come this way and stay long enough to become acquainted with any particular locality and its people, in whichever of the three provinces the place may be.

The ladies and gentlemen who are in St. John today have visited P. E. Island and Nova Scotia, and will see the beauties of the St. John river tomorrow. Their tour would have been incomplete without the latter pleasure. The Star trusts that they will take home with them pleasing recollections of the scenery and climate hereabouts, and of the hospitality of our people. What they have seen of Halifax and St. John will have convinced them that these ports are capable of handling an enormous ocean traffic, and that the claim of these cities to be recognized as Canada's winter ports is well founded.

If they were not members of the newspaper fraternity one might be disposed to offer them some instructions as to what they should see and learn, and what they should say about it to their friends on their return. But newspaper folk have enough to do to keep the rest of the world in order, without essaying the task of keeping each other in the middle of the road. Therefore the Star offers a glad hand to the visitors, with cheerful confidence in their powers of discernment and discrimination. St. John is glad to see them and hopes they will come again.

THEY LOOK TO CANADA.

The American Lumberman is of opinion that the competition of the pulp mills is responsible for the unsatisfactory condition of the spruce market, from the standpoint of the New England manufacturer. The competition of the pulp mills has forced the saw-mill owners to pay more for their logs and they have not been able, owing to the competition of hemlock and North Carolina pine lumber, to get a proportionately high price for the manufactured product. The Lumberman thinks relief may be found by lowering the tariff on pulp wood or making an arrangement with New Brunswick and Quebec. But New Brunswick and Quebec will have something to say about that. As usual, Uncle Sam looks entirely to his own interest in the matter. Here is what the Lumberman says:

The worst of the situation is that there is no prospect of relief. The pulp mills are growing more insistent in their demand. They annually consume larger and larger numbers of logs and become more active competitors for the log supply. It is said that they can afford to pay almost twice what the saw mills can, and so it looks as though the spruce lumber industry of the Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and perhaps of northern New York is passing away. It is too bad to put magnificent saw mill logs into pulp, but if the pulp men will pay the price who can stop the process of conversion? But it ought to be stopped somehow or other. Put a log through the saw mill and note the beautiful clear lumber. Put another log just like it through the pulp mill choppers and you have a pile of small chips. Note the difference and say if it is not a waste. It is too soon yet to talk about a tariff revision, but if relief shall not come from some source and the spruce lumber business of this territory seems doomed, it might be well to advise the importation of spruce pulp wood at a reduced tariff or free, by an arrangement with the provinces of Quebec and New Brunswick, and thus leave to the lumbermen of this territory spruce which they need for the maintenance of their mills.

GASPE OIL WELL OWNERS.

They Propose to Boom Canada as a Desirable Place for British Emigrants.

John A. Walker and Dr. Lee of Dublin and London, respectively, were in Toronto last week. The former is chairman of the board of directors of the oil fields of Gaspe county, and came to Canada to inspect their property, which consists of thirty-four wells and 100 square miles of timber. They want a railway to Gaspe harbor, a dispatch line, and a pocket book, and if this can be carried through the company will consider the advisability of constructing large pulp and paper mills. Mr. Walker, says the Toronto Star, is taking extensive notes of the country, and is writing a book and setting forth the advantages of Canada as an agricultural country. He hopes by this means to draw the attention of the home government to the desirability of aiding emigration to Canada's arable and mining territory.

"You have only 5,000,000 people," said Mr. Walker, "while you have territory to accommodate the surplus population of the British Isles. In the congested districts of the British Isles there are hundreds of thousands who might find comfortable and happy homes in your country, and I intend to call attention to this fact in the book which I am writing."

THOMAS CAMPBELL DEAD.

Thomas Campbell, the well known plumber, died very suddenly yesterday forenoon. He had attended 7 o'clock mass, and about 9 o'clock set out for a walk, but feeling ill returned home. Mr. Campbell was a native of St. John and a leading plumber. One of his important contracts was the plumbing and fitting of the new high school building. Among his surviving relatives are his nephew, Hugh Campbell, associated with him in business; another nephew, John McParland of Houlton, Me.; James McParland, the pilot, a brother-in-law and two nieces, residing in this city and another in Boston.

The amounts made by girls employed by subcontractors, went as low as $1 to $2 per week. A committee was named to make further investigations.
