AN ARTISTIC ENTERTAINMENT.

The audience which assembled in Queen square church school room last evening enjoyed a concert of great excellence. It was the first appearance of Miss M. Florence Rogers before an east side audience, and she had every reason to be gratified with her reception. She gave three readings, and was twice encored, and whether in classic or humorous selections won great favor. Her ease of manner and the thoroughness with which she enters into an impersonation are joined to well trained elocutionary powers. It is a notable pleasure to hear Mrs. F. G. Spencer sing, and when in duet with Delvill Cairns the pleasure of the listener is perhaps all the greater. They were compelled to respond to a persistent encore. Mr. Cairns splendid solo, A Son of the Desert Am I, was also encored, as was the solo which Mrs. Spencer by special request sang later in the evening. G. D. Davidson gave two banjo solos with such skillful mastery of the instrument that the last time he was twice compelled to respond to a call. Mrs. Jaa. Turf sang two solos, and with so much sweetness and promise that if the audience could have had their way, she, too, would have been heard again. Misses MacMichael and McCarty, who opened the concert with a piano duet, and Miss Everett, who played the accompaniments during the evening, added much to the merits of an entertainment of exceptional excellence throughout. At the close of the programme Charles M. Gilling extended the thanks of the Sunday school to the audience and the entertainers, and all joined in the national anthem.

ST. JOHN STAR.

ST. JOHN, N. B., FEBRUARY 19, 1902.

AS TO IMMIGRANTS.

The matter of the detention and deportation of immigrants brought by Canadian steamship companies to Canadian ports, and destined to either America or Canadian ports, is causing a considerable amount of comment, not only in St. John, but throughout Canada. So far as can be learned the Canadian regulations are not in accord with those of the American government, and instances frequently arise in which the officials at the ports of landing find themselves unable to exercise any authority. The strongest section in the Canadian regulations is one relating to persons who are liable to become public charges. These can be prohibited from landing on Canadian soil, but the act containing this section says absolutely nothing in regard to detaining them or deporting them by force. The terms, public charges, can be interpreted in a very broad manner, and even in its widest sense is not sufficient to cover all cases which arise. The immigration commissioners have no authority to send back to Europe any immigrants who are not considered fit citizens for Canada. They have authority to prevent them from landing if, in the opinion of the commissioners, they are liable to become public charges. But once the landing has taken place, the immigrants may wander about at their own sweet will in Canada. The regulations of the United States government are well defined, and the commissioners at the different ports have no hesitation as to the proper line of conduct, no matter what emergency may arise. They are bound by hard and fast rules, which leave nothing to their own judgment.

The different steamship companies bringing immigrants to Canada, destined for American ports, enter into a contract with the American government, which says "All aliens arriving at Canadian ports who are adjudged inadmissible to enter the United States shall be refused the certificate herein called for, and the steamship company bringing such aliens shall be required to return them to the countries from which they respectively came."

Under the present Canadian immigration laws this section of the contract is worthless, for the steamship companies have no authority to forcibly deport any immigrants who land in Canada, and, without landing in Canada, immigrants brought to Canadian ports and destined for the United States cannot be refused admission into that country.

There are, at present, in Montreal some hundreds of immigrants who have been detained as unfit for American citizenship, and who, as they cannot be forcibly deported, are existing in Montreal as public charges, and in many cases are receiving free treatment at the hospitals. When an immigrant is refused the certificate admitting him to the United States, he is, under the steamship company's contract, supposed to be returned to the country from which he came, but this is seldom done. Previous to the signing of the contract of the line which brought the immigrants from Europe to Canada, all who have been refused admission are supposed to be looked after by the Canadian immigration commissioner, and when the next steamer of the line is ready to sail, they are to be sent on board of her, and receipt, signed by the captain and purser, given to the American immigration authorities for each immigrant so sent on board.

The immigrants who are not returned to their own countries, but who, through the different provinces of Canada, and after a time, when the causes for which they were formerly refused admission have disappeared, they wander into the United States. But, during the time they are in Canada, they are, to a certain extent, public charges. This is now being shown in Montreal, where many are being given free treatment, and others being supported by the different charitable organizations until they are able to earn enough for themselves. Under the existing laws, the only inference which can be drawn is that persons who are not good enough for the United States are plenty good for Canada, and that no objections to their remaining in this country can be made.

Until the present season the matter has not been prominently brought before public notice in St. John, but now the Jewish Immigration Society appear to be taking the matter up in earnest on behalf of the immigrants. They appear to have some reasonable grounds for complaint. Agents of steamship companies, stationed in different parts of Europe, influence those persons to come to Canada or the United States, and it seems hard that, after spending what few dollars they may have saved in their own countries, they should be sent back penniless for reasons of which before starting they knew nothing. When a Russian or Austrian or a native of any other country wishes to emigrate to Canada, he buys a ticket from the agent of the steamship line to the point for which he is destined. Thus a man wishing to go from Moscow to San Francisco would buy at the sailing point of the steamship line a through ticket, which, upon arrival at a Canadian port, would be exchanged by the steamship company for a railroad ticket from that port to his destination. Should it so happen that this man was not considered a fit citizen for the United States, he would, in violation of the contract, be sent back to the point in Europe from which the steamer sailed, and from there would find his way back to his own country as best he could. No rebate is given by the steamship companies for the unused railway ticket; nor can any immigrant, who is destined for an American point, but who is refused admission, exchange his railroad ticket for one to a Canadian point. There are in St. John now between twenty and thirty immigrants who have been refused admission to the United States, and who, under the contract made with the American government by the steamship companies, must be deported, if not willingly, then by force, to their own countries; but the steamship companies have no power to take into custody or use force towards any one of those immigrants. The Canadian commissioners are alike powerless, and it appears as though the Jewish Immigration Society will have very little difficulty in keeping in Canada not only those who are free from contagious diseases, but all who are not liable to become public charges.

PARLIAMENT.

OTTAWA, Feb. 18.—The proceedings of the house today lasted less than fifteen minutes.

Mr. Cowan introduced a bill dealing with the drainage on and across property of the railway companies.

Mr. Hart, the newly elected member for Kingston, was introduced and took his seat.

Hon. Mr. Fielding said the government was prepared to go on with the estimates, but in view of the fact that the auditor general's report had just been laid on the table, he realized the opposition might desire some opportunity of looking into that document before taking up supply. He was, therefore, willing to let the matter go over.

The motion to go into committee of supply was then withdrawn and the house adjourned.

NOTES.

The liberal caucus this morning was presided over by Mr. Edwards. M. P. for Russell. As anticipated, the I. C. R. administration was the principal topic of discussion. Some of the eastern Quebec members and some from the maritime provinces were particularly wrathful over the way the patronage has been dispensed by Mr. Blair, and assurances were given that the minister would do better.

Ald. Dan Galloway of Montreal was made one of the Quebec whips.

The debate on the address was continued, Hon. Messrs. Scott and Ferguson being the principal speakers.

WILL DEMAND FULL ENQUIRY.

OTTAWA, Feb. 18.—The conservative party will demand a full explanation of the Tread gold hydraulic concessions, which savors of a big job. Telegrams enquiring about the matter have been pouring in from the Pacific coast all day. The concession is for 30 years and gives the grantees the right to locate hydraulic claims on any ungranted portions of the Klondike and its tributaries and the sole right to distribute water to miners. It is claimed that existing rights are not interfered with, the company is bound to expend a quarter of a million on its works by next December, and to give the owners of the existing claims the prior right to half the water supply at $1 per inch per hour. The question is who is getting the rake-off.

RUPERT E. SULLIVAN.

Henry J. Sullivan, of No. 12 Charles Street, received a despatch last evening bearing the sad intelligence of the death of his son, Rupert, from pneumonia, in Baltimore, Md. During the afternoon a message had come stating that the young man was seriously ill, which in a measure prepared the family for the news of his death.

Rupert Enslow Sullivan was the eldest son in a family of five brothers and two sisters. He was born 27 years ago in Boston, but had resided the greater part of his life in this city. A few years ago he was on the editorial staff of the Gazette, and later a worker on the Associated Press in New York. It was in this connection that he went through the Spanish-American war. Later he worked for the C. P. R. at Sand Point here, after which he was transferred to Toronto. From that city, after extensive journeyings through the states, he removed to Baltimore and secured the position of day superintendent on a floating steel dock, which the Louisiana government had purchased for use at New Orleans. Deceased travelled to New Orleans with the dock, and had but lately returned to Baltimore.

Mr. Sullivan has wired instructions to have the body brought here for burial.

MISS PERCY HASWELL.

An Old St. John Favorite Will Leave Baltimore.

Miss Percy Haswell, the proprietor of the Percy Haswell stock company, which is successfully established at Chase's Lyceum Theatre, Baltimore, will, at the close of the current theatrical year, cease to be a permanent factor in the amusement field of that city. Miss Haswell has conducted negotiations which have been pending for some weeks with Henry B. Harris. An agreement covering a long term of years has been signed, by the terms of which Miss Haswell will star under Mr. Harris's management, beginning next September. She will appear first in "A Royal Family," in which she will play the role created by Miss Annie Russell. Mr. Harris has secured the rights of the play for America and Canada and has purchased the complete production employed during its long run at the Lyceum Theatre, New York. When Mr. Harris has made his production of "Soldiers of Fortune," in which Robert Edson will make his debut as a star, on February 17, at New Haven, appearing early in March at a Broadway theatre, he will engage a strong supporting company for Miss Haswell. At the conclusion of her tour in "A Royal Family" Mr. Harris will present Miss Haswell at his new New York theatre, the Hudson, in a new play.

SEAMEN'S MISSION COMMITTEES ORGANIZE.
